African American Authors, 1745-1945 Emmanuel S. Nelson, 2000-01-30 There has been a dramatic resurgence of interest in early African American writing Since the accidental rediscovery and republication of Harriet Wilson's Our Nig in 1983 the works of dozens of 19th and early 20th century black writers have been recovered and reprinted There is now a significant revival of interest in the Harlem Renaissance of the 1920s and in the last decade alone several major assessments of 18th and 19th century African American literature have been published Early African American literature builds on a strong oral tradition of songs folktales and sermons Slave narratives began to appear during the late 18th and early 19th century and later writers began to engage a variety of themes in diverse genres A central objective of this reference book is to provide a wide ranging introduction to the first 200 years of African American literature Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 78 black writers active between 1745 and 1945 Among these writers are essayists novelists short story writers poets playwrights and autobiographers Each entry is written by an expert contributor and provides a biography a discussion of major works and themes an overview of the author's critical reception and primary and secondary bibliographies The volume concludes with a selected general bibliography

Aspects of Modernism Andreas Fischer, Martin Heusser, Thomas Herrmann, 1997 Nationalism, Marxism, and African American Literature between the Wars Anthony Dawahare, 2009-09-18 During and after the Harlem Renaissance two intellectual forces nationalism and Marxism clashed and changed the future of African American writing Current literary thinking says that writers with nationalist leanings wrote the most relevant fiction poetry and prose of the day Nationalism Marxism and African American Literature Between the Wars A New Pandora's Box challenges that notion It boldly proposes that such writers as A. Philip Randolph Langston Hughes and Richard Wright who often saw the world in terms of class struggle did more to advance the anti racist politics of African American letters than writers such as Countee Cullen Jessie Redmon Fauset Alain Locke and Marcus Garvey who remained enmeshed in nationalist and racist discourse Evaluating the great impact of Marxism and nationalism on black authors from the Harlem Renaissance and the Depression era Anthony Dawahare argues that the spread of nationalist ideologies and movements between the world wars did guide legitimate political desires of black writers for a world without racism But the nationalist channels of political and cultural resistance did not address the capitalist foundation of modern racial discrimination During the period known as the Red Decade 1929 1941 black writers developed some of the sharpest critiques of the capitalist world and thus anticipated contemporary scholarship on the intellectual and political hazards of nationalism for the working class As it examines the progression of the Great Depression the book focuses on the shift of black writers to the Communist Left including analyses of the Communists position on the Negro Question the radical poetry of Langston Hughes and the writings of Richard Wright
