

The book cover features a textured green background with a large, light-brown, stylized shape resembling a 'V' or a calligraphic letter. At the bottom, there are two circular, light-brown shapes, each containing several dark, rounded objects that look like stones or seeds. The title is written in a serif font, with 'South Africa's' in italics and 'ENVIRONMENTAL HISTORY' in all caps. The subtitle 'Cases & Comparisons' is also in italics.

South Africa's Environmental History Cases Comparisons Ecology History:

South Africa's Environmental History Stephen Dovers, Ruth Edgecombe, Bill Guest, 2003 This is a study of the impact of humans on the environment in the history of South Africa and the role that the environment has played in shaping the history of human development in the country It consists of two parts The first is a series of local and particular studies such as the invasion of prickly pear in the Eastern Cape the impact of windmills and barbed wire on farming practice and the environment in the Karoo and ecological change in the Lake St Lucia region The second is a series of regional and continental comparisons that consider the similarities and differences in the environmental histories of South Africa South America South Asia Australia and the rest of Africa book cover Rethinking South Africa's Past Christopher J. Lee, Andrew

Offenburger, 2025-03-18 This book presents key historical scholarship published in Safundi from 1999 to 2024 tracing South Africa's past through approaches of comparative history transnational history and visual history in addition to addressing the importance of topics like gender labor and class dynamics as well as regional historiographies The first section of the book focuses on comparative history as a founding method for Safundi given the journal's origins in American and South African studies while also recalibrating this approach through a variety of topics cities biographies and practices of violence rather than nation states writ large Drawing upon innovative sources of evidence the second section moves beyond the comparative method to address transnational histories as a new narrative technique for storytelling and analysis Whether issues of education immigration or visiting musicians to South Africa these chapters demonstrate the importance of a post national approach for understanding the past The sections that follow fan out into other subject areas including the uses of visual history gender roles class cultures and environmental history all of which illuminate connections between South African history and other parts of the world This book will be an indispensable resource for scholars students activists and policymakers as well as those readers who are generally interested in understanding South Africa's complex history over the past several centuries A Companion to Global Environmental History J. R. McNeill, Erin Stewart Mauldin, 2015-05-04

The Companion to Global Environmental History offers multiple points of entry into the history and historiography of this dynamic and fast growing field to provide an essential road map to past developments current controversies and future developments for specialists and newcomers alike Combines temporal geographic thematic and contextual approaches from prehistory to the present day Explores environmental thought and action around the world to give readers a cultural intellectual and political context for engagement with the environment in modern times Brings together environmental historians from around the world including scholars from South Africa Brazil Germany and China The Oxford

Handbook of Environmental History Andrew C. Isenberg, 2017 The Oxford Handbook of Environmental History draws on a wealth of new scholarship to offer diverse perspectives on the state of the field African Environmental Crisis Gufu Oba, 2020-03-13 This book explores how and why the idea of the African environmental crisis developed and persisted through colonial and post colonial periods and why it has been so influential in development discourse From the beginnings of imperial administration the idea of the desiccation of African environments grew in popularity but this crisis discourse was dominated by the imposition of imperial scientific knowledge neglecting indigenous knowledge and experience African Environmental Crisis provides a synthesis of more than one and a half century s research on peasant agriculture and pastoral rangeland development in terms of soil erosion control animal husbandry grazing schemes large scale agricultural schemes social and administrative science research and vector disease and pest controls Drawing on comparative socio ecological perspectives of African peoples across the East African colonies and post independent states this book refutes the hypothesis that African peoples were responsible for environmental degradation Instead Gufu Oba argues that flawed imperial assumptions and short term research projects generated an inaccurate view of the environment in Africa This book s discussion of the history of science for development provides researchers across environmental studies agronomy African history and development studies with a lens through which to understand the underlying assumptions behind development projects in Africa The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license Indigenous Knowledge and the Environment in Africa and North America David M. Gordon,Shepard Krech III,2012-03-01 Indigenous knowledge has become a catchphrase in global struggles for environmental justice Yet indigenous knowledges are often viewed incorrectly as pure and primordial cultural artifacts This collection draws from African and North American cases to argue that the forms of knowledge identified as indigenous resulted from strategies to control environmental resources during and after colonial encounters At times indigenous knowledges represented a middle ground of intellectual exchanges between colonizers and colonized elsewhere indigenous knowledges were defined through conflict and struggle The authors demonstrate how people claimed that their hybrid forms of knowledge were communal religious and traditional as opposed to individualist secular and scientific which they associated with European colonialism Indigenous Knowledge and the Environment offers comparative and transnational insights that disturb romantic views of unchanging indigenous knowledges in harmony with the environment The result is a book that informs and complicates how indigenous knowledges can and should relate to environmental policy making Contributors David Bernstein Derick Fay Andrew H Fisher Karen Flint David M Gordon Paul Kelton Shepard Krech III Joshua Reid Parker Shipton Lance van Sittert Jacob Tropp James L A Webb Jr Marsha Weisiger Imperial Gullies Kate Barger Showers,2005 Once the grain basket for South Africa much of Lesotho has become a scarred and treeless wasteland The nation s spectacular gullying has concerned environmentalists and conservationists for more than half a century In Imperial Gullies Soil Erosion and Conservation in Lesotho Kate B Showers documents the truth behind this devastation Showers reconstructs the history of the landscape beginning with a history of the soil She concludes that Lesotho s distinctive erosion chasms called dongas often cited as an example of destructive land use practices by African farmers actually were caused by colonial and postcolonial practices The residents of Lesotho emerge as victims of a failed technology Their efforts to mitigate or resist implementation of destructive soil conservation engineering works were thwarted and they were blamed for the consequences of policies promoted by international soil conservationists since the 1930s Imperial Gullies calls for an observational experimental and most importantly a fully consultative and participatory approach to address Lesotho's serious contemporary problems of soil erosion The first book to bring to center stage the historical practice of colonial soil science and a cautionary tale of western science in unfamiliar terrain it will interest a broad interdisciplinary audience in African and environmental studies social sciences and history Showers shows how local people understood that colonial contour conservation methods and road building actually stimulated gully erosion something colonial scientists failed to realize Overall it is undoubtedly one of the most important books written to date on any part of the environmental history of Africa Moreover it stands out in the discipline of environmental history in general as an unusually sophisticated work of great insight and explanatory power Richard H Grove author of Green Imperialism Colonial Expansion Tropical Island Edens and the Origins of Environmentalism 1600-1860 Kate B Showers is a visiting research fellow and senior research associate at the Centre for World Environmental History University of Sussex England She has lived in rural Lesotho and has served as head of research Institute of Southern African Studies National University of Lesotho

Creating Africa's Knut Nustad, 2015-05-21 In Africa conflicts between protected areas for fauna and flora and space for their surrounding human populations continue despite years spent trying to find an accommodation between the needs of both parties Creating Africa's investigates the roots of the current conservation boom demonstrates that it is part of a struggle over various definitions of existing realities and examines the global effects of this struggle The book discusses the first UNESCO World Heritage Site in South Africa the Isimangaliso St Lucia Wetland Park Here conservation interests are pitted against those of industrial forestry commercial farming and local communities struggling to have their lands returned to them They all seek to define and create their own realities but do so with very different resources at their disposal In his expert analysis Nustad treats these realities not as different representations but rather as multiple often competing viewpoints that involve a wide range of actors both human and non human Nustad posits that in order to avoid being accused of neo colonial land grabbing the conservation lobby will need to find a new way of imagining nature and protection that includes people

Triumph of the Expert Joseph Morgan Hodge, 2007 Triumph of the Expert is a history of British colonial policy and thinking and its contribution to the emergence of rural development and environmental policies in the late colonial and postcolonial period

The Balancing of Interests in Environmental Law in Africa Willemien Du Plessis, 2011 Now that economic development is starting to pick up in many countries in Africa the question arises how such development can be balanced with the need for adequate environmental protection This crucial issue inherent in the notion of sustainable development is addressed in this innovative and path breaking volume For the first time academics from seventeen African countries have joined forces to analyse the way in which economic and environmental interests are balanced in their legal systems. The authors all use a common framework to improve the comparability of the country studies. The different country related chapters do not only provide insights into the formally applicable legal rules, law in the books, but given that the book brings together academics aware of the practice in Africa, they also describe the way in which environmental policy functions in practice, law in action. Many case studies with conceptual analyses are provided of pollution incidents and the way in which administrative agencies or courts have on those occasions balanced the interests between the economy, society and the environment. A critical comparative analysis by the editors points at tendencies towards convergence and points of divergence between the African countries. Suggestions for policy reform are also formulated, showing African countries how they can benefit from experiences in the US and Europe. This thought provoking volume is a must for anyone academic, policymaker or practitioner interested in sustainable development generally and in Africa in particular. P 4 of cover
