Building Apartheid Nicholas Coetzer,2016-04-22 Through a specific architectural lens this book exposes the role the British Empire played in the development of apartheid Through reference to previously unexamined archival material the book uncovers a myriad of mechanisms through which Empire laid the foundations onto which the edifice of apartheid was built It unearths the significant role British architects and British architectural ideas played in facilitating white dominance and racial segregation in pre apartheid Cape Town To achieve this the book follows the progenitor of the Garden City Movement Ebenezer Howard in its tripartite structure of Country Town Suburb acknowledging the Garden City Movement s dominance at the Cape at the time This tripartite structure also provides a significant match to postcolonial schemas of Self Other Same which underpin the three parts to the book Much is owed to Edward Said s discursive analytical approach in Orientalism and the work of Homi Bhabha in the definition and interpretation of archival material This material ranges across written and visual representations in journals and newspapers through exhibitions and events to legislative acts as well as the physicality of the various architectural objects studied The book concludes by drawing attention to the ideological potency of architecture which tends to be veiled more so through its ubiquitous presence and in doing so it presents not only a story peculiar to Imperial Cape Town but one inherent to architecture more broadly The concluding chapter also provides a timely mirror for the machinations currently at play in establishing a post apartheid architecture and urbanity in the new South Africa

Consensus, Conflict, and Change Margaret Peil,Olatunji Y. Oyene,1998 Two very distinguished sociologists here undertake an extensive and comparative examination of African societies from a sociological perspective addressing the various aspects and agents of transformation The study is against the background of the transformation of African societies triggered by such factors as dysfunctions within values beliefs and norms general economic and political factors and adjustments due to external forces particularly new culture and technologies The issues are examined from the perspective that democratisation modernisation and globalisation are forces influencing African societies whilst traditional values and cultures produce a conflict of interest The chapters cover social organisation interaction differentiation families education religion economic activities cities social problems and social change

A History of the World from the 20th to the 21st Century John Ashley Soames Grenville,2005 Provides a comprehensive survey of the key events and personalities of this period

Intersectionality, Transnationalism, and the History of Education Deirdre Raftery,Stephanie Spencer,2024-10-26 This volume brings together a diverse range of contributors to explore the significance of intersectionality and transnationalism with reference to the history of education The chapters cover a range of educational spaces and places and demonstrate the possibilities that theoretical approaches can offer to scholars at all levels of their academic career The chapters focus specifically on women s activism in order to maintain a coherent framework of research that is brought together in an introduction and concluding thoughts The significance of gender as relational and a symbol of power ensures that men and masculinities are not overlooked but recognized as integral to understanding gender dynamics as they affected women s education and the ways in which that education took place Consolidating
