Strategic Issues In The Economic Development Or Melanesian Agriculture:

Strategic Issues in the Economic Development of Melanesian Agriculture Euan Fleming, J. B. Hardaker, 1997

Reforming Trade Policy in Papua New Guinea and the Pacific Islands Kym Anderson, Malcolm Bosworth, 2009 The countries of the South Pacific have struggled to generate sustainable economic growth since their independence Interventionist policies have failed in the past here as they have in all other regions Business and government leaders in this region are now beginning to acknowledge as has happened in many other developing country regions over the past two decades that major reforms are needed to put their economies onto a higher growth path This study examines the growth record of key Pacific island economies and identifies the reasons for their relatively poor performance It then looks at the process of globalization that is affecting those and indeed all economies increasingly and the role the WTO has played in that process

Pacific 2010 J. B. Hardaker, Euan Fleming, 1994 Part of the Pacific 2010 series which focuses on the need to plan for the long term requirements of the island states of the South Pacific Addresses strategic questions about the longer term development of Melanesian agriculture in the light of current problems and emerging trends in the environment Suggests ways of changing agriculture to become a powerful part of Melanesian economies by the year 2010 Includes a bibliography and index J Brian Hardaker is professor and head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Business Management at the University of New England Euan Fleming is a lecturer in agricultural economies at the University of New England

Pacific 2010 Marion Wybourn Ward, 1995 One of the monographs in a series which reports on the National Centre for Development Studies project Pacific 2010 Examines the status of women in the Solomon Islands and outlines measures underway to address women's subordination Issues such as women and education employment unemployment self employment and work in subsistence agriculture are examined The author argues that while women make a significant contribution to the growth and development of the economy in the Solomon Islands sweeping changes are necessary at all levels of government to address the status of women Includes six tables of figures and a list of references The author is a consultant who has carried out a number of studies concerning the advancement of women in developing and developed countries and has worked in most South Pacific countries

Property Rights and Economic Development Toon van Meijl, Franz von Benda-Beckham, 2012-11-12 First Published in 1999 This book provides a critical analysis of the widespread assumption that the formalisation and standardisation of property rights through state legislation has a positive impact on economic development It is based on anthropological case studies of land and natural resource rights in Southeast Asia and Oceania These suggest that the economic impact of the formalisation of property rights is not necessarily positive certainly not for all categories of peoples They also suggest that state reform of property rights do not necessarily eliminate the conditions of legal pluralism but rather add new legal structures to an already complex constellation of property rights and duties The point of departure for the empirical analyses of the central hypothesis examined in this book is that the practical significance of complex forms of property rights and related socio economic practices cannot be usefully examined within formalistic one dimensional and normatively oriented legalistic or economic approaches Instead an anthropological approach to law is advocated in order to analyse the complicated multi dimensional relationships between property rights and economic development and their embeddedness in social practice Based on this approach the contributions to this book show how different people and institutions attribute different meanings to the various components of property relationships and how they use them as resources in their everyday lives and social struggles

Fiji Economic & Development Strategy Handbook Volume 1 Strategic Information and Developments IBP USA,2013-08 Too often in the history of Mexico women have been portrayed as marginal figures rather than legitimate participants in social processes As the twentieth century draws to a close Mexican women of the countryside can be seen as true historical actors mothers and heads of households factory and field workers community activists artisans and merchants In this new book thirteen contributions by historians anthropologists and sociologists from Mexico as well as the United States elucidate the roles of women and changing gender relations in Mexico as rural families negotiated the transition from an agrarian to an industrial society Drawing on Mexican community studies gender studies and rural studies these essays overturn the stereotypes of Mexican peasant women by exploring the complexity of their lives and roles and examining how these have changed over time The book emphasizes the active roles of women in the periods of civil war 1854 76 and the commercialization of agriculture 1880 1910 It highlights their vigorous responses to the violence of revolution their increased mobility and their interaction with state reforms in the period from 1910 to 1940 The final essays focus on changing gender relations in the countryside under the impact of rapid urbanization and industrialization since 1940 Because histories of Latin American women have heretofore neglected rural areas this volume will serve as a touchstone for all who would better understand women's lives in a region of increasing international economic importance Women of the Mexican Countryside demonstrates that contrary to the peasant stereotype these women have accepted complex roles to meet constantly changing situations

Introduction to New Caledonia Gilad James, PhD, New Caledonia is a French territory located in the South Pacific Ocean It consists of a main island known as Grande Terre and several smaller islands The population of New Caledonia is around 280 000 with the majority of the population living in the capital city of Noumea on Grande Terre The official language is French but the indigenous Kanak people also speak several indigenous languages The economy of New Caledonia is largely dependent on the mining industry specifically nickel production which accounts for around 80% of the country's export revenue. Tourism is also important with visitors attracted to the country's beautiful beaches, coral reefs, and unique cultural heritage. New Caledonia has a complex cultural and political history. It was originally inhabited by the Kanak people who had their own distinct cultures and languages. The territory was then colonized by the French in the 19th century and used as a penal colony. In the 20th century, the decolonization movement led to a rise in Kanak nationalism and demands for independence. This resulted in a period of violence and conflict known as the Events of the 1980s, which eventually led to the signing of the Noumea Accord in 1998. The accord provided for a gradual transfer of power from France to New Caledonia, with a referendum on independence planned for 2021. The political situation in New Caledonia remains contentious, with sharp divisions between those who support independence and those who wish to maintain ties with France.
