Strategic Networks Creating The Borderless Organization:

Strategic Networks J Carlos Jarillo, 2013-01-11 Strategic Networks examines the new style of industrial co ordination which enables independent companies to work so closely together that they can sometimes present a single face to the outside world Co ordination is not achieved by mergers and acquisitions but through the creation of a strategic network of companies working towards the same goals Based on the author s extensive research the book first analyses the economic arguments for industry co ordination and suggests in which industries it is most likely to occur The second part of the book focuses on managerial implications for this type of organization impact on responsibilities control without ownership co operation instead of competition how to set up alliances and how to maintain them A wide range of international examples and cases are featured in the book J Carlos Jarillo is Professor of Strategy at the University of Geneva previously Professor of General Management and International Strategy at IMD Switzerland His research on strategy has been widely published in more than two dozen articles and books He also acts as senior adviser to a large number of international corporations

DiVanna,2003-05-23 Synconomy argues that the operating state of a firm has a synergistic relationship with the behaviour of the entire marketplace This will be important in order to understand the value of the firm and predict its performance The book will explore the business conditions of an ever more interoperating global economic marketplace in which companies customers and competitors collaborate on many issues The book proposes a new approach to measuring value in this inter connected global framework Thinking about Management Ian Palmer,Cynthia Hardy,2000 This radical text presents central management questions that managers and students need to work with and understand Key debates in management theory are taken out of their academic setting and discussed in relation to management experience Exercises examples illustrations and summaries bring the problems and dilemmas alive for the student From people management to organizational culture leadership to learning institutional power to individual innovation the multi faceted territory of management is explored and opened up Regional Strategies in a Global Economy René Haak,Dennis S. Tachiki,2004 Both proponents and opponents of globalization assume it is a process that sweeps across national borders Indeed over the last twenty years the key features of globalization provide prima facie evidence for this conventional wisdom Dramatic developments in information and communications technology the rise of global companies and production networks the unstoppable internationalization of financial markets and the deregulation and privatization of service sectors are all important examples of how this process unfolds in its raw form Nevertheless the increase in regional economic activity is another striking feature of this process As multinational corporations extend their global reach regional networks also emerge in the global trading system Globalization therefore does not only mean a global convulsion of economies but could also lead to a spatial concentration of economic activity All through the 1990s and at the beginning of the new century East Asia experienced numerous structural changes leading to interesting market developments South Korea s rise to developed country status the integration of the Southeast Asian economies and the rise of China have made this region the manufacturing center of the global economy Considering the economic importance of Japan and the other East Asian nations in the world the crucial questions that arise include What are the linkages between the global strategies of multinational corporations and their regional business operations Why do subregional strategies emerge especially recently to take advantage of China as a production base and market Are the modern business practices in a multinational corporation s home country easily transferred to their overseas operations and are they readily absorbed by local employees Finally which strategic directions are Japanese American East Asian and European enterprises going in this important business area of the world To answer these questions this book takes a closer look at several structural features of the East Asian economy and the corporate and business strategies of multinational corporations The volume assembles up to date research by a number of European Australian and Japanese scholars and presents analysis of various business aspects of regional strategies in a global economy

Collaborative Networks for a Sustainable World Luis M. Camarinha-Matos, Xavier Boucher, Hamideh Afsarmanesh, 2010-09-21 Collaborative Networks for a Sustainable World Aiming to reach a sustainable world calls for a wider collaboration among multiple stakeholders from different origins as the changes needed for sustainability exceed the capacity and capability of any individual actor In recent years there has been a growing awareness both in the political sphere and in civil society including the business sectors on the importance of sustainability Therefore this is an important and timely research issue not only in terms of systems design but also as an effort to borrow and integrate contributions from different disciplines when designing and governing those systems The discipline of collaborative networks especially which has already emerged in many application sectors shall play a key role in the implementation of effective sustainability strategies PRO VE 2010 focused on sharing knowledge and experiences as well as identifying directions for further research and development in this area The conference dressed models infrastructures support tools and governance principles developed for collaborative networks as important resources to support multi stakeholder sustainable developments Furthermore the challenges of this theme open new research directions for CNs PRO VE 2010 held in St

Winning Strategies in a Deconstructing World Rudi K. F. Bresser, Michael A. Hitt, Robert D. Nixon, Dieter Heuskel, 2000-12-19 The end of the nineteenth century saw the construction of the vertically integrated value chains that came to define modern business The end of the twentieth century witnessed their deconstruction In industries across the economy markets are intruding on the web of proprietary arrangements that have held these chains together As they do the boundaries defining business companies and industries are coming under attack radically transforming the nature of competition Powerful forces such as globalization and deregulation are undermining the logic and practice of traditional vertical integration but the most powerful partly because it acts as catalyst and an accelerator is a revolution in the economics of information This shift in information economics is giving birth to a myriad of new strategic options The consequences of deconstruction for the strategic management of the firm as well as for the firm itself are dramatic Deconstruction forces a fundamental rethinking of some of the basic principles of strategy which will impact on the concepts of the portfolio forms of organizational structure styles of leadership mechanisms for acquiring and managing knowledge and approaches to uncertainty and risk This the latest volume in the Strategic Management Series explores the implications of the value chain deconstruction for strategy the changes in strategic thinking and the action necessary to cope with the challenges and opportunities Bringing together contributions from key figures in the field of strategy in both practice and academia this book as with other books in the series addresses the ideas and issues at the forefront of strategic management theory and practice Freight Forwarder's Intermediary Role in Multimodal Transport Chains Hans-Joachim

Schramm,2012-01-05 In this book the business of international freight forwarding is examined from both a theoretical and empirical point of view with a special emphasis on multimodal transport chains including sea or air transport operations In such contexts the freight forwarder is always considered The Architect of Transport but this intermediary role seems to be largely neglected in research to date Therefore relevant concepts from economic theory and economic sociology are employed to produce both an intermediary and a network perspective of freight forwarding in order to provide a better understanding of this kind of transportation business Furthermore its intermediary role in such inherent network structures is explored by mapping relationship patterns in a stylized model framework applied to a questionnaire based sample collected among freight forwarders engaged in such multimodal transport chains in Germany especially from Hamburg Bremen and Bremerhaven as well as in Austria in 2003 Innovation, Science, and Institutional Change Jerald Hage,Marius

T. H. Meeus,2006-10-26 Innovation is a key factor not just in the research design process but in policy institutions society This handbook is unique in examining research findings new theoretical models relating to innovation at a number of analytic levels projects organizations industrial sectors society Innovation and Institutions Steven Casper,Frans van

Waarden,2005-01-01 The idea behind this book is that institutions are important when it comes to explaining the specialisation and performance of national innovation systems The idea is not new But largely the institution concept has remained somewhat vague and unspecified in the literature This book is valuable since it succeeds in opening up the black box of institutions and organisations The distinction between institutions at different levels and how they link up and form a systemic whole is especially original and fruitful The interdisciplinary team behind the book has also produced a welcome antidote to the current tendency to benchmark innovation systems exclusively on the basis of quantitative indicators The analysis demonstrates that some national systems do better in some specific areas because of being supported by institutions that are sometimes deeply rooted in history and culture This is why imitating best practice across countries is not a straight forward thing to do Bengt ke Lundvall Aalborg University Denmark Innovation and Institutions is an extensive elaboration on the make up of systems of innovation It examines why some countries are more innovative than others why national styles of innovation differ and goes on to explore why some countries make radical innovations but fail to successfully market them whilst others making incremental innovations have more commercial success The book draws on a variety of different literatures and perspectives to illustrate the organizational and institutional dimensions of national innovation systems Literatures discussed include the economics of innovation organizational sociology administrative science institutional economics organizational learning network analysis business systems economic governance and regulation This truly interdisciplinary book will be invaluable to academics and researchers focussing on innovation in a wide range of fields It will
