Conflict Transformation and Peacemaking Jacques L. Koko,2008-03-30 Events in the post Cold War era have challenged the notions of realism and realpolitik with an upsurge in intrastate conflicts involving other actors than just the state During this period the international community has witnessed the limitations of the tenets of realism for addressing disastrous civil wars or ethno political conflicts internal to the states Largely because of this and alongside the emerging field of conflict resolution in western countries transitional conflict resolution mechanisms emerged with characteristic multi track diplomacy orientations for solving national problems within African countries By the end of the 1980s and early 1990s several African countries including South Africa Burundi and Sierra Leone resorted to either a Truth and Reconciliation Commission or an international tribunal to handle violence and restore peace and justice In the same period other African countries opted for what was called national conference to solve their national problems and transform conflict into an opportunity for structural change In February 1990 the Republic of Benin a small nation state in West Africa achieved peace through a national conference The national conference in Benin was a national gathering for crisis resolution through social debates on critical issues facing the nation and political decision making for constructive changes As a pioneer Benin led the political change movement of the national conference and was later followed by eight other African countries namely Chad Congo Brazzaville Gabon Mali Niger Togo the Central African Republic and the former Zaire now known as the Democratic Republic of Congo To date most of the existing literature on the subject explores the phenomenon of national conference as something of a prelude to political transition to multipartyism and democracy Part of the literature depicts the national conference as a civil coup d etat and recommends its institutionalization as a system for democratic transitions This book takes a different approach by conceptualizing the national conference phenomenon as a multi track diplomacy tool or as a process for conflict transformation and peacemaking Building upon theories of conflict and conflict resolution the author analyzes the national conference as a unique diplomatic approach to transforming national crisis which expands the scope of strategies for peacemaking      Winning the War by Winning the Peace: Strategy for Conflict and Post-Conflict in the 21st Century ,      The Strategy of Nonviolent Defense Robert J. Burrowes,1996-01-01 Addresses the question of whether nonviolent defense can be an effective strategy against military violence Drawing from the strategic theory of Carl von Clausewitz the nonviolence of Mahatma Gandhi and recent human needs and conflict theory Burrowes develops a new strategic theory of nonviolent defense      Military Strategy of Middle Powers Håkan Edström,Jacob Westberg,2020-10-15 Military Strategy of Middle Powers explores to what degree twenty first century middle powers adjust their military strategies due to changes in the international order such as the decline in US power The overarching objective of the book is to explain continuity and change in the strategies of a group of middle powers during the twenty first century These strategies are described compared and explained through the lens of Realism In order to find potential explanations for change or continuity within the cases as well as for similarities and differences between the cases the strategies of 11 middle powers are analysed Canada Germany Italy Spain Australia Brazil Indonesia South Africa India Japan and South Korea This group of countries are considered similar in several important aspects primarily regarding relative power capacity When searching for potential explanations for different strategic behaviours among the middle powers their unique regional characteristics are a key focus and consequently the impact of the structure and polarity as well as the patterns of amity and enmity of the regional context are analysed The empirical investigation is focused on security strategies used since the terrorist attacks 9 11 2001 which was one of the first major challenges to US hegemony This book will be of much interest to students of military and strategic studies foreign policy and International Relations in general      Thomas Schelling and the Nuclear Age Robert Ayson,2004-07 An illuminating insight into the work of Thomas Schelling one of the most influential strategic thinkers of the nuclear age By the time of the Cuban Missile Crisis and the United States early forays into Vietnam he had become one of the most distinctive voices in Western strategy This book shows how Schelling s thinking is much more than a reaction to the tensions of the Cold War In a demonstration that ideas can be just as significant as superpower politics Robert Ayson traces the way this Harvard University professor built a unique intellectual framework using a mix of social scientific reasoning from economics to social theory and psychology As such this volume offers a rare glimpse into the intellectual history which underpins classical thinking on nuclear strategy and arms control thinking which still has an enormous influence in the early twenty first century      Schools for Strategy: Teaching Strategy for 21st Century Conflict Colin S. Gray,2011 All would be strategists would benefit by some formal education However for education in strategy to be well directed it needs to rest upon sound assumptions concerning the eternal nature yet ever shifting character meaning and function of strategy as well as the range of behaviors required for effective strategic performance The author emphasizes the necessity for strategic education to help develop the strategic approach the way of thinking that can solve or illuminate strategic problems He advises that such education should not strive for a spurious relevance by presenting a military variant of current affairs The author believes that the strategist will perform better in today's world if he has mastered and can employ strategy's general theory

Unicist strategy for family businesses , The Logic of American Nuclear Strategy Matthew Kroenig, 2018-01-25 For decades the reigning scholarly wisdom about nuclear weapons policy has been that the United States only needs the ability to absorb an enemy nuclear attack and still be able to respond with a devastating counterattack So long as the US or any other nation retains such an assured retaliation capability no sane leader would intentionally launch a nuclear attack against it and nuclear deterrence will hold According to this theory possessing more weapons than necessary for a second strike capability is illogical This argument is reasonable but when compared to the empirical record it raises an important puzzle Empirically we see that the United States has always maintained a nuclear posture that is much more robust than a mere second strike capability In The Logic of American Nuclear Strategy Matthew Kroenig challenges the conventional wisdom and explains why a robust nuclear posture above and beyond a mere second strike capability contributes to a state's national security goals In fact when a state has a robust nuclear weapons force such a capability reduces its expected costs in a war provides it with bargaining leverage and ultimately enhances nuclear deterrence This book provides a novel theoretical explanation for why military nuclear advantages translate into geopolitical advantages In so doing it helps resolve one of the most intractable puzzles in international security studies Buoyed by an innovative thesis and a vast array of historical and quantitative evidence The Logic of American Nuclear Strategy will force scholars to reconsider their basic assumptions about the logic of nuclear deterrence

Management, Conflict Resolution and Strategy Magdalena Kraczla, Anna Wziątek-Staśko, 2024-08-02 Managers are key people in building the success of any organization Business results depend on their efficiency in the implementation of the power entrusted to them This efficiency on the other hand largely depends on psychosocial competences and personality predispositions One of the main factors affecting destructively on managers is stress destroying the level of their motivation to work the level of commitment and ultimately resulting in premature professional burnout and a significant reduction in the level of efficiency Ultimately instead of efficient and motivated specialists companies are struggling with employees suffering from depression Exploration of the issue of identifying the sources of stress draws attention to conflict as one of the main research categories that are closely related to the category of stress It is worth emphasizing that this relationship is two way conflict determines the level of stress stress may determine the scale of conflict situations This recommended monograph provides the latest knowledge on what contemporary managers use conflict resolution styles and what strategies they choose to deal with in stressful situations A particular advantage of the study is the presentation of the links between both research categories which are so paramount nowadays The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license Any third party material in this book is not included in the OA Creative Commons license unless indicated otherwise in a credit line to the material

Please direct any permissions enquiries to the original rightsholder Nuclear Strategy in the Modern Era Vipin Narang, 2014-05-25 The world is in a second nuclear age in which regional powers play an increasingly prominent role These states have small nuclear arsenals often face multiple active conflicts and sometimes have weak institutions How do these nuclear states and potential future ones manage their nuclear forces and influence international conflict Examining the reasoning and deterrence consequences of regional power nuclear strategies this book demonstrates that these strategies matter greatly to international stability and it provides new insights into conflict dynamics across important areas of the world such as the Middle East East Asia and South Asia Vipin Narang identifies the diversity of regional power nuclear strategies and describes in detail the posture each regional power has adopted over time Developing a theory for the sources of regional power nuclear strategies he offers the first systematic explanation of why states choose the postures they do and under what conditions they might shift strategies Narang then analyzes the effects of these choices on a state's ability to deter conflict Using both quantitative and qualitative analysis he shows that contrary to a bedrock article of faith in the canon of nuclear deterrence the acquisition of nuclear weapons does not produce a uniform deterrent effect against opponents Rather some postures deter conflict more successfully than others Nuclear Strategy in the Modern Era considers the range of nuclear choices made by regional powers and the critical challenges they pose to modern international security

The Strategy of Letters Mette Hjort, 1993 Although literary theories describe a world of strategies textual discursive interpretive and political what is missing is the strategist Poststructuralists try to explain agency as the effect of large scale systems or formations as a result intuitions about individual action and responsibility are expressed in terms of impersonal strategies Mette Hjort's book responds to this situation by proposing an alternative account of strategic action one that brings the strategist back into the picture Hjort analyzes influential statements made by Derrida Foucault and others to show how proposed conceptions of strategy are contradictory underdeveloped and at odds with the actual use of the term Why then has the term acquired such rhetorical force Since strategy evokes conflict Hjort suggests its very use calls into question various pieties of idealism and humanism and emphasizes a desired break between modernism and postmodernism It follows that a theory of strategy must explore some of the psychological implications of conflict and Hjort pursues these implications through traditions as diverse as game theory discourse ethics and the philosophy of war Unstable frames self deception promiscuous pragmatism and social emotion are some of the phenomena she explores as she develops her account of strategic action in the highly competitive domain of letters In her reflection on strategy Hjort draws on such literary examples as Troilus and Cressida Tartuffe the autobiographical writings of Holberg and early modern French and English treatises on theater For its well informed and incisive arguments and literary historical case studies this book will be invaluable to literary theorists and will appeal to readers interested in drama philosophy and literature aesthetics and theories of agency and rationality National military strategy of the United States of America 1995 : a strategy of flexible and selective engagement ,      Friendship and Communication Strategy in Interpersonal Negotiation Robert Wingate,2010-07-25 This is Robert Wingate s original research from 1980 81 for his Masters thesis at Kansas University Significant results were reported for several factors related to friendship and communication strategy as they pertain to the solutions reached in interpersonal negotiation      Soviet Strategy in the Middle East George W. Breslauer,2015-07-16 Few regions of the world are as politically turbulent as the Middle East and nowhere is the potential for superpower conflict greater How does the Soviet Union view the Middle east conflict Can the USSR play a constructive role in the peace process In this volume first published in 1990 these questions and others central to an understanding of Soviet strategy in the region are addressed Previous analysts of Soviet Middle Eastern relations have tended to emphasize either the cooperative or the competitive aspects of Soviet behaviour Breslauer instead offers the multidimensional concept of collaborative competition to describe the mixed motives ambivalence and sometimes conflicting perspectives that have informed Soviet strategy in the region In such an unstable environment this strategy of collaborative competition has in turn encouraged approach avoidance behaviour for example while the Soviets may seek to moderate their radical allies they remain fearful that these allies once moderated might defect to US patronage Under Gorbachev the Kremlin continues to pursue this same strategy but with increased attention to improving collaboration redefining the nature of the competition and easing the approach avoidance dilemma Breslauer argues that these changes could lead to more flexible Soviet behaviour in the region This volume combines new in depth research on Soviet policy with new interpretations including insights drawn from relevant theories of international relations
