Cleaver,1993-01-01 For 25 years population growth has outpaced increases in agricultural production in Sub Saharan Africa The lack of food and the degradation of agricultural land have forced policymakers to reassess agricultural strategies for the region This paper provides such a reassessment by identifying policies and investments that have worked and those that have not The author sets out the common elements required for agricultural and rural development throughout the region The strategy presented in this paper comprises elements from several development sectors including transport water supply education finance and the environment The author makes five broad recommendations to promote Region adoption of policies to promote private sector farming and agricultural marketing processing and credit development and distribution of new technologies inclusion of farmers in decisions affecting their livelihood development of infrastructure and social programs in support of agriculture improved management of natural resources Projections of the likely effects of the proposed policies and investments are included Tables throughout the text present statistics on agricultural growth rates commodity prices and deforestation in the region An annex contains more general tables with information on population growth and fertility rates land use agricultural exports and droughts The strategies suggested in this paper will be of interest to policymakers academics and to development practitioners involved in African agriculture World Bank Assistance to Agriculture in Sub-Saharan Africa ,2007-01-01 Sub Saharan Africa is a critical development priority it has some of the world s poorest countries and during the past two decades the number of poor in the Region has doubled to 300 million more than 40 percent of the Region s population Africa remains behind on most of the Millennium Development Goals MDGs and is unlikely to reach them by 2015 With some of the world s poorest countries Africa is a development priority for the donor community A major drag on Africa s development is the underperformance of the critical agriculture sector which has been neglected both by donors and governments over the past two decades The sector faces a variety of constraints that are particular to agriculture in Africa and make its development a complex challenge Poor governance and conflict in several countries further complicate matters IEG has assessed the development effectiveness of World Bank assistance in addressing constraints to agricultural development in Africa over the period of fiscal 1991 2006 A Strategy to Develop Agriculture in Sub-Saharan Africa and a Focus for the World Bank Kevin M. A Strategy to Develop Agriculture in Sub-Saharan Africa and a Focus for the World Bank ,1992* Africa's Changing Agricultural Development Strategies Christopher L. Delgado,1995 Similarities and dominant paradigms Chronology and elements of the dominant paradigms of agricultural development Insights for paradigms of African Agricultural Development A Strategy to Develop Agriculture in Sub-Saharan Africa and a Focus for the World Bank ,1993 The Environment and Development in Africa Moses K.

Tesi,2000-01-01 The premise of The Environment and Development in Africa is that current environmental problems in sub Saharan Africa are an outcome of the continent's development activities. Whether these activities have generated economic growth and raised living standards or have led to growth without overall increases in living standards or have even contributed to a decline in people's well-being, developments in that region have produced effects that have degraded Africa's environment in many ways. This book presents a comprehensive and systematic analysis of the context of the environmental issues facing sub-Saharan African states. Contributors discuss the problems associated with generating the capacity to manage Africa's environmental concerns, assess the impact of economic development efforts on the region's environment, and examine various societal and policy responses to environmental problems and to development problems linked to ecological decay. This is an important book for scholars and policy advisors concerned with African studies and global environmental issues.

Rural Well-being Ismail Serageldin, David R. Steeds, 1997. The Fourth Annual World Bank Conference on Environmentally Sustainable Development was convened in September 1996 with the aim to pursue four key goals: 1 poverty reduction, 2 widely shared growth, 3 household national and global food security, and 4 sustainable natural resource management. This volume contains the presentations of all the plenary speakers as they are delivered or from written texts. In addition, it contains a summary of each of the thematic and regional roundtables as well as summaries of many of the associated and concurrent events. The volume also reprints the background papers submitted by those who participated in the roundtables. Full text statements from the associated event on Ethics, Values, Spirituality, and Rural Well-Being are also included.

New Directions in Development Economics Mats Lundahl, Benno Ndulu, 2005-08-10. New Directions in Development Economics is divided into two parts. The first half considers the dilemma of growth with special reference to its environmental cost. The second half focuses on the role of the state in the context of the growing dominance of the free market argument. The contributors include Paul Collier, Partha Dasgupta, Ronald Findlay, and Deepak Lal.

From Adjustment To Development In Africa Gerald K. Helleiner, 1994-09-22. This book considers the principal sources of agreement and disagreement among policymakers and analysts concerning the current economic problems of Sub-Saharan Africa. A distinguished collection of international and African authors, including economists from the IMF and the World Bank as well as their critics, addresses the key policy issues in agriculture, trade, macroeconomic management, social issues, privatization, external capital flow, and political economy. An introductory interpretive essay searches for areas of consensus and identifies those of continuing controversy.

Democracy and Development in Africa Claude Ake, 2001-09-19. Despite three decades of preoccupation with development in Africa, the economies of most African nations are still stagnating or regressing. For most Africans, incomes are lower than they were two decades ago, health prospects are poorer, malnourishment is widespread, and infrastructures and social institutions are breaking down. An array of factors have been offered to explain the apparent failure of development in Africa, including the colonial legacy, social pluralism, corruption, poor planning, and incompetent management, limited inflow of foreign capital, and low levels of saving and investment. Alone or in combination, these factors are serious impediments to development but Claude Ake contends that the problem is not that development has failed but that it was never really on the agenda He maintains that political conditions in Africa are the greatest impediment to development In this book Ake traces the evolution and failure of development policies including the IMF stabilization programs that have dominated international efforts He identifies the root causes of the problem in the authoritarian political structure of the African states derived from the previous colonial entities Ake sketches the alternatives that are struggling to emerge from calamitous failure economic development based on traditional agriculture political development based on the decentralization of power and reliance on indigenous communities that have been providing some measure of refuge from the coercive power of the central state Ake s argument may become a new paradigm for development in Africa      Seed Systems in Sub-Saharan Africa Venkatachalam Venkatesan,1994-01-01 World Bank Discussion Paper No 266 Seed production and distribution are important factors in determining the pace of agricultural development For a seed system to be effective it must satisfy the different requirements of each crop Presently      Nanotechnology and Microelectronics: Global Diffusion, Economics and Policy Ekekwe, Ndubuisi,2010-06-30 This book assesses the state of nanotechnology and microelectronics and examines many issues such as climate change trade innovation diffusion etc with a theme focused on facilitating the structures for the adoption and penetration of the technologies into developing nations Provided by publisher      Africa's Emerging Maize Revolution Derek Byerlee,Carl K. Eicher,1997 Intended for policymakers and scholars the 15 contributions in this volume are divided into two sections the first provides six country case studies of the evolving maize economies of Zimbabwe Zambia Malawi Kenya Ghana and Nigeria The second part synthesizes major technological institutional and policy issues with chapters on research and extension soil fertility seed and fertilizer delivery systems and marketing and price policy Paper edition 754 0 29 95 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR      Regional Development: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Management Association, Information Resources,2012-04-30 From domestic to international settings aid and assistance to less developed areas has recently been bolstered by a boom in technological advances and new research Regional Development Concepts Methodologies Tools and Applications presents a vital compendium of research detailing the latest case studies architectures frameworks methodologies and research on regional development With over 100 chapters from authors from around the world this three volume collection presents the most sophisticated research and developments from the field relevant to researchers academics and practitioners alike In order to stay abreast of the latest research this book affords a vital look into regional development research      Youth and Employment in Sub-Saharan Africa Hiroyuki Hino,Gustav Ranis,2014-06-05 It is widely acknowledged that youth unemployment is one of the most critical challenges facing countries in Sub Saharan Africa This volume brings together an eminent group of international scholars to analyse the extent and complex nature of this joblessness and offer a set of evidence based policy choices that could contribute to solving the problem in the short and long run Part I reviews the existing literature on youth unemployment and underemployment in Sub Saharan Africa from microeconomic and macroeconomic perspectives while Part II goes on to present detailed country studies of Ethiopia Ghana Kenya and South Africa These studies offer a deep understanding of the situation on the ground and consider country specific solutions Throughout the book it is argued that the standard ILO definition of unemployment is too narrow to correctly portray employment situations in Sub Saharan Africa Several alternative measures of unemployment are presented which show that joblessness is far more pervasive than commonly assumed in the literature This volume will be of interest to academics and policy makers involved in African development     Agrekon ,1996     The World Food Outlook Donald O. Mitchell,Merlinda D. Ingco,Ronald C. Duncan,1997-03-06 Modern day Malthusians warn that Malthus will ultimately be right the world will be less and less able to feed itself as populations keep expanding and crop yields seem to have reached a peak The authors of this volume believe that this pessimism is misplaced and that there is in fact no worldwide food crisis On the contrary they show that the world food situation has improved dramatically over the past three decades prices of agricultural commodities are at their lowest level in history in real terms and crop output is continuing to rise faster than population This book provides a much needed and reasoned view on a subject that is too often treated emotionally The important changes in the international food economy are considered in historical context and provide a basis for projections to 2010 The situation should continue to improve and food should become cheaper than it is today     Agricultural Extension Charles Ameur,1994-01-01 Recommends the adoption of multiple strategies for agricultural extension and a flexible attitude by governments in addressing the issue Agriculture contributes significantly to the growth of many developing countries Its development is closely linked to several key interrelated factors such as infrastructure research extension farm inputs rural credit price policies and marketing This paper examines agricultural extension within this context drawing on a variety of ongoing cases throughout the world The author stresses the need for governments to define a specific strategy for extension and to re examine the role of the public sector     Handbook of Land and Water Grabs in Africa John Anthony Allan,2013 Four other themes will addressed politics economics the environment and the history of land investments in sub Saharan Africa
