Health brings together acculturation theory and methodology with work linking acculturative processes to overall health outcomes. The blending of these two streams of literature is critical to move advances in acculturation theory and research into practical application for researchers, practitioners, educators, and policy makers.

Acculturation, Acculturative Stress, and Coping Responses of Mexican American University Students Luis Antonio Vazquez, 1992 African Americans and HIV/AIDS Donna Hubbard McCree, PhD, MPH, RPh, Kenneth Terrill Jones, MSW, Ann O'Leary, PhD, 2010-09-14

Among U.S. racial and ethnic minority populations, African American communities are the most disproportionately impacted and affected by HIV/AIDS. CDC 2009, CDC 2008. The chapters in this volume seek to explore factors that contribute to this disparity as well as methods for intervening and positively impacting the epidemic in the U.S. The book is divided into two sections. The first section includes chapters that explore specific contextual and structural factors related to HIV/AIDS transmission and prevention in African Americans. The second section is composed of chapters that address the latest in intervention strategies including best evidence and promising evidence-based behavioral interventions, program evaluation, cost effectiveness analyses, and HIV testing and counseling. As background for the book, the Introduction provides a summary of the context and importance of other infectious disease rates, i.e., sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) and tuberculosis, to HIV/AIDS prevention and treatment in African Americans, and a brief introductory discussion on the major contextual factors related to the acquisition and transmission of STDs/HIV. Contextual Chapters Johnson Dean author the first chapter in this section which discusses the history and epidemiology of HIV/AIDS among African Americans. Specifically, this chapter provides a definition for and description of the U.S. surveillance systems used to track HIV/AIDS and presents data on HIV or AIDS cases diagnosed between 2002 and 2006 and reported to CDC as of June 30, 2007.
