Cross-Impact Balances (CIB) for Scenario Analysis Wolfgang Weimer-Jehle, 2023-05-02 Cross Impact Balances CIB is a method frequently used for research in companies and in administrations for the systematic construction of qualitative scenarios This book introduces the fundamentals of the method and uses a clear step by step example to explain how scenarios can be constructed with CIB It describes possible problems in applying the method and offers help for various use cases It includes a detailed discussion of the design decisions that shape a CIB application and the methods that can be used to collect the necessary data The application examples presented provide a first impression of the possibilities of the method A discussion of the strengths and limitations of the method offers guidance on the use cases in which CIB can be profitably applied The book is valuable for researchers and practitioners in the field of scenario analysis

Federal Probation, 1944 Ecophysiology of Coniferous Forests William K. Smith, 2013-10-22 Conifers pine fir and spruce trees are dominant species in forests around the world This book focuses on the physiology of conifers and how these physiological systems operate Special consideration is devoted to the means by which ecophysiological processes influence organismal function and distribution Chapters focus on the genetics of conifers their geographic distribution and the factors that influence this distribution the impact of insect herbivory on ecophysiological parameters the effects of air pollution and the potential impact that global climatic changes will have upon conifers Because of the growing realization that forests have a crucial role to play in global environmental health this book will appeal to a developing union of ecologists physiologists and more theoretically minded foresters

Bibliotheca Genetica, 1922 Émile Durkheim and the Birth of the Gods Alexandra Maryanski, 2018-06-18 The Birth of the Gods is dedicated to Durkheim's effort to understand the basis of social integration. Unlike most social scientists then and now, Durkheim concluded that humans are naturally more individualistic than collectivistic; that the primal social unit for humans is the macro-level unit, the horde, rather than the family; and that social cohesion is easily disrupted by human self-interest. Hence, for Durkheim, one of the gravest problems facing sociology is how to mold these human proclivities to serve the collective good. The analysis of elementary religions, Durkheim believed, would allow social scientists to see the fundamental basis of solidarity in human societies built around collective representations, totems marking sacred forces and emotion arousing rituals directed at these totems. The first half of the book traces the key influences and events that led Durkheim to embrace such novel generalizations. The second part makes a significant contribution to sociological theory with an analysis that essentially tests Durkheim's core assumptions using cladistic analysis, social network tools, and theory and data on humans' closest living relatives, the great apes. Maryanski marshals hard data from primatology, paleontology, archaeology, genetics, and neuroscience that enlightens and surprisingly confirms many of Durkheim's speculations. These data show that integration among both humans and great apes is not so much group or kin oriented per se but orientation to a community standing outside each individual that includes a sense of self but also encompassing a cognitive awareness of a sense of community or a connectedness that transcends sensory reality and concrete social relations. This community complex, as Maryanski terms it, is what Durkheim was beginning to see, although he did not have the data to buttress his arguments as Maryanski is able to do.

Migration Strategies of Birds of Prey in Western Palearctic Michele Panuccio, Ugo Mellone, Nicolantonio Agostini, 2021-07-28. Given their roles in the ecosystem, raptors are widely considered the flagship or umbrella species among birds. Most species undertake a seasonal journey that is impressive because of the length and the imposing natural barriers such as deserts and seas that they fly over. The migration of birds of prey has unique characteristics in the animal world because of their morphology and flight style. The flying path of Afro-Palearctic migrants between breeding and wintering grounds is determined by several factors such as morphology of the birds, geography, behavioural adaptations. The book analyses the migration patterns of raptors along the Afro-Palearctic migratory system and summarizes the recent research on these top predator species. Behavioural adaptations such as the importance of social interactions and the modulation of the different flight styles, as well as ecological interactions with the encountered environment and weather conditions en route, are described in the book. Moreover, the impact of climate change on the migratory behaviour and key conservation issues are discussed. The book provides an overview of the migratory characteristics and flyway patterns of all European raptor species and also some Asian ones. These chapters have been written by some of the most important raptor specialists, giving a complete picture of the different migration strategies on the basis of both traditional methods and new technologies.

Social Movements in Taiwan's Democratic Transition Yun Fan,2018-09-19 Examining the relationships between activists and the changing political environment this book analyzes the trajectories of three major social movements in Taiwan during the country's democratic transition between 1980 and 2000 In doing so it explores why the labor and environmental movements became less partisan while the women's movement became more so Providing a comparative discussion of these critical social movements this book explores key theoretical questions and presents a rich and comprehensive analysis of social activism during this period of Taiwan's political history. It focuses on causal mechanisms and variation and thus avoids the tautological trap of finding an improving political opportunity structure wherever a social movement is flourishing. Drawing on extensive data from over 140 activists' demographic backgrounds, the discussion also builds upon existing studies of the biographical aspects of contention. This study then asks further questions about how certain tactics are chosen, not only how a repertoire of contention comes to have the shape it does. Combining both a theoretical and an empirical approach, this book will be useful to students and scholars of Taiwanese politics and society as well as social movements and democracy more generally.

Urban Geography David Kaplan, Steven Holloway, 2024-07-18
Provides a comprehensive and up-to-date treatment of Urban Geography. The leading undergraduate textbook on the subject, Urban Geography covers the origins, historical development, and contemporary challenges of cities and metropolitan areas around the world. Incorporating the most recent research in urban studies, authors David H. Kaplan and Steven R. Holloway provide an overview of the dynamic field, introduce key elements of urban theory and methodology, analyze issues of immigration, ethnicity, and urbanism, and more. Exploring the urban experience in a global context, 16 student-friendly chapters address urbanization processes, industrial urbanization, discrimination in the housing market, gentrification, metropolitan governance, urban planning, geographical and political fragmentation, urban immigration, urban economic restructuring, and more. Each chapter includes an introductory road map, learning objectives, definitions of key terms, discussion questions, and suggestions for research topics and activities. The fourth edition of Urban Geography contains two entirely new chapters on urban transportation and the relationship between cities and the environment, including climate change and natural disasters. New discussion of the impact of COVID-19 and other health aspects of cities is accompanied by new data, new figures, new themes, and new pedagogical tools. In this edition, the authors present traditional models of urban social space and new factors that organize intra-urban space, such as globalization and postmodernism. Examining cities in the developed world and in less developed regions, Urban Geography, Fourth Edition, is the ideal textbook for Urban Geography classes and related courses in Urban Studies, Sociology, and Political Science programs.

Shaking Heaven and Earth Walter Brueggemann, Christine Roy Yoder, Charles B. Cousar, 2005-01-01
This book shares the results of a symposium held to honor the work of Walter Brueggemann and Charles Cousar at Columbia Theological Seminary on the occasion of their retirement. Each author, and each chapter of the book, simultaneously engages the Bible, the church, and the world, a three-part engagement that was fundamental to the acclaimed careers of Brueggemann and Cousar.

The Way We Think Gilles Fauconnier, Mark Turner, 2008-08-06
In its first two decades, much of cognitive science focused on such mental functions as memory, learning, symbolic thought, and language acquisition, the functions in which the human mind most closely resembles a computer. But humans are more than computers, and the cutting-edge research in cognitive science is increasingly focused on the more mysterious, creative aspects of the mind. The Way We Think is a landmark synthesis that exemplifies this new direction The theory of conceptual blending is already widely known in laboratories throughout the world this book is its definitive statement Gilles Fauconnier and Mark Turner argue that all learning and all thinking consist of blends of metaphors based on simple bodily experiences These blends are then themselves blended together into an increasingly rich structure that makes up our mental functioning in modern society A child's entire development consists of learning and navigating these blends The Way We Think shows how this blending operates how it is affected by and gives rise to language identity and concept of category and the rules by which we use blends to understand ideas that are new to us The result is a bold exciting and accessible new view of how the mind works

The Idea of God and the Reality of Evil R. W. K. Paterson, 2010-12-01 The Idea of God and the Reality of Evil is the perfect book for readers who have a broad interest in fundamental religious issues It offers a balanced clear and non technical view of the religious problem of evil which often forms an insurmountable barrier to faith For Atheists the existence of evil is categoric proof that a higher omnipresent and omnipotent creator cannot exist This book takes a fresh look at the arguments of the Atheists and re examines their perspective that a perfect being implies a perfect world and offers a rational answer to the apparent conflict between faith and an imperfect reality Paterson's treatment of the problem of evil is clear He offers readers a balanced look at all the conflicting views in this book which will appeal to Christians Humanists and members of many other faiths

Bernstein's Construction of Movements Mark L. Latash, 2020-10-29 Nikolai Aleksandrovich Bernstein was one of the great neuroscientists of the twentieth century and highly respected by Western scientists even though most have never read his most important book entitled On the Construction of Movements Bernstein's Construction of Movements The Original Text and Commentaries is the first English translation It supplements the translated text with a series of commentaries by scientists who knew Bernstein personally as well as leaders in related fields including physics motor control and biomechanics While written in 1947 Bernstein's book is anything but obsolete making this English translation and accompanying commentaries an invaluable text The translated original text presents in detail Bernstein's views on the evolutionary history of biological movement and his multi level hierarchical scheme of the construction of movements in higher animals including humans The following commentaries address Bernstein's personality the history of the book and current views on different aspects of neuroscience covered in Bernstein's text Ultimately they present a book within the book to showcase how Bernstein's heritage has developed over the past years This classic available for the first time to an English speaking audience will prove beneficial to students instructors and experts of neuroscience physics neurophysiology motor control motor rehabilitation biomechanics dynamical systems and related fields

Dynamics of the Sun and Stars Mário J. P. F. G. Monteiro, Rafael A. García, Jørgen Christensen-Dalsgaard, Scott W. McIntosh, 2020-12-18 These are the proceedings of a meeting celebrating Michael Thompson's seminal work on solar and stellar physics as well as his major contributions to the development of the National Center for Atmospheric Research The meeting also marked Michael J Thompson's untimely death in October 2018 Michael played a key role in the development of helioseismology and its application to the study of the structure and dynamics of the solar interior and he provided a strong foundation for the extension of seismic studies for other stars After focusing for several years on more administrative activities he was returning to leading the seismic studies of solar interior rotation and he was deeply involved in the understanding of the dynamics of the core of stars when his life was tragically lost The conference focused on dynamical aspects of the sun and stars based on the large amount of data available on solar and stellar oscillations and the extensive and detailed modelling now becoming feasible Combining observations seismic analysis and modelling the meeting and this book serve as a fitting memorial to a close colleague and friend much missed
