Peer Mediation Fred Schruppf, Donna K. Crawford, Richard J. Bodine, 1997 Program for helping secondary school students acquire skills in conflict resolution Conflict Resolution Education Donna K. Crawford, 1996 Peer Mediation Hetty Van Gurp, 2002 A guide to help schools get on the right track with peer mediation What is it How it works and why Conflict Resolution Education Donna Crawford, Richard Bodine, 2005 Conflict Resolution Education A Guide to Implementing Programs in Schools Youth Serving Organizations and Community and Juvenile Justice Settings was developed for educators juvenile justice practitioners and others in youth serving organizations to heighten awareness of conflict resolution education and its potential to help settle disputes peacefully in a variety of settings A joint project of the U S Department of Justice and the U S Department of Education this Guide provides background information on conflict resolution education an overview of four widely used promising and effective approaches and guidance on how to initiate and implement conflict resolution education programs in various settings As adults we cannot solve young people s problems for them We can however provide them with the knowledge skills and encouragement to resolve conflicts in a nonviolent manner using words instead of fists or weapons Conflict resolution education includes negotiation mediation and consensus decisionmaking which allow all parties involved to explore peaceful solutions to a conflict When these problem solving processes to conflict and strife become a way of life young people begin to value getting along instead of getting even or getting their way The Peer Mediation Process in Secondary Schools Fae Ernestine Samuels, 2001 The purpose of this study was to investigate the practice and the impact of peer mediation in eight secondary schools This research is the first to investigate peer mediation in secondary schools In doing so it sought to give the peer mediators and other students a voice The students explained the peer mediation process the effects on their personal lives relationships school climate and families The thirty three participants of the study include eight mediators two disputants two non disputants six students who refused mediation seven teachers one non teacher and seven administrators Three students refused to be interviewed All student participants were eighteen years of age when interviewed The method employed is qualitative A personal interview was conducted with each mediator and disputant to investigate what happens during the mediation process their satisfaction with the process and the impact it is having on them and the school community Teachers coordinators of the peer mediation programs and administrators were also interviewed individually to get their perception of the program s impact on the mediators disputants other students and the school climate Data gathered were analysed in four stages The interviews were transcribed verbatim and the categories and themes were identified and sorted The findings indicate that peer mediation provides one of the best opportunities for creating peaceful schools The study is significant because it verifies and brings to the forefront ten issues that are important to the field of peer mediation and conflict resolution The issues are that peer mediators can peacefully resolve conflicts and they are exemplary student leaders peer mediation promotes ethics transforms lives teaches lifelong skills provides leadership fellowship growth and provides an alternative to suspension peers trust their peers to resolve their problems school violence is on the increase and there is a lack of support for peer mediation The findings of this study warrant further investigation in three areas peer mediators and other students who are between 14 and 17 years of age the training programs and the real cost to implement a program in a secondary school The School
