Studiolo The Collaborative Work Of Martha Fleming And Lyne Lapointe:

Studiolo Martha Fleming, Lyne Lapointe, Lesley Johnstone, Art Gallery of Windsor, 1997 The large scale building projects of artists Martha Fleming Lyne Lapointe are legendary in certain circles And yet because of the independent nature of their production a comprehensive overview of this seminal work has not yet been published This book fills that gap A document a bookwork a manifesto Studiolo explores the extensive and varied creative process of this collaborative pair It covers not only the site works produced for entire abandoned buildings in Montreal and New York City but also the discursive underpinnings of their fifteen year practice The artists image research and aesthetic are part and parcel of showing and telling in Studiolo itself a work of art

Feminisms is Still Our Name Malin Hedley Hayden, Jessica Sjöholm Skrubbe, 2020-05-22 Feminisms have played a crucial part in art history and curatorial practices over the last forty years Hence it is by now imperative to scrutinize the history of feminist theories and methods within both fields Feminisms is Still Our Name is an anthology that critically debates the current status of feminisms in visual art and its relation to past art histories and possible feminist futures It brings together essays by leading scholars in order to meet the urgent need both for a critical historiography and for re vitalizations of feminist practices within written as well as visual narratives of modern and contemporary art From a variety of perspectives the editors and contributors to this book initiate a much needed debate about possible strategies for a renewal of feminisms in art history and curating At the same time it demonstrates the necessity of further explorations and research into the diversity of feminist pasts Indeed this volume provides strong arguments that historiographical critique is an inevitable part of any future feminism s In providing fresh approaches to such important fields as feminist art history and feminist curating the essays assembled in Feminisms is Still Our Name will provoke fruitful discussion about the relation between academic and curatorial feminist practices Contributors Renee Baert Malin Hedlin Hayden Lolita Jablonskiene Amelia Jones Mary Kelly Griselda Pollock and Jessica Sjöholm Skrubbe

Urban Enigmas Johanne Sloan, 2007-02-12 Contributors part of the collaborative research project The Culture of Cities Montreal Toronto Dublin and Berlin address theoretical and methodological aspects of comparison while case studies examine the mutually constituted identities of Montreal and Toronto through examples of travel writing public art film festivals theatrical performances diasporic communities ethnic festivals and urban media Comparison is shown to be not only something performed by experts but a deeply embedded everyday social practice that contributes to the mutable identities of cities Urban Enigmas demonstrates that the accumulation of urban actions encounters experiences and relationships create distinctive patterns that make it possible to recognize the particularity of cities

Photogenic Montreal Martha Langford, Johanne Sloan, 2021-12-15 The agency of photographs is a recurrent concern within the context of the city Whether found in architectural records social documentary photojournalism or artistic practice photographic objects are embedded in urban contestation aesthetically charged by artists reinserted into social histories and mobilized to imagine a future city Photogenic Montreal takes a question initially posed by heritage debates what does photography preserve and creates a rich conversation about the agency of the human actors before and behind the camera and of the medium itself The interplay of archives and activism structures the book Photographs that appear to be sealed off in newspapers storage rooms or archives accrue new meaning when they cross the threshold back into social spaces and circulate anew It is through the reactivation of archival photographs that submerged traces of urban experience are discovered and alternate histories of Montreal can be recounted Multiple forms of activism and artistic expression complement this archival work Beginning in the 1960s community minded and heritage groups responded to the tensions arising from urban reconstruction gentrification and the erasure of neighbourhoods this activism also left its photographic traces Attentive to the still changing face of the city's architecture neighbourhoods and street life Photogenic Montreal participates in debates about who the city belongs to who speaks on its behalf and how to picture its past and present
