Taking The Waters Early Spas In New Zealand:

The State in New Zealand, 1840-198 Michael Bassett, 2013-11-01 In this innovative study Michael Bassett historian and former politician explores how and why the state became such an active and interventionist player in New Zealand life developing subsidising and regulating the economy and protecting citizens from the cradle to the grave He looks in detail at the many schemes in which a paternalistic government became involved especially the extensive social programmes These were taken for granted by the people but from the 1960s were increasingly difficult to sustain economically By 1984 he concludes this process of intervention had to be slowed Drawing on departmental archives many not previously consulted by historians The State in New Zealand covers in a new way and with clarity and style a subject of great contemporary interest

Maori Health and Government Policy 1840-1940 Derek A. Dow, 1999 This book maps official endeavours to meet Maori health needs during the first hundred years of organised European settlement in New Zealand Focusing on policy initiative rather than health outcomes Maori Health and Government Policy explores four major themes the administration and funding of Maori health the association between Maori and hospitals the subsidised medical officers who provided primary health care and infection control and the sanitary measures Other topics include the role of missionary medicine in the 1840s and 1850s and Maori health research

The Making of New Zealanders Ron Palenski, 2013-11-01 Examining the development of a sense of national identity in a British colony this highly authoritative work is a valuable addition to the literature in New Zealand By looking at the onset of home grown shipping railway and telegraph networks as well as at the Maori and kiwi experiences not to mention the emergence of rugby teams this book accounts for how transplanted Britons and others turned themselves into New Zealanders a distinct group of people with their own songs and sports symbols and opinions political traditions and sense of self Tracing markers in popular culture political processes and public events this informative and thrilling history focuses on the forging of a distinctive new culture and society

First Resorts Jon Sterngass, 2021-04-27 A scrupulously researched and beautifully crafted account of how nineteenth century Americans went in search of health rest and diversion Lena Lencek and Gideon Bosker coauthors of The Beach The History of Paradise on Earth In First Resorts Pursuing Pleasure at Saratoga Springs Newport and Coney Island Jon Sterngass follows three of the best known northeastern American resorts across a century of change Saratoga Springs Newport and Coney Island began he finds as similar pleasure destinations each of them featuring grand hotels where visitors swarmed public spaces such as verandas dining rooms and parlors As the century progressed however Saratoga remained much the same while Newport turned to private and lavish cottages and Coney Island shifted its focus to amusements for the masses

Fifty nine illustrations enliven Sternglass s unique study of the commodification of pleasure that occurred as capitalist values flourished travel grew more accessible and leisure time became democratized These three resorts he argues served as forerunners of twentieth century pleasure cities such as Aspen Las Vegas and Orlando An engaging creative book replete with evocative illustrations and witty quotes a pleasant read Thomas A Chambers New York Academy of History Sternglass s discussions about privacy community commercialization consumption leisure and the desire to be conspicuous are important and new With its well chosen illustrations this is a handsome book as well as an important one Kathryn Allamong Jacob Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study Harvard University Having mined every conceivable source about his three sites Sternglass has presented a wealth of interesting material not only about the resort experience but also about the residents politicians and entrepreneurs who built them Journal of American History History, heritage, and colonialism Kynan Gentry,2015-04-01 History heritage and colonialism explores the politics of history making and interest in preserving the material remnants of the past in late nineteenth and early twentieth century colonial society looking at both indigenous pasts and those of European origin Focusing on New Zealand but also covering the Australian and Canadian experiences it explores how different groups and political interests have sought to harness historical narrative in support of competing visions of identity and memory Considering this within the frames of the local and national as well as of empire the book offers a valuable critique of the study of colonial identity making and cultures of colonisation This book offers important insights for societies negotiating the legacy of a colonial past in a global present and will be of particular value to all those concerned with museum heritage and tourism studies as well as imperial history Mad on Radium Rebecca Priestley,2013-11-01 Although New Zealander Lord Rutherford was the first to split the atom the country has since been known around the world for its nuclear free stance In this engaging and accessible book an alternative history is revealed of nuclear New Zealand when there was much enthusiasm for nuclear science and technology From the first users of X rays and radium in medicine to the plans for a nuclear power station on the Kaipara Harbour this account uncovers the long and rich history of New Zealanders engagement with the nuclear world and the roots of its nuclear free identity Healing Waters Ronan Foley,2016-04-15 Bringing together a range of different place studies including holy wells spa towns Turkish baths and sweat houses sea bathing and the modern spa this book investigates associations between water health place and culture in Ireland It is informed by a humanistic approach showing how health and place are socially and culturally constructed and how health is embodied experienced and enacted in place In addition the work argues that an understanding of health and place must also consider the historical societal and cultural orthodoxies that shape and produce those places The Tourist State Margaret Werry,2011 Examining the role of performance in state making The Beating Heart Vincent O'Malley,David Anderson Armstrong,2008 The Beating Heart details the determined efforts since the 1830s of Te Arawa tribes to work with the Crown and settlers to pursue a mutually advantageous relationship under the Treaty while at the same time maintaining their autonomy culture and control over their land and resources Although the ultimate outcomes were often calamitous for Te Arawa the underlying theme of this work is positive The tribes never ceased to struggle for a genuinely bicultural future The Beating Heart tells the story of the survival and resurgence of a dynamic people under circumstances that were often extreme and as such reflects the experiences of many other iwi in New Zealand today
