Speaking Effectively In Public Settings A Modern Rhetoric With A Traditional Base:

Speaking Effectively in Public Settings Ray Nadeau, Carol Jablonski, Greg Gardner, 1993-08-16 Traditional rhetorical principles provide an ideal framework for college students to learn how to speak effectively in the workplace in business in the professions and in the public forum Speechwriting in Perspective Thomas H. Neale, Jean M. Bowers, 2003 Writing for the spoken word is a special discipline it requires that speechwriters products be written primarily although not exclusively to be heard not read Speeches are better cast in simple direct and often short sentences that can be easily understood by listeners Rhetorical devices such as repetition variation cadence and balance are available to and should be used by the speechwriter It is important for speechwriters to analyse audiences according to factors such as age gender culture profession and income level size of audience political affiliation if any and on the occasion for or purpose of the speech Most effective speeches do not exceed 20 minutes in length After researching a topic speechwriters must prepare an outline from which the speech will be developed They should strive to maintain a clear theme throughout the speech Most speeches will have a three part structure consisting of an introduction a body and a conclusion The accepted style of contemporary American public address is natural direct low key casual and conversational This puts the listeners at ease and promotes a sense of community between the audience and speaker Punctuation should reflect the sound structure of the speech reinforcing the rhythm and pace of actual speech Clarity of expression is as important a consideration in speech grammar as rigid adherence to the rules for written law This book presents the essentials of speechwriting Preface Speechwriting in Perspective A Brief Guide to Effective and Persuasive Communication Thomas H Neale Public Speaking and Speechwriting Selected References Jean M Bowers Index Handbook of Communication and Social Interaction Skills John O. articulated critique of the major rhetorical treatises of the time In discussing the rise of public speaking in early Meiji society he unveils the existence of crucial links between the study of rhetoric and the social and literary events of the time underscoring the key role played by oratory both as a tool for social modernization and as an effective platform for the reappraisal of the spoken language The collusion and conflicts characterizing rhetoric and its relationship with the genbun itchi movement which sought to unify spoken and written language are explored demonstrating that their perceived antagonism was the uh product of a misguided notion of rhetoric and the process of rhetorical signification rather than a true theoretical conflict Tomasi makes a convincing argument that in fact Western rhetoric mediated between these equally compelling pursuits and paved the way toward an acceptable compromise between classical and colloquial written styles
