Targeting Success Margaret Christie, 1986 Handbook of Research on Innate Leadership Characteristics and Examinations of Successful First-Time Leaders Guah, Matthew Waritay, 2021-02-05 For hundreds of years different leadership theories have been explored to try to explain exactly how and why certain people become great leaders Research spans a discussion of personality traits the characteristics of the situation at hand and qualifications of the leader to try to determine what causes people to become more likely than others to take charge This can be in various settings CEOs presidents and prime ministers managing directors governors senators head coaches and more Through the examination of first time leadership new theories and ideas on leadership are explored The Handbook of Research on Innate Leadership Characteristics and Examinations of Successful First Time Leaders is a comprehensive reference source that focuses on what qualities distinguish first time leadership from traditional leaders while furthering leadership theories that look at other variables such as situational factors knowledge base skill levels etc It reviews the various approaches used by first time leadership and how each of them uniquely approaches effective leadership key outcomes and the strengths and weaknesses of each approach Furthermore it distinguishes between the traditional route for leadership the gradual moving up of an individual over time to higher positions and a first time leadership in which an individual begins right away in a position without climbing the professional ladder This book will attempt to draw lessons from existing first time leadership experience and provide evidence for the appropriateness of such a route to leadership Topics highlighted include transformational leadership political leaders ethical and unethical leadership and leadership development This book is ideal for young professionals leaders executives managers graduate students practitioners government officials researchers academicians and students Women and Media in the Middle East Nahed Eltantawy, 2017-10-02 The traditional image of the Middle Eastern woman as portrayed by the Western media has tended to be one of a woman oppressed by men and religion Veiling intensifies this image of supposed powerlessness and imprisonment However the Arab Spring uprisings have introduced the West to women in the Middle East who do not conform to this stereotype and have shown the Western media that Middle Eastern women cannot be categorized altogether as one oppressed powerless group This book investigates the diverse realities and complexities of women in the Middle East in terms of their relationship with media platforms old and new Contributors offer a range of perspectives that discuss everything from media portrayals of the veil to women in film and television from women's involvement as activists on the street to the role played in the Arab Spring by cyber activism The collection provides insight into how some women in the Middle East are utilizing traditional as well as new media for purposes of self expression activism and democratization while also investigating media portrayals of women at home and in the West This book was originally published as a special issue of Feminist Media Studies
