Technology-rich Learning Environments:

Technology-rich Learning Environments: A Future Perspective Myint Swe Khine, Darrell Fisher, 2003-08-27 The proliferation of information and communication technology tools in recent years has led many educators to revise the way they teach and structure their learning environments. The growth of technology applications in teaching and training is not only gaining momentum; it is becoming a significant part of today's educational scene. This book presents research and case studies to explain how these technology-rich learning environments can be structured and positive results can be achieved. The authors, based on their extensive research data, present the pedagogical and organizational implications of technology-rich learning environments and more importantly, they provide practical models, ideas, and exemplars for educators to actualize the full potential of technology in the future.

Artificial Intelligence in Education R. Luckin, K.R. Koedinger, J. Greer, 2007-06-29. The nature of technology has changed since Artificial Intelligence in Education (AIED) was conceptualised as a research community and Interactive Learning Environments were initially developed. Technology is smaller, more mobile, networked, pervasive, and often ubiquitous, as well as being provided by the standard desktop PC. This creates the potential for technology-supported learning wherever and whenever learners need and want it. However, in order to take advantage of this potential for greater flexibility, we need to understand and model learners and the contexts with which they interact in a manner that enables us to design, deploy, and evaluate technology to most effectively support learning across multiple locations, subjects, and times. The AIED community has much to contribute to this endeavour. This publication contains papers, posters, and tutorials from the 2007 Artificial Intelligence in Education conference in Los Angeles, CA, USA.
