The Arden Research Handbook of Shakespeare and Adaptation Diana E. Henderson, Stephen O'Neill, 2022-03-24

The Arden Research Handbook of Shakespeare and Adaptation explores the dynamics of adapted Shakespeare across a range of literary genres and new media forms. This comprehensive reference and research resource maps the field of Shakespeare adaptation studies, identifying theories of adaptation, their application in practice, and the methodologies that underpin them. It investigates current research and points towards future lines of enquiry for students, researchers, and creative practitioners of Shakespeare adaptation. The opening section on research methods and problems considers definitions and theories of Shakespeare adaptation and emphasises how Shakespeare is both adaptor and adapted. A central section develops these theoretical concerns through a series of case studies that move across a range of genres, media forms, and cultures to ask not only how Shakespeare is variously transfigured, hybridised, and valorised through adaptational play, but also how adaptations produce interpretive communities and within these potentially new literacies, modes of engagement and sensory pleasures. The volume's third section provides the reader with uniquely detailed insights into creative adaptation with writers and practice-based researchers reflecting on their close collaborations with Shakespeare's works as an aesthetic, ethical, and political encounter. The Handbook further establishes the conceptual parameters of the field through detailed practical resources that will aid the specialist and non-specialist reader alike, including a guide to research resources and an annotated bibliography.

Mass Communications Research Resources Christopher H. Sterling, James K. Bracken, Susan B. Hill, 2016-05-06. This reference book is designed as a road map for researchers who need to find specific information about American mass communication as expeditiously as possible. Taking a topical approach, it integrates publications and organizations into subject-focused chapters for easy user reference. The editors define mass communication to include print journalism and electronic media and the processes by which they communicate messages to their audiences. Included are newspaper, magazine, radio, television, cable, and newer electronic media industries. Within that definition, this volume offers an indexed inventory of more than 1,400 resources on most aspects of American mass communication: history, technology, economics, content, audience, research, policy, and regulation. The material featured represents the carefully considered judgment of three experts: two of them librarians plus four contributors from different industry venues. The primary focus is on the domestic American print and electronic media industries. Although there is no claim to a complete census of all materials on print journalism and electronic media, what is available is now too vast for any single guide. The most important and useful items are here. The emphasis is on material published since 1980, though useful older resources are included as well. Each chapter is designed to stand alone, providing the most important and useful resources of a primary nature: organizations and documents as well as secondary books and reports. In addition, online resources and internet citations are included where possible.

TV by Design Lynn Spigel, 2008. From the Publisher: While critics have long disparaged commercial television as a vast wasteland TV has surprising links to the urbane world of modern art that stretch back to the 1950s and 60s during that era the rapid rise of commercial television coincided with dynamic new movements in the visual arts a potent combination that precipitated a major shift in the way Americans experienced the world visually TV by Design uncovers this captivating story of how modernism and network television converged and intertwined in their mutual ascent during the decades of the cold war Whereas most histories of television focus on the way older forms of entertainment were recycled for the new medium Lynn Spigel shows how TV was instrumental in introducing the public to the latest trends in art and design Abstract expressionism pop art art cinema modern architecture and cutting edge graphic design were all mined for staging techniques scenic designs and an ever growing number of commercials As a result TV helped fuel the public craze for trendy modern products such as tailfin cars and boomerang coffee tables that was vital to the burgeoning postwar economy And along with influencing the look of television many artists including Eero Saarinen Ben Shahn Saul Bass William Golden and Richard Avedon also participated in its creation as the networks put them to work designing everything from their corporate headquarters to their company cufflinks Dizzy Gillespie Ernie Kovacs Duke Ellington and Andy Warhol all stop by in this imaginative and winning account of the ways in which art television and commerce merged in the first decades of the TV age

Leonard Bernstein and His Young People's Concerts Alicia Kopfstien-Penk, 2015-01-22 Leonard Bernstein touched millions of lives as composer conductor teacher and activist He frequently visited homes around the world through the medium of television particularly through his fifty three award winning Young People s Concerts 1958 1972 which at their height were seen by nearly ten million in over forty countries Originally designed for young viewers but equally attractive to eager adults Bernstein s brilliance as a teacher shined brightly in his televised presentations And yet despite the light touch of the maestro the innocence of his audience and the joyousness of each show s topic the turbulence of the times would peek through In this first in depth look at the series Alicia Kopfstien Penk s Leonard Bernstein and His Young People s Concerts illustrates how the cultural social political and musical upheavals of the long sixties impacted Bernstein s life and his Young People s Concerts Responding to trends in corporate sponsorship censorship and arts programming from the Golden Age of Television into the 1970s the Young People s Concerts would show the impact of and reflect the social and cultural politics of the Cold War Vietnam the Civil Rights and Women s Movements and the Counterculture Bernstein cheerfully bridged classical and popular tastes juxtaposing the Beatles with Mozart even as he offered personal televised pleas for peace and unity At the same time the concerts reflect Bernstein s troubled relationship as a professional musician with the dominance of atonality and his quest to nurture American music Anyone who enjoys the oeuvre of Leonard Bernstein has watched his Young People s Concerts or is passionate about the history of the long sixties will find in Leonard Bernstein and His Young People s Concerts a story of all three captured in this monumental study

Disciplinary and Dissent in Cultural Studies Cary Nelson, Dilip Gaonkar, 2013-10-28 First published in 1996 As recently as the early 1990s people wondered what was the future of cultural studies in the United States and what effects its increasing internationalization might have What type of projects would cultural studies inspire people to undertake Would established disciplines welcome its presence and adapt their practices accordingly Disciplinary and Dissent in Cultural Studies answers such questions It is now clear that while striking and innovative work is underway in many different fields most disciplinary organizations and structures have been very resistant to cultural studies Meanwhile cultural studies has been subjected to repeated attacks by conservative journalists and commentators in the public sphere Cultural studies scholars have responded not only by mounting focused critiques of the politics of knowledge but also by embracing ambitious projects of social political and cultural commentary by transgressing all the official boundaries of knowledge in a broad quest for cultural understanding This book tracks these debates and maps future strategies for cultural studies in academia and public life The contributors to Disciplinary and Dissent in Cultural Studies include established scholars and new voices In a series of polemic and exploratory essays written especially for this book they track the struggle with cultural studies in disciplines like anthropology literature and history and between cultural studies and very different domains like Native American culture and the culture of science Contributors include Arjun Appadurai Michael Denning Lawrence Grossberg Cary Nelson Constance Penley Andrew Ross and Lynn Spigel
