Department of Printed Books,1969      Television History, the Peabody Archive, and Cultural Memory Ethan Thompson,Jeffrey P. Jones,Lucas Hatlen,2019-12-01 Television History the Peabody Archive and Cultural Memory is the first edited volume devoted to the Peabody Awards Collection a unique repository of radio and TV programs submitted yearly since 1941 for consideration for the prestigious Peabody Awards The essays in this volume explore the influence of the Peabody Awards Collection as an archive of the vital medium of TV turning their attention to the wealth of programs considered for Peabody Awards that were not honored and thus have largely been forgotten and yet have the potential to reshape our understanding of American television history Because the collection contains programming produced by stations across the nation it is a distinctive repository of cultural memory many of the programs found in it are not represented in the canon that dominates our understanding of American broadcast history The contributions to this volume ask a range of important questions What do we find if we look to the archive for what s been forgotten How does our understanding of gender class or racial representations shift What different strategies did producers use to connect with audiences and construct communities that may be lost This volume s contributors examine intersections of citizenship and subjectivity in public service programs compare local and national coverage of particular individuals and social issues and draw our attention to types of programming that have disappeared Together they show how locally produced programs from both commercial and public stations have acted on behalf of their communities challenging representations of culture politics and people

Producing Precarity Curtis Marez,2025-08-26 The hidden cost of TV production for communities of color Producing Precarity is a long overdue examination of the television industry s practice of offshoring production to impoverished sites within the US The author Curtis Marez focuses on state efforts to attract film and TV producers to poor places with tax incentives discounted public lands and subsidized infrastructures He argues that these efforts result in the redistribution of wealth from poor people of color Indigenous people and other taxpayers to Los Angeles based media makers while also diverting money that could be used for education and health care to the wealthy The popular series produced in these places such as Breaking Bad The Watchmen Lovecraft County The Walking Dead and Vida are praised by critics and awards organizations and highlighted by streaming services for challenging genre casting and narrative conventions However many of these shows rely on racialized and gendered low wage labor for production and diversity equity and inclusion representations can sometimes perpetuate repression such as depicting police as diversity champions Producing Precarity examines how contemporary streaming shows from these areas promote racial inequality in ideology and content as well as materially through their local production methods and perceptually through streaming distribution modes that discourage viewers from understanding how TV is made Marez also provides examples of local resistance including movements against a police training center and a film studio in Atlanta as well as anti gentrification movements in Latinx neighborhoods of LA Congressional Record United States.
