Battlegrounds and Crossroads Maria Antònia Oliver-Rotger,2003-01-01 Of interest to informed readers responsive to combined textual and cultural approaches to Chicano literature and literature in general Battleground and Crossroads weaves in various critical and theoretical threads to inquire into the relationship between intimate and public spaces in Chicana literature Without claiming the borderlands as exclusive of the Chicana imagination this book acknowledges the importance of this metaphor for bringing to view a more intercultural United States allowing it to become inflected with the particularity of each text The analyses of Chicana fiction drama and autobiography explore the construction of identity through the representation of social space and the transformation of literary space For discussion of a diacritical territory this volume draws on an interdisciplinary practice that facilitates the journey from the most intimate spaces to the most public spaces of modernity so that the aesthetic text yields its knowledge of the contingent historical circumstances of its production in material and existential terms The apparent regionalism and localism of this literature is nothing but a reflection of the relationship between the local and the global the private and the public the personal and the political the aesthetic and the ideological the subversive and the mainstream Each text stands by itself while it also reaches out to the sociopolitical imaginary for interpretation through an interdisciplinary methodology that is indispensable to do justice to a politicized aesthetics
