Telling Image Stories In Art:

On Telling Images of China Shane McCausland, Yin Hwang, 2013-11-01 The essays in this volume address a diverse range of issues in China's narrative art and visual culture mainly from the Ming dynasty 1368-1644 to the present. These studies attend to the complex ways in which images circulate in pictorial media and across boundaries between high art and popular culture images in paintings, prints, stone engravings and posters as well as in film and video art. In addition, the authors examine the roles of ancient exemplary stories and textual narratives as well as their reiteration in the visual arts in early modern and modern social and political contexts. The volume is divided into three sections: Representing Paradigms, Interpreting Literary Themes and Narratives, and the Medium and Modernity. While the essays in each section deal with concerns in the field of China's art history, an editor's introduction serves to position the topic of narrative art and to introduce definitions and genre issues which run through the book. As a whole, the volume invites reflection on the intrinsic nature of narratives and their pictorial lives and presents new research which challenges established views and paradigms.

Educating by Story-telling Katherine Dunlap Cather, 1919      Telling Stories Differently Janet Condry, 2015-09-01 The aim of this book is to share a relatively loose collection of studies using digital storytelling as a pedagogical tool in Cape Peninsula University of Technology (CPUT). The book takes an informed social justice approach to teaching and learning at the heart of which is the exploration of DST as a practice of voice and agency. Voice and agency are important in excavating and recovering subjugated identities and moving the concerns of those occupying subaltern spaces to the mainstream of teaching and learning. Yet this discursive shift is not without inherent challenges. Multi-modal technologies are reflective of wider inequities in the so-called technological divide. Whilst this is a book about higher education, there are important lessons for schooling. On the one hand, the book is a powerful demonstration of the potential of DST for enhancing learning in schools, particularly in schools serving the poor and marginalised. On the other hand, improving teaching and learning in higher education through the creative use of technology is essential to overcome the learning challenges of those entering tertiary level institutions.

Exhibiting Student Art David Burton, 2006-03-27 Exhibition is a vital component of art education, yet most teachers have no formal training or expertise in designing and producing art exhibits. In this book, David Burton offers a comprehensive hands-on approach with an emphasis on engaging students to develop, implement and evaluate their artwork. He breaks down the exhibition process into five major phases: theme development, exhibition design, exhibition installation, publicity and receptions. Each phase is exemplified with cases based on actual teacher experiences. Including a review of the historical development of exhibitions, this accessible volume emphasizes an active role for students in the exhibition process, exploring the enormous power exhibitions have in influencing learning in visual arts education. It describes the concepts and skills students and teachers need in each phase of creating an exhibit, provides supportive case studies and photographs to illustrate exhibition theme, design and venue, and covers assessment and practical teaching strategies related to exhibition.
