The Tamarisk Tree Dora Russell, 1975 Love and Freedom Alison Mackinnon, 1997-01-28 In this 1997 book Alison Mackinnon traces the history of women's challenges to changes in education employment reproductive science and law She shows the connection between the lives of the first generation of women university graduates and the sudden decline in the national birthrate So dramatic was this shift that it sparked a Royal Commission into its cause Alison Mackinnon's extensive research shows that the declining birthrate was not simply the result of selfish educated young women refusing to bear the burdens of motherhood but was symptomatic of a larger questioning of the role of women in procreation the role of women in marriage and the institution of marriage itself Utilising social and government history autobiography and statistical analysis this book shows that the Marriage Problem exists as much in the 1990s as it did in the 1890s Men and women today are still challenging the boundaries between work and home profession and private life trying to find a way to have it all

Dreamers of a New Day Sheila Rowbotham, 2011-07-01 From the 1880s to the 1920s a profound social awakening among women extended the possibilities of change far beyond the struggle for the vote Amid the growth of globalized trade mass production immigration and urban slums American and British women broke with custom and prejudice Taking off corsets forming free unions living communally buying ethically joining trade unions doing social work in settlements these dreamers of a new day challenged ideas about sexuality mothering housework the economy and citizenship Drawing on a wealth of research Sheila Rowbotham has written a groundbreaking new history that shows how women created much of the fabric of modern life These innovative dreamers raised questions that remain at the forefront of our twenty first century lives

Turbulent Times of Clara Dorothea Rackham Maroula Joannou, 2022-10-18 This is the first critical study of Clara Dorothea Rackham ne Tabor 1875-1966 a towering figure in the suffrage labour co-operative peace and adult education movements but virtually forgotten today This clearly written and engaging study is based on unpublished primary sources including Rackham's unpublished speeches letters diaries and contemporary media coverage of her work in local and national archives It reassesses this remarkable woman not only as a politician who changed the face of Cambridge the university city in which she lived and worked but also as a public intellectual whose feminist advocacy of a fair just and equal society helped pave the way to Britain's postwar settlement and Welfare State Rackham came to prominence as Chairman of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies as a government factory inspector and championing the rights of unemployed women in the 1930s An early broadcaster on BBC radio and among the first women appointed magistrates and councillors her name became synonymous with enlightened local government The transformation of women's lives in Victorian and twentieth century Britain is crucial to understanding Rackham's ideals intellectual formation and priorities as a Labour Party politician This book will be of interest to historians and students of gender history and women's lives
