Evaluating Information Retrieval and Access Tasks Tetsuya Sakai, Douglas W. Oard, Noriko Kando, 2020-09-01 This open access book summarizes the first two decades of the NII Testbeds and Community for Information Access Research NTCIR NTCIR is a series of evaluation forums run by a global team of researchers and hosted by the National Institute of Informatics NII Japan The book is unique in that it discusses not just what was done at NTCIR but also how it was done and the impact it has achieved For example in some chapters the reader sees the early seeds of what eventually grew to be the search engines that provide access to content on the World Wide Web today's smartphones that can tailor what they show to the needs of their owners and the smart speakers that enrich our lives at home and on the move We also get glimpses into how new search engines can be built for mathematical formulae or for the digital record of a lived human life Key to the success of the NTCIR endeavor was early recognition that information access research is an empirical discipline and that evaluation therefore lay at the core of the enterprise Evaluation is thus at the heart of each chapter in this book They show for example how the recognition that some documents are more important than others has shaped thinking about evaluation design The thirty three contributors to this volume speak for the many hundreds of researchers from dozens of countries around the world who together shaped NTCIR as organizers and participants This book is suitable for researchers practitioners and students anyone who wants to learn about past and present evaluation efforts in information retrieval information access and natural language processing as well as those who want to participate in an evaluation task or even to design and organize one Information Retrieval Ayse Goker, John Davies, 2009-12-15 This book is an essential reference to cutting edge issues and future directions in information retrieval Information retrieval IR can be defined as the process of representing managing searching retrieving and presenting information Good IR involves understanding information needs and interests developing an effective search technique system presentation distribution and delivery The increased use of the Web and wider availability of information in this environment led to the development of Web search engines This change has brought fresh challenges to a wider variety of users needs tasks and types of information Today search engines are seen in enterprises on laptops in individual websites in library catalogues and elsewhere Information Retrieval Searching in the 21st Century focuses on core concepts and current trends in the field This book focuses on Information Retrieval Models User centred Evaluation of Information Retrieval Systems Multimedia Resource Discovery Image Users Needs and Searching Behaviour Web Information Retrieval Mobile Search Context and Information Retrieval Text Categorisation and Genre in Information Retrieval Semantic Search The Role of Natural Language Processing in Information Retrieval Search for Meaning and Structure Cross language Information Retrieval Performance Issues in Parallel Computing for Information Retrieval This book is an invaluable reference for graduate students on IR courses or courses in related disciplines e g computer science information science human computer interaction and knowledge management academic and industrial researchers and industrial personnel tracking information search technology developments to understand the business implications Intermediate advanced level undergraduate students on IR or related courses will also find this text insightful Chapters are supplemented with exercises to stimulate further thinking Experiment and Evaluation in Information Retrieval Models K. Information Retrieval Systems Gerald J. Kowalski, 2007-08-23 The growth of the Internet and the availability of enormous volumes of data in digital form have necessitated intense interest in techniques to assist the user in locating data of interest The Internet has over 350 million pages of data and is expected to reach over one billion pages by the year 2000 Buried on the Internet are both valuable nuggets to answer questions as well as a large quantity of information the average person does not care about The Digital Library effort is also progressing with the goal of migrating from the traditional book environment to a digital library environment The challenge to both authors of new publications that will reside on this information domain and developers of systems to locate information is to provide the information and capabilities to sort out the non relevant items from those desired by the consumer In effect as we proceed down this path it will be the computer that determines what we see versus the human being The days of going to a library and browsing the new book shelf are being replaced by electronic searching the Internet or the library catalogs Whatever the search engines return will constrain our knowledge of what information is available An understanding of Information Retrieval Systems puts this new environment into perspective for both the creator of documents and the consumer trying to locate information
