Technological Response To Import Liberalization In SubSaharan Africa:

The Technological Response to Import Liberalization in SubSaharan Africa Sanjaya Lall,1999-02-24 Many African countries liberalized in the belief that international competition would stimulate efficiency growth and technological dynamism The results are mixed but largely disappointing This book examines why looking at technological reactions to liberalization in garments and engineering in Tanzania Kenya and Zimbabwe countries with different levels of industrialisation and differing degrees of liberalization Its findings aimed at practitioners and researchers explain why the assumptions underlying liberalisation are often flawed why capabilities differ and why they lag behind other regions

Technological Response to Import Liberalization in SubSaharan Africa Sanjaya Lall,1999 The New Development Economics Jomo K.S.,Ben Fine,2006 This volume provides a critique of the post Washington Consensus in neoliberal economics Failing to Compete Sanjaya Lall,Carlo Pietrobell,2002 Despite years of liberalization African manufacturing is conspicuously unable to compete in the global market Its exports are minuscule its response to competition is weak technical efficiency is low and there are few signs of technological dynamism Delivering Sustainable Growth in Africa Takahiro Fukunishi,2013-12-17 The purpose of this book is to fill the lack of micro evidences on a structural change of African producers By collecting studies on single industries we attempt to demonstrate firms and farmers responses to the recent economic trend such as growth of demand emergence of FDI and improvement in infrastructure Flat World, Big Gaps United Nations,2007-03 This publication sets out an empirical analysis of the impact of economic liberalisation and globalisation on inequality poverty and development including recent trends in economic growth income distribution and global inequalities and the comparative experiences of countries that have pursued different economic policies

Promoting Innovation, Productivity and Industrial Growth and Reducing Poverty Maureen Mackintosh,Joanna Chataway,Marc Wuyts,2021-04-26 Development and the ending of mass poverty require a massive increase in productive capabilities and production in developing countries Some countries notably in Asia are achieving this Yet pro poor aid policies especially for the least developed countries operate largely without reference to policy thinking on the promotion of innovation for productivity growth Conversely policy makers and researchers on innovation and industrial policies tend to know little about the potential for social protection to support innovation and productivity improvement This book aims to focus attention on this gulf between research on innovation and on poverty reduction and to identify some of its policy consequences to set out some ways in which this gulf can be bridged analytically and empirically and to contribute to the creation of an agenda for further research and an understanding of the urgency of the implied rethinking The first two chapters provide sustained arguments for embedding social policy thinking in much more productivist frameworks of thought that focus on raising productivity and employment and for identifying growth theories that can incorporate satisfactory understandings of innovation and employment upgrading A set of chapters then tackle these broad themes in the context of health addressing the interlinked issues of innovation health inequity and associated impoverishment The final set of chapters examines the challenge of creating industrial policies that generate both innovation and employment using and going beyond concepts of systems of innovation

Trade Liberalisation and Poverty in South Asia Prema-chandra Athukorala, Jayatilleke S. Bandara, Saman Kelegama, 2012-05-23 The link between trade liberalisation and poverty has arguably been one of the most debated topics in development policy debate Existing studies on the subject have primarily used multi country cross sectional data and there is a growing concern about the limitations of this approach in providing a sound empirical basis for informing the policy debate These limitations point to the need for undertaking in depth analyses within individual countries over time In order to examine the connection between trade liberalisation and poverty this book provides case studies of trade policy reforms and poverty reduction outcomes of seven countries in South Asia Bangladesh Bhutan India Maldives Nepal Pakistan and Sri Lanka The South Asia region allows for an excellent comparative study given the widespread emphasis on liberalisation reforms in the region over the past two decades as well as highlighting significant inter country differences in terms of the timing and comprehensiveness of reforms and the heavy concentration of world poverty in the region This book is a useful contribution to studies on South Asia as well as International Trade and Development Economics

Environment and Industry in Developing Countries Ralph Andrew Luken, Frank Van Rompaey, 2007-01-01 This impressive study compares the adoption of environmentally sound technology in industrial sectors in eight developing countries In combining a variety of quantitative and qualitative methodologies on rich empirical data the authors open the technological change black box and are able to formulate clear conclusions on the drivers and barriers for technological change A major contribution to better understanding and governing environmentally sound technological change Arthur P J Mol Wageningen University The Netherlands All theory is gray but the golden tree of life springs ever green says Goethe This book is very green that is empirical about a green topic the adoption of environmentally sound technologies in developing countries using triangulation for assessing the factors behind such choices A very nice study on an important topic Ren Kemp UNU MERIT Maastricht The Netherlands Industries located in developing countries have made major improvements in environmental performance since the Rio Earth Summit of 1992 More specifically their record in reducing energy use and water pollutant intensities has been better than developed countries This significant new book investigates what motivates industries in developing countries to adopt environmentally sound technology EST a subject about which very little is actually known The authors present the findings of a United Nations study of the factors that determined EST adoption by 105 manufacturing plants in four different sectors within eight developing countries They explore both factors internal to the plants as well as external factors including governments markets and civil society Environment and Industry in Developing Countries will be of great interest to development assistance agencies supporting programmes for industrial environmental management in developing countries and also to graduate school programmes in economic development technology management as well as in international business The Global Political Economy of Raúl Prebisch Matias E. Margulis, 2017-03-16 The Global Political Economy of Raúl Prebisch offers an original analysis of global political economy by examining it through the ideas agency and influence of one of its most important thinkers leaders and personalities Prebisch's ground breaking ideas as an economist the terms of trade thesis and the economic case for state led industrialization changed the world and guided economic policy across the global South As the head of two UN bodies the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean ECLAC and later the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development UNCTAD he was at the frontline of key North South political struggles for a fairer global distribution of wealth and the regulation of transnational corporations Prebisch increasingly came to view political power not just economic capabilities as pivotal to shaping the institutions and rules of the world economy This book contextualizes his ideas exploring how they were used and their relevance to contemporary issues The neoliberal turn in economics in North America Western Europe and across the global South led to an active discrediting of Prebisch's theories and this volume offers an important corrective reintroducing current and future generations of scholars and students to this important body of work and allowing a richer understanding of past and ongoing political struggles Production Networks and Enterprises in East Asia

Ganeshan Wignaraja, 2015-12-10 The book provides a comprehensive examination of patterns and determinants of production networks in East Asia a key driver in the region's global success It provides the reader with an accessible understanding of the theoretical literature on production networks and recent developments in empirical analysis at the industry and firm levels The topics covered in the book include gross trade in parts and components and gravity models trade in value added industry case studies and micro data econometric studies of firm heterogeneity in production networks The micro data econometric studies explore key aspects of the heterogeneity of firms in East Asian production networks such as technological capability the entry of small and medium enterprises into production networks business use of free trade agreements and access to credit Blending new sources of data empirical tools and econometric methods this book is highly recommended for readers who seek to understand the workings of the complex web of production networks in East Asia

Governing Globalization Deepak Nayyar, 2002 It is now more than fifty years since the United Nations system and the Bretton Woods institutions were created The world has changed since then and so have its governance needs in terms of institutions and rules It is time to think about the contours of institutions and governance that would meet the needs of the world economy and also polity at least for the first quarter of the twenty first century This book is the first to examine the subject in depth The study is divided into four parts The first situates the subject in the wider context of globalization which has shaped development in the world economy affected the living conditions of people and constrained the role of nation states The international context and the national setting are explored The second part analyses some issues of emerging significance in the contemporary world such as global macroeconomic management transnational corporations international capital flows and cross border movements of people to suggest that there are some missing institutions which are needed. The third part provides a critical evaluation of the existing institutions in retrospect with a focus on the UN, the IMF, the World Bank and the WTO. It analyses how existing rules need to be modified or existing institutions need to be restructured to meet the present and future needs of global governance. The fourth part explores some important elements of governance which are critical for any vision of the future. It suggests some changes in existing institutions and points to emerging governance needs where new institutions may have to be created. This authoritative volume will be of enormous value to readers with an interest in international economics, development economics and international relations. It will also be of immense value to practitioners both policy makers and diplomats concerned with problems of global governance and should become the standard reference on the subject.

The Garment Industry in Low-Income Countries T. Fukunishi, T. Yamagata, 2014-05-21 This book explores the means through which the garment industry contributes to industrialization, poverty reduction, empowerment of undereducated workers in particular female laborers and shared growth in contemporary low income countries.

Bringing together some of the foremost names in the field, this comprehensive and timely collection constitutes a critical staging post in the future of development economics.

Non-tariff Barriers, Regionalism And Poverty: Essays In Applied International Trade Analysis L. Alan Winters, 2015-03-26 Non Tariff Barriers, Regionalism and Poverty is a collection of key articles in three important areas of applied international trade research: measuring non tariff barriers and their effects, the consequences of regional trading arrangements especially on the countries excluded from them and the connection between international trade and poverty. Drawing from 30 years of research and experience, L. Alan Winters illustrates the development of techniques of this field and his continued commitment to answering real policy questions at the times at which they are debated. The collection shows the ways in which economic and econometric analysis can be used to answer real world problems rigorously in the area of international trade and trade policy. Readers will find that some of the research included is of current methodological relevance and some of more historical significance. This volume is invaluable to anyone who is keen on developing their knowledge on trade policy, regionalism or poverty.

Business and Government Relations in Africa Robert A. Dibia, 2017-07-06 This book looks at the regulatory regimes that have an impact on business and provides a number of case studies of the relationships between government and economic development around the African continent, highlighting different processes and practices. It will be of interest both to students at an advanced level, academics and reflective practitioners. It addresses the topics with regard to business, government relations and will be of interest to researchers, academics, policymakers and students in the fields of African politics, comparative politics, public policy, business and politics, sustainable development and sustainability, economic development and managerial economics Globalization and Firm Competitiveness in the Middle East and North Africa Region Samiha Fawzy, 2002-01-01 Printed on Demand Limited stock is held for this title If you would like to order 30 copies or more please contact books.worldbank.org Contact books.worldbank.org if currently unavailable Globalization has increased competitive pressures on firms Together with rapid technological change it has altered the environment in which firms operate While globalization offers unprecedented opportunities for firms to act successfully it simultaneously heightens the risks for firms lagging behind In an open and liberalized world increasing firm competitiveness has become a major challenge This volume provides a thorough analysis of the competitiveness of firms in the Middle East and North Africa Region MENA It is organized into four parts which detail the different issues related to firm competitiveness from global rules for business regional business environment corporate governance and the key economic sectors of small medium size enterprises and tourism This volume addresses key issues for the future of the region including the real challenges facing firms operations and efficiency the ability of MENA firms to compete in global markets the impact of small and medium size enterprises on the stimulation of growth and the economic potential of the tourism sector Rent Seeking and Development Christine Ngoc Ngo, 2020-03-25 Rent seeking continues to be a topic of much discussion and debate within the political economy This new study challenges previous assumptions and sets out a new analysis of the dynamics of rent and rent seeking in development using Vietnam as a case study This book provides an alternative approach to the study of economic development and illuminates new perspectives in a contemporary context It argues that not only has there been an incomplete understanding of Vietnam's industrial development over the last three decades but that neoclassical economics do not adequately address many of the issues endangering Vietnam's development A significant observation of the Vietnamese experience is the analytical view that rents can be developmental and growth enhancing if the configuration of rent management incentivizes industrial upgrade and conditions firm performance Underlining the need to reexamine how economic actors and the state collaborate through formal and informal institutions this study fills a gap in the scholarship of the political economy of rent and rent seeking and how rents might be used for developmental purposes

Competitiveness Strategy in Developing Countries Ganeshan Wignaraja, 2003-10-04 Globalization and structural adjustment offer many opportunities for export orientated industrialization in developing economies As a group competitiveness in the developing countries has improved but while East Asian economies have had rapid export growth and technological upgrades South Asian and African economies have lagged behind Old structures institutions behavioural patterns and public policies are ill adapted to deal with the challenges posed by technological change and economic liberalization Consequently there is an urgent need for change in government and private sector attitudes and strategies This volume seeks to generalise the lessons across developing country and enterprise cases and sheds light on which trade and industrial strategies and instruments work best and which do not work in relation to manufacturing competitiveness

Identifying Supply-side Constraints to Export Performance in Ecuador Paulo Correa, Mariam Dayoub, Manuela Francisco, 2007

The authors apply a Heckman selection model to the 2003 Investment Climate Survey ICS to investigate supply side constraints to export performance at the firm level in Ecuador. To correct for the non random truncation problems they use the Heckman selection model to estimate the probability of exporting, export propensity, and the share of total sales that are exported, export intensity, by Ecuadorian firms. They develop a baseline model with 12 independent variables divided into three categories: idiosyncratic characteristics, technology, and business environment. The authors develop three other models with the addition of variables related to trade integration, business environment, and infrastructure. Results corroborate with the hypothesis implicit in the Heckman model, which considers both decisions made by a firm: whether to export and how much of its sales to export, to be interdependent. In the Ecuadorian case, they find three important results for the firm's export performance: technology matters, infrastructure does not, and trade orientation is significant, with specialized firms tending to have smaller export intensity when their main trade partners are countries of the Andean Community and the opposite happening if the United States is their main trade partner. The authors find a robust and stable relationship for export propensity and intensity with size, import of inputs, labor regulations, in-house research and development, quality certification, web use, and foreign ownership. Also, capacity utilization and trade with the United States positively affect export intensity, while trade within the Andean Community has the opposite effect in the outcome variable. But they find no significant relationship for the infrastructure variables.
