Inclusion, a Practical Guide for Parents Lorraine O. Moore, 1996. This book offers guidance for parents concerning their children with disabilities who are being educated in inclusive settings. It provides background information about how children learn and the specific difficulties experienced by children with learning problems. It suggests strategies for creating better learning environments at home and at school and for helping with reading math and writing skills. The book informs parents on how to measure their child's learning progress through formal ways standardized tests report cards and informal ways teacher observation assessment of daily work and projects. Individual chapters cover the topics of 1 inclusive education as a shared responsibility of home and school 2 principles of collaboration between home and school 3 reasons for learning difficulties including specific difficulties experienced by students with a variety of mental emotional and physical impairments 4 learning about the child as a student 5 charting the child's progress 6 creating a home environment for learning 7 strategies for helping the child with homework and 8 experiences and insights of parents. Appended are 22 forms for parents to use with their child or educators a bibliography a list of resources and a glossary. Contains 37 references. DB

Managing Attention and Learning Disorders in Late Adolescence and Adulthood Sam Goldstein, 1997. It is also clear that many of the concepts and strategies used in assessing and treating children with these problems do not apply to adults.
