Murrow Financial pressures and advertising concerns in the 1960s led the networks to veer away from their commitment to serve the public interest and tabloid television celebrity gossip driven soft news and news magazines became increasingly widespread In the 1980s cable news further transformed broadcasting igniting intense competition for viewers in the media marketplace Focusing on both national and local news this stimulating volume examines the evolution of broadcast journalism It also considers how new electronic technologies will affect news delivery in the 21st century and whether television news can still both serve the public interest and maintain an audience
