Tell Me a Story, and Then I'll Go to Bed . . . Paula Oltman, 2017-11-17 At the time of the author's retirement a few years ago writing a children's storybook for her grandchildren was one of the top items on her bucket list. However, it wasn't far into the project that she realized that these stories based on her family's real life experiences and her most cherished tales from childhood begged to be shared. The collection represents a legacy for future generations and each story is just too precious to be forgotten. The twelve stories appropriate for bedtime are introduced by scripture texts that can be memorized by even young children. Lessons of God's protection, answered prayers, the care of angels, thankfulness, and God's direction in our lives are but a few of the faith-building topics covered. Each story is beautifully illustrated by the watercolor and colored pen artistry of the author's good friend Darla Hanson. The author's purpose in writing this book is to provide yet another avenue for children to know Jesus in their formative years and develop a growing and lifelong relationship with him. Her prayer is that one of these stories might linger in your child's memory as a reminder of God's love and care in trying circumstances.

Creating Compassionate Kids: Essential Conversations to Have with Young Children Shauna Tominey, 2019-01-08 Selected as a Favorite Book for Parents in 2019 by Greater Good. Young children can surprise us with tough questions. Tominey's essential guide teaches us how to answer them and foster compassion along the way. If you had to choose one word to describe the world you want children to grow up in, what would it be? Safe. Understanding. Resilient. Compassionate. As parents and caregivers of young children, we know what we want for our children, but not always how to get there. Many children today are stressed by academic demands, anxious about relationships at school, confused by messages they hear in the media, and overwhelmed by challenges at home. Young children look to the adults in their lives for everything. Sometimes we're prepared, sometimes we're not. In this book, Shauna Tominey guides parents and caregivers through how to have conversations with young children about a range of topics from what makes us who we are (e.g., race, gender) to tackling challenges (e.g., peer pressure, divorce, stress) to showing compassion (e.g., making friends, recognizing privilege, being a helper). Talking through these topics in an age-appropriate manner, rather than telling children they are too young to understand, helps children recognize how they feel and how they fit in with the world around them. This book provides sample conversations, discussion prompts, storybook recommendations, and family activities. Dr. Tominey's research-based strategies and practical advice create dialogues that teach self-esteem, resilience, and empathy, the building blocks for a more compassionate world.
