English spotlighting several hitherto marginalised figures in South African literary studies Life Writing as World Literature Helga Lenart-Cheng,Ioana Luca,2025-05-01 A global array of contributors explore the interplay between translation and circulation mediums and materialities and aesthetics and politics in how life writing is shaped by and becomes world literature We live in the age of popular self representation in that most people around the globe either produce or consume autobiographical material memoirs selfies blogs etc The current volume investigates this global phenomenon and examines how life writing and world literature converge Why do some personal stories get picked up translated circulated and taught in classrooms while others remain moored in local waters Do autobiographical stories that travel widely have something in common about them Or is it the other way around is it our notion of world literature that imposes uniform expectations on these diverse texts And what can we gain from studying these two fields in conjunction Life Writing as World Literature brings together experts who map regional and local autobiographical traditions from six continents These scholars explore the dynamic interplay between local and global aesthetics and sociopolitical concerns presenting case studies that include prison narratives from communist regimes Japanese diaries multilingual Caribbean memoirs Indian auto biographical comics and stories by Taiwanese domestic workers To understand how and why some personal stories enter global dissemination contributors inquire into translation market mechanisms and circulation patterns while also exploring the affordances of new media and materialities when recording contemporary lives Life Writing as World Literature brings a fresh perspective to both fields world literature and life writing opening up exciting avenues of research

Helgesson,2008-08-18 Considering the growing interest in South African Literature at the moment this study looks at both the Anglophone literature of South Africa and the lusophone literature of Angola and Mozambique Stefan Helgesson suggests that the prevalence of colonial languages such as English and Portuguese in anticolonial or postcolonial African Literature is primarily an effect of the print network Helgesson aims to demystify the authority of English and Portuguese by stressing the materiality of the print medium and emphasising the strong transnational and transcontinental vectors of southern African literature after the Second World War Trapped in History Nicholas Rankin,2023-11-14 Trapped in History tells how the British colonised Kenya and how African nationalism arose under Jomo Kenyatta It describes the terrifying first attacks by the guerrilla freedom fighters known as Mau Mau Though defeated the Mau Mau hastened the end of British rule in Kenya

Mukhopadhyay,Saptarshi Mallick,Debashree Dattaray,2024-09-05 A cross cultural study that explores and redefines what philosophy philosophizing and philosophers are through the lens of literature The academic discipline of philosophy may tell us too rigidly what a philosopher is or should be but fictional narration often upholds the core conundrums of humankind in which philosophy germinates This collection of essays explores whether a study of philosophers at a planetary scale or at least on a broad cross cultural spectrum can decouple philosophy from its academic aspect and lend it a more inclusive domain Contributors to this volume play with three conceptual poles making them interact with each other and get modified through this interaction fiction narrative and philosopher How do these three terms get semantically modified and broadened in scope when we speak of the figures of philosophers in imaginative writing How do these terms assume different connotations in different cultural contexts interacting with the multiplicity of not just thought but also the media and tools of thought Do we always think only rationally Or do we also think with and through emotively powerful images symbols and tropes In the end Finding Philosophers in Global Fiction insists on the need to de elitize and democratize the concept of a philosopher by reflecting on the possibility of seeing a philosopher as one who sees things clearly from any vantage point
