Social Care Of The Elderly:

Performance Indicators in Social Care for Older People David Challis, Paul Clarkson, 2017-03-02 The growing focus on performance review and monitoring means that awareness and use of performance indicators has increased throughout a number of public services. Set within a national context, this book reviews the historical development and measurement issues of performance indicators within social care and the public sector for older people. It then provides an approach to effective local performance measurement in services for older people and an organizing framework within which organizations can arrange their performance appraisal for older people's services. The development of performance review in social care of older people is examined, as is the process of developing local performance measures and engaging staff in enquiry and quality management. The book also reviews the process of developing performance indicators and their utilization at an agency level. Performance Indicators in Social Care for Older People will be of particular interest in the UK for local service providers who are developing approaches for local performance review. It will also be of interest internationally, especially in countries where services for older people are currently developing in a similar direction.

Social Care of the Elderly Marjorie H. Cantor, Mark Brennan, PhD, 2000-02-29 A welcome addition to the literature in this important area of work that builds on the empirical studies which have illuminated our understanding of the requirements of effective service provision. The final section is in a real sense a call for action for all of us in the field and for public officials and opinion makers to respond to the need for Social Care now and in the new millennium. From the foreword by Rose Dobrof, DSW, Brookdale Professor of Gerontology, Hunter College, and James R. Dumpson, PhD, Chairman of Policy Center for Aging, New York Community Trust. Based on two groundbreaking studies of older people in an urban setting, this important book focuses on access to social services for different ethnicities. Cantor and Brennan review different models and provide the theoretical base for the book in Part I. They describe ways in which the complementary roles of informal and formal systems change as a function of the health status of older people. In Part II, they illustrate the ways in which ethnicity, class, and culture affect the roles of the formal and informal systems by focusing on specific case studies of African American, Latino, and Jewish elderly.

Long-term Care for the Elderly in Europe Bent Greve, 2016-12-01 Long-term care is an increasingly important issue in many contemporary welfare states around the globe, given ageing populations. This groundbreaking book provides detailed case studies of 11 EU member states' welfare regimes within Europe to show how welfare states organize structures and deliver long-term care and whether there is a social investment perspective in the delivery of long-term care. This perspective is important because the effect of demographic transitions is often used as an argument for the existence of economic pressure on welfare states and a need for either direct retrenchment or attempts to reduce welfare state spending. The book's chapters will look specifically into how different welfare states have focussed on long-term care in recent years and what type of changes have taken place with regard to ageing populations and ambitions to curb increases in public sector spending in this area They describe the development in long term care for the elderly after the financial crisis and also discuss the boundaries between state and civil society in the different welfare states approaches to the delivery of care

Public Policy and the Old Age Revolution in Japan Scott Bass,Masato Oka,Jill Norton,Robert Morris Deceased,2014-06-03 Thirty years ago when compared to the U S England France and Sweden Japan had the lowest life expectancy for males and females Today Japan has the highest life expectancy and is the world s most rapidly aging society Public Policy and the Old Age Revolution in Japan captures the vitality of Japanese policymakers and the challenges they face in shaping a modern society responding to its changing needs The rapid transition to an aging society poses a set of complex policy and resource dilemmas the responses taken in Japan are of great value to policymakers professionals and students in the fields of gerontology Asian and Japanese studies sociology public policy administration and management and anthropology in other industrial aging societies Readers of Public Policy and the Old Age Revolution in Japan will discover the array of social and economic implications that comes with an increasingly aged society. Such a change in demographics affects pension expenditures and pension contributions, capital formation and savings rates, health costs, service systems, tax bases, labor pools, career counseling, training, advertising and marketing. This book does not stop with these topics; however, Readers also learn about how older Japanese workers are staying employed and employable policies in Japan for a smooth transition from work to retirement. Japan's Silver Human Resource Centers, the new direction of health services in Japan, the Japanese financing system for elderly health care, the expansion of formalized in-home services for Japan's aged, Japanese housing policy and the concept of universal design, the Gold Plan, a comprehensive ten-year plan to promote health care and welfare for the aged, the concept of ikigai promoting feelings of purpose and self-worth in the aged. Public Policy and the Old Age Revolution in Japan is one of only a handful of books prepared in English by American and Japanese authors for an international audience about aging and social policy in Japan. The book's recent collection of articles by leading scholars on the subject makes it a unique and timely source of information. Above all, Public Policy and the Old Age Revolution in Japan makes it clear that the rest of the world has many valuable lessons to learn by studying Japan's approach to its rapidly aging society.

Evidence Informed Nursing with Older People Debbie Tolson, Jo Booth, Irene Schofield, 2011-02-04. Evidence Informed Nursing with Older People is an essential text for nursing students and registered nurses working with older people who are seeking to make connections between theory, evidence and value-based gerontological practice. The rapidly rising aging global population requires that more attention is given to the needs and requirements of older people. This textbook is a key resource for nursing students and registered nurses working with older people who wish to improve their practice. Evidence Informed Nursing with Older People takes a unique case study approach with individual chapters presenting nursing practice-based case studies on some of the most common areas of care faced by nurses working around the world with older people. Each case study illustrates the connections between practice, theory, evidence and values. User-friendly and accessible, this textbook includes key points, reflection activities, test points and perspectives from older people throughout. Key features: An up-to-date treatment of the nursing contribution to key geriatric syndromes. International expert contributions from the UK, Sweden, Switzerland, Australia and China. An evidence-based case study approach to the care of older people.

Handbook of Aging, Health and Public Policy S. Irudaya Rajan, 2025-09-30. This handbook presents the latest information on all aspects of global aging with a focus on Asia, including policies, age-associated diseases and conditions, health services, long-term care, living arrangements, income and social security, preventing abuse and the impact of migration on the elderly. Furthermore, the book presents a synthesis of research on population aging, social protection policies, crimes against the elderly, new analyses of trends and discussions of major social policy strategies. Written by academics, practitioners and policymakers in the field of gerontology, the book offers an informative resource for demographers, gerontologists, economists, anthropologists and other social scientists studying various facets of aging as well.

Mental Health in Older People Across Cultures Nhi-Ha Trinh, Iqbal Ahmed, Dinesh Bhugra, 2024-12-17 As people across all nations around the world are beginning to live longer the World Health Organization estimates the number of older adults will double to 1.5 billion by 2050. This presents visible increases in older adult mental health issues and it is therefore vital that we understand the cross-cultural impact of social determinants of health in psychiatric illness and care in aging adults. As part of the Oxford Cultural Psychiatry series Mental Health in Older People Across Cultures provides a detailed overview of the diverse factors including socioeconomic and systemic factors within and across countries that impact the process of ageing, mental health and illnesses of older adults and their care. This unique resource provides a necessary clinical understanding of factors on ageing and the varied roles that families and caregivers have on the ageing process with an emphasis on highlighting similarities and differences across cultures. The second half of the book then focuses on specific disorders in older adults across the globe affected by these factors, the nuances impacting diagnosis and treatment of these disorders as well as research and development of healthcare policy. Written by experts in the field from across the world, this comprehensive book will be of great interest to a diversity of readers from psychiatrists to trainees, general practitioners to social workers and many other mental health providers. From epidemiology to economics and substance use disorders and from East Asia to Africa and the Americas, this valuable addition to the field of mental health in older adults provides a world of fascinating insight.

Hong Kong's Health System Gabriel M. Leung, John Bacon-Shone, 2006-01-01 This book provides a significant contribution to the discussions about the future of the system. The evidence-driven content draws from the deep expertise and experience of a wide spectrum of contributors who represent virtually all relevant areas of the health system.

Trames, 2000

Supporting Family Carers of Older People in Europe Piotr Bledowski, Wojciech Pedich, Barbara Bien, 2006-06 There is no extensive formal care provision or system supporting family carers in Poland. The cohabiting family plays a major role in organizing support for the elderly. Nevertheless, the family carers are not perceived as natural partners for both medical and social services. As a result, caring for the elderly often brings additional costs for the family and restrictions to work and income. This book presents the legal status and social situation of family carers in Poland, explains the range of services available and the possibilities to use help adapted specially for this group.

The Voluntary Sector in the United Kingdom Jeremy Kendall, Martin Knapp, 1996 This book provides an analytical overview of the vast range of historiography which was produced in western Europe over a thousand-year period between c. 400 and c. 1500. Concentrating on the general principles of classical rhetoric central to the language of this writing alongside the more familiar traditions of ancient history, biblical exegesis and patristic theology, this survey introduces the conceptual sophistication and semantic rigour with which medieval authors could approach their narratives of past and present events and the diversity of ends to which this history could then be put. By providing a close reading of some of the historians who put these linguistic principles and strategies into practice from Augustine and Orosius through Otto of Freising and William of Malmesbury to Machiavelli and Guicciardini it traces and questions some of the key methodological changes that characterise the function and purpose of the western historiographical tradition in this formative period of its development

The LSE Companion to Health Policy Alistair McGuire,Joan Costa-i-Font,2012-01-01 The LSE Companion to Health Policy covers a wide range of conceptual and practical issues from a number of different perspectives introducing the reader to and summarising the vast literature that analyses the complexities of health policy the Companion also assesses the current state of the art Health policy is a wide ranging subject covering many academic disciplines but what most studies in health policy have in common is an interest in applying theory to improve practice This Companion brings academic rigour to bear evidence on a range of central areas within health policy It covers key issues on the quality access and inequalities in health and health care supply and health markets insurance and expenditures pharmaceuticals and new technologies and aging and long term care This unique Companion on health policy contains the most important features for health system reform at a time of funding constraints and will therefore hold great appeal for policy analysts and makers students academics and management professionals

Global Perspectives on Health Assessments for an Aging Population Ribeiro, Luis Vieira,Ribeiro, Anabela Magalhães,2023-04-03 Today s society recognizes that the last decades of an individual s life are usually those in which health tends to deteriorate and chronic pathologies increase Action at this level is verified through the increased concern of government officials with the elderly population motivated by the socio economic impact of costs associated with the provision of healthcare in this group Global Perspectives on Health Assessments for an Aging Population provides relevant theoretical frameworks and the latest empirical research findings in the area of health assessments for an aging population Covering topics such as ambulatory wellbeing gerontology and neuropsychological assessment this premier reference source is a valuable resource for gerontological healthcare professionals gerontological social workers psychologists students and educators of higher education researchers and academicians

Imprisonment of the Elderly and Death in Custody Aleksandr Khechumyan,2018-04-17 Over the past few decades there has been a sharp increase in the number of elderly prisoners and hence a rise in the number of prisoners dying in custody In this book Khechumyan questions whether respect for human dignity would justify releasing older and seriously ill prisoners He also examines the normative justifications which could limit the administration of the imprisonment of the elderly and seriously ill Khechumyan argues that factors such as a prisoner s age and health could alter the balance between the legitimate goals of punishment rendering the continued imprisonment grossly disproportionate To address these issues Articles 3 and 5 of the European Convention of Human Rights are extensively examined This book is a valuable resource for academics researchers and policy makers working in the fields of Criminal Justice Human Rights Law and Gerontology

longer This demographic trend caused by a decrease in fertility rather than improved longevity presents both challenges and opportunities for governments the private sector and individuals alike Some of the challenges are well known Output per capita becomes smaller if it is shared with an increasingly larger group of dependent older people At a certain point there may not be sufficient resources to maintain the living standards of this older group especially if rising expenditures on health care long term care and pensions must be financed through the contributions and taxes paid by ever smaller younger age groups Working adults also contribute the most to the pool of savings As the size of this group shrinks savings will decline But these challenges can be transformed into opportunities Consider these examples As longevity increases workers tend to stay in the workforce longer and with the right incentives they will increase their savings Many current workers and perhaps even more in the future will thus not necessarily become dependent once they turn 65 And with slower population growth and smaller young age groups societies will have an opportunity to improve the quality of education and maintain productivity Firms in some countries are already adapting by capitalizing on skills that appreciate with age Cardiovascular diseases account for more than half the difference in life expectancy above age 50 between the region and Western Europe for men and 75 percent of the corresponding difference for women Healthier behavior and health systems focused on preventive care could with no cost increase dramatically reduce this risk These opportunities are not to be missed As populations age public discourse ranges from concerns about economic decline and fiscal sustainability of pensions and health systems to optimism about opportunities for healthier and more productive aging The main contribution of Golden Aging is perhaps to show that demography and its consequences are not fixed Much will depend on how people firms and societies adapt and how policy makers and institutions facilitate their behavioral adjustments The future for Europe and Central Asia does not have to be gray it can be a golden era of healthy active and prosperous aging

Working with Older People John Harris, Denise Tanner, 2007-10-11 Working with older people has become an increasingly important part of social work education and practice Whether studying community care adult services human growth and development or social work processes and interventions this book will be a vital source of information and help Working with Older People provides a framework of knowledge skills and values pertinent to qualifying social work courses and the new post qualifying award in Social Work with Adults including discussion of ideas about human development and theories of older age legislation social policy and social welfare skills for working with older people assessment and care planning partnership working Written by two experienced educators and practitioners this key text facilitates individual or group learning through features such as objectives for each chapter case studies and further reading suggestions There are numerous activities throughout the book and the final chapter contains pointers to consider for all of the activities It will be essential reading for social work students and qualified social workers
