Sustainable Urban Development Volume 4 Ian Cooper, 2008

Social Science and Policy Challenges Georgios Papanagnou, 2011-01-01 Producing scientific knowledge that can inform solutions and guide policy making is one of the most important functions of social science Nonetheless if social science is to become more relevant and influential so as to impact on the drawing and execution of policy certain measures need to be taken to narrow its distance from the policy sphere This decision is less obvious than it seems Both research and experience have proved that policy making is a complex often sub rational interactive process that involves a wide range of actors such as decision makers bureaucrats researchers organized interests citizen and civil society representatives and research brokers In addition social science often needs to defend both its relevance to policy and its own scientific status Moving away from instrumental visions of the link between social research and policy this collective volume aims to highlight the more constructed nature of the use of social knowledge
