Spaces and Places in Central and Eastern Europe Gyula Horváth,2014-08-21 Across Europe there is a rapidly changing context for undertaking regional development In the 20th century development of the former planned economies Bulgaria Czech Republic Hungary Poland Romania and Slovakia was defined by these countries differences rather than their common ideological roots. These disparities altered over time and were marked by changing social structures. However, the ranking of regions has remained the same as core areas have strengthened their positions while the structural obstacles to the modernisation of peripheral areas have remained due to a lack of coherent regional policy. This book examines the specific regional development paths of Central and Eastern European countries and evaluates the effects of the determining factors of this process. Through analysis of the system of objectives, instruments and institutions used in different eras and case studies of Hungary, East Germany and Germany, development models are established and compared with Western European patterns. The book summarises the experiences of Central and Eastern European regional cooperation and examines the basic nature of the cohesion problems of the Carpathian Basin trans national macro region. It confirms by comparative historical analyses that the transformation was indeed unique. This book will make a welcome addition to the literature for students and academics interested in the broader picture of Central and Eastern European politics, future integration within the European Union and the history of regional development processes.

The Political Economy of Capital Cities Heike Mayer, Fritz Sager, David Kaufmann, Martin Warland, 2017-09-11. Capital cities that are not the dominant economic centers of their nations, so called secondary capital cities (SCCs) tend to be overlooked in the fields of economic geography and political science. Yet capital cities play an important role in shaping the political, economic, social and cultural identity of a nation. As the seat of power and decision making, capital cities represent a nation's identity not only through their symbolic architecture but also through their economies and through the ways in which they position themselves in national urban networks. The Political Economy of Capital Cities aims to address this gap by presenting the dynamics that influence policy and economic development in four in depth case studies examining the SCCs of Bern, Ottawa, The Hague and Washington D C. In contrast to traditional accounts of capital cities, this book conceptualizes the modern national capital as an innovation driven economy influenced by national, local and regional actors. Nationally overarching trends in the direction of outsourcing and tertiarization of the public sector influence the fate of capital cities. Regional policymakers in all four of the highlighted cities leverage the presence of national government agencies and stimulate the economy by way of various locational policy strategies. While accounting for their secondary status, this book illustrates how capital city actors such as firms, national, regional and local governments, policymakers and planning practitioners are keenly aware of the unique status of their city. The conclusion provides practical recommendations for policymakers in SCCs and highlights ways in which they can help to promote economic development.
