Heather, 1999 Between 376 and 476 the Roman Empire in western Europe was dismantled by aggressive outsiders barbarians as the Romans labelled them Chief among these were the Visigoths a new force of previously separate Gothic and other groups from south west France initially settled by the Romans but subsequently from the middle of the fifth century achieving total independence from the failing Roman Empire and extending their power from the Loire to the Straits of Gibraltar These studies draw on literary and archaeological evidence to address important questions thrown up by the history of the Visigoths and of the kingdom they generated the historical processes which led to their initial creation the emergence of the Visigothic kingdom in the fifth century and the government society culture and economy of the mature kingdom of the sixth and seventh centuries A valuable feature of the collection reflecting the switch of the centre of the Visigothic kingdom from France to Spain from the beginning of the sixth century is the inclusion in English of current Spanish scholarship Dr PETER HEATHER teaches in the Department of History at University College London Contributors Dennis H Green Peter Heather Ana Jimenez Garnica Giorgio Ausenda Ian Nicholas Wood Isabel Velazquez Felix Retamero Pablo C Diaz Mayke de Jong Gisela Ripoll Lopez Andreas Schwarcz THE ABASINGA OF RWANDA UNRAVELING THE HISTORY AND VICTORIES Frank Ndayahoze, 2025-07-13 The simplistic Hutu Tutsi dichotomy so often employed to explain Rwanda's complex history obscures a deeper more nuanced reality To understand Rwanda one must delve beyond this binary framework and explore the rich tapestry of pre colonial societies that shaped the nation Central to this understanding is the Abasinga clan a powerful and influential group whose history stretches back centuries predating the colonial imposition of artificial ethnic categories Their story challenges the conventional narrative and provides a crucial lens through which to view Rwanda's past present and future The Abasinga whose origins are rooted in the fertile lands of present day Uganda represent a powerful example of a pre colonial Rwandan social structure Oral traditions meticulously collected and analyzed over decades by researchers point to a gradual migration southwards driven by a combination of factors population growth resource competition and perhaps even conflicts with neighboring communities These migrations were not abrupt conquests but rather a slow incremental process of settlement and integration The Abasinga skillfully navigated the existing social landscape forging alliances and establishing their own distinct kingdoms and chiefdoms across various regions of Rwanda

Social Order and Political Change Duane Champagne, 1992-07-01 Under what conditions can democratic governments be formed and become stable The author addresses this question in a unique way that brings sociological and political theory to bear on the study of traditional societies long the preserve of historians and anthropologists By examining in detail the history of four American Indian societies the Cherokee the Choctaw the Chickasaw and the Creek the author documents a general theory of politics and constitutional government The four societies present an opportunity to study the process of democratic institution building in a controlled comparative historical context The societies were subject to similar geopolitical relations with the United States they were incorporated into the same sequence of world economic system relations initially fur trade and then the cotton market they experienced the emergence of class structures and they all produced some form of constitutional democracy The Cherokee however adopted a stable constitutional government earlier and with less coercion than the other three nations Why was this so With the aid of comparative analysis the author finds the answer in the Cherokee differentiation of politics from the nationally and religiously ordered clan system This set of institutional relations allowed the Cherokee to maintain a strong sense of social solidarity while tolerating conflict increased political differentiation and formation of a political nationality The other three societies were either less differentiated or less socially unified They formed their constitutional governments thirty to forty years later than the Cherokee and with more internal political coercion and in the Creek case with less political stability The formation and stabilization of democratic state governments is a major issue in such contemporary phenomena as political change in Third World nations and the transformation of the governments of Eastern Europe The four case studies presented in this book form the basis of a new and powerful theoretical argument for understanding historical patterns of democratic change political stability and the relations of political power

This book examines and compares the religious experience of an African group with a European one. It offers an ethnographical investigation of the Jukun of north central Nigeria. The author also organically weaves into the narrative the Christianization of the Irish in a comparative fashion. Throughout he makes the case for an African Christianity connected to a Celtic Irish Christianity and vice versa as different threads in a tapestry. This work is a product of a synthesis of archival research in three continents, interviews with surviving first generation Christians who were active practitioners of the Jukun indigenous religion and with former missionaries to the Jukun. On the Irish side it draws from extant primary sources and interviews with scholars in Celtic Irish studies. In addition, pictures, diagrams and excerpts from British colonial and missionary journals provide a rich contextual understanding of Jukun religious life and practices. The author is among the emerging voices in the study of World Christianity who advocate for the reality of polycentres for Christianity. This perspective recognizes voices from the Global South in the expansion of Christianity. This book serves as a valuable resource for historians, anthropologists, theologians and those interested in missions studies, both scholars and lay readers seeking to deepen their understanding of World Christianity. The Eastern Anthropologist, 1998

and Religious Quest Randee Ijatuyi-Morphé,2014-01-30 This well crafted book probes the key dimensions of Africa s existential predicament It constitutes an intellectual response to a gnawing African situation the starting point for grasping Africa s social and religious quest Beyond split explanations of external versus internal factors e g colonization slavery vs leadership cultural values this study accounts more comprehensively for emergent issues shaping this situation The situation reflects a gamut of problems in traditional African religion and material culture which hitherto defines African communality polities and destinies vis vis the cosmos and nature Thus African religion and communities each with its own attendant values do not operate by critical engagement with larger issues of society and civilization especially those shaped by the advent of post modernity Rather they operate via adaptation The communal drive for natural and social harmony inevitably produces a preservationist view of culture leaving things as they are This study takes an integrative approach to religion society and civilization eschews dichotomies and broadly defines and re signifies life and wholeness as a true end of Africans quest today
