Hamoud, 2023-06-01 This book critically analyses the hegemony of Egypt's business and military elites and the private media they own or control Arguing that this hegemony requires the exercise of power to maintain consent under changing conditions such as the 2011 uprising and the 2013 military coup the book answers the central question of why and how Egypt's ruling elites control the media Situated within the interdisciplinary domain of critical political economy CPE the book focuses on popular privately owned newspapers and TV channels and their ownership using a qualitative approach involving fifteen interviews conducted over seven years with key actors and experts in the Egyptian media landscape for unprecedented insight As the first book on the political economy of Egyptian media The Political Economy of Egyptian Media serves as a case study and a country profile and will be of appeal to scholars and experts of Middle Eastern studies political sciences media and the political economy of communication among others The Political Economy of Innovation W.

Kingston, 2012-12-06 Innovation is the turning of ideas into concrete realities To the extent that this process is an economic one it must also be subject to political decisions and these determine which ideas are to have resources made available for their innovation This book attempts to trace the relationship between ideas resources and politics Chapter I deals with the way economic innovation depends both upon markets and upon interference with markets Schumpeter taught us how market power is essential for innovation This chapter stresses that the inverse is also true Innovation can take place wherever there is market power A most important corollary of this is that failure to develop any particular type of market power need not prevent innovation from happening It will then take place under the protection of whatever market power there is and it will be geographically located wherever that market power is effective Chapter II identifies and seeks to fill a major gap in the literature on innovation by showing how important modern marketing has become for providing the conditions under which money may be rationally invested at high risk to get new things done Marketing monopoly or Persuasive market power is now at least as important as the market power of Capability or as the several types of Specific market power in interference with market forces It is therefore equally important for innovation The Political Economy of Robots Ryan

Kiggins, 2017-09-16 This collection examines implications of technological automation to global prosperity and peace Focusing on robots information communication technologies and other automation technologies it offers brief interventions that assess how automation may alter extant political social and economic institutions norms and practices that comprise the global political economy In doing so this collection deals directly with such issues as automated production trade war state sanctioned robot violence financial speculation transnational crime and policy decision making This interdisciplinary volume will appeal to students scholars and practitioners grappling with political economic and social problems that arise from rapid technological change that automates the prospects for human prosperity and peace
