Callaghan, Nina Neivens de Estrada, 2016-11-29 New and comprehensive sequencing of the ceramics in Guatemala's Holmul region provides answers to important questions in Maya archaeology In this comprehensive and highly illustrated new study authors Callaghan and Neivens de Estrada use type variety mode classification to define a ceramic sequence that spans approximately 1 600 years The Winged Kaitlyn Moore Chandler, Wendi Field Murray, María Nieves Zedeño, Samrat Miller Clements, Robert James, 2017-04-11 The Missouri River Basin is home to thousands of bird species that migrate across the Great Plains of North America each year marking the seasonal cycle and filling the air with their song In time immemorial Native inhabitants of this vast region established alliances with birds that helped them to connect with the gods to learn the workings of nature and to live well This book integrates published and archival sources covering archaeology ethnohistory historical ethnography folklore and interviews with elders from the Blackfoot Assiniboine Mandan Hidatsa Arikara and Crow communities to explore how relationships between people and birds are situated in contemporary practice and what has fostered its cultural persistence Native principles of ecological and cosmological knowledge are brought into focus to highlight specific beliefs practices and concerns associated with individual bird species bird parts bird objects the natural and cultural landscapes that birds and people cohabit and the future of this ancient alliance Detailed descriptions critical to ethnohistorians and ethnobiologists are accompanied by thirty four color images A unique contribution The Winged expands our understanding of sets of interrelated dependencies or entanglements between bird and human agents and it steps beyond traditional scientific and anthropological distinctions between humans and animals to reveal the intricate and eminently social character of these interactions

Households on the Mimbres Horizon Barbara J. Roth, 2023-03-28 Pithouse sites represent the basic form of occupation in the Mimbres Mogollon region of southwestern New Mexico from AD 200 to the late 900s This study presents the results of excavations of one such site called La Gila Encantada Little is known about the variability present at pithouse sites away from the major Mimbres and Gila River Valleys Nonriverine occupations have been understudied until now This book describes subsistence and settlement practices and compares the results with recent research conducted at the larger villages in the Mimbres River Valley Despite basic similarities in material culture households at La Gila Encantada appear to have followed different trajectories than those along the rivers Examining these differences archaeologist Barbara J Roth provides insights into some of the reasons why they existed and shows that the variability present in pithouse occupations over the years was tied to multiple factors including environmental differences economic practices and the social composition of groups occupying the sites With chapters assessing ceramic data chipped and groundstone analysis shell and mineral jewelry and regional context this look at the past offers relevant insights into current issues in Southwest archaeology including identity interaction and household organization

Seventeenth-Century Metallurgy on the Spanish Colonial Frontier Noah H. Thomas, 2018-11-13 A unique contribution to the archaeological literature on the Southwest Seventeenth Century Metallurgy on the Spanish Colonial Frontier introduces a wealth of data from one of the few known colonial metal production sites in the Southwest Archaeologist Noah H Thomas draws on and summarizes ten seasons of excavation from the Pueblo of Paa ko to provide a critical analysis of archaeological features and materials related to metal production during the early colonial period AD 1598 1680 Extrapolating from the data Thomas provides a theoretical interpretation of these data that is grounded in theories of agency practice and notions of value shaped in culture In addition to the critical analysis of archaeological features and materials this work brings to light a little known aspect of the colonial experience the production of metal by indigenous Pueblo people Using the ethnography of Pueblo peoples and seventh century European manuals of metallurgy Thomas addresses how the situated agency of indigenous practitioners incorporated within colonial industries shaped the metallurgy industry in the Spanish colonial period The resulting analysis investigates how economic technical and social knowledge was communicated contested and transformed across the social and cultural boundaries present in early colonial communities Viewing these transformations through an ethnohistorical lens Thomas builds a social and historical context within which to understand the decisions made by colonial actors at the time Apachean Culture History and Ethnology Keith H. Basso, Morris Edward Opler, 1971-08 This volume grew out of a symposium held at the Annual Meeting of the American Anthropological Association in November 1969 at New Orleans Louisiana The Apachean Symposium was designed to provide an opportunity for scholars engaged in research on southern Athapaskan cultures to report upon their findings and wherever possible to link them to known fact and existing theory The diverse work presented here will add significantly to the knowledge about Apachean cultures and each of contributions also pertains directly to wider spheres of anthropological concern
