The Politics And Evaluation:

The Politics of Program Evaluation Dennis J. Palumbo, 1987 Evaluation and politics are related in a number of ways While programme evaluators have traditionally tried to be neutral objective and scientific in their assessment of programmes the results of evaluation are inherently political and are used by politicians programme administrators special interest groups and other stakeholders for political purposes The contributors argue that since evaluation cannot be divorced from its political context the political dimension must be understood in order to conduct effective evaluations

The Politics of Evaluation David Taylor, Susan Balloch, 2005-01-19 The widespread popularity of evaluation is based on the need to provide evidence of the effectiveness of policies and programmes This book sees evaluation as an inherently political activity and using a wide range of examples it relates practical issues in evaluation design to their political contexts

The Politics of Evaluation in International Organizations Vytautas Jankauskas, Steffen Eckhard, 2023-04-26 Evaluation has become a key tool in assessing the performance of international organizations in fostering learning and in demonstrating accountability Within the United Nations UN system thousands of evaluators and consultants produce hundreds of evaluation reports worth millions of dollars every year But does evaluation really deliver on its promise of objective evidence and functional use By unravelling the internal machinery of evaluation systems in international organizations this book challenges the conventional understanding of evaluation as a value free activity Vytautas Jankauskas and Steffen Eckhard show how a seemingly neutral technocratic tool can serve as an instrument for power in global governance they demonstrate and explain how deeply politics are entrenched in the interests of evaluation stakeholders in the control and design of IO evaluation systems and to a lesser extent also in the content of evaluation reports The analysis draws on 120 research interviews with evaluators member state representatives and IO secretariat officials as well as on textual analysis of over 200 evaluation reports The investigation covers 21 UN system organizations including detailed case studies of the ILO IMF UNDP UN WOMEN IOM UNHCR FAO WHO and UNESCO Shedding light on the in effectiveness of evidence based policymaking the authors propose possible ways of better reconciling the observed evaluation politics with the need to gather reliable evidence that is used to improve the functioning of the United Nations The answer to evaluation politics is not to abandon evaluation or isolate it from the stakeholders but to acknowledge surrounding political interests and design evaluation systems accordingly

Handbook on the Politics of Public Administration Ladner, Andreas, Sager, Fritz, 2022-10-13 This innovative Handbook puts the politics of public administration at the forefront providing comprehensive insights and comparative perspectives of the different aspects of the field

The Politics of Program Evaluation Dennis J. Palumbo, 1987 Evaluation and politics are related in a number of ways While programme evaluators have traditionally tried to be neutral objective and scientific in their assessment of programmes the results of evaluation are inherently political and are used by politicians programme administrators special interest groups and other stakeholders for political purposes The effectiveness of evaluation depends upon incorporating political reality into evaluation This book takes the first steps to help evaluators do this The contributors distinguished evaluation researchers and policy analysts argue that since evaluation cannot be divorced from its political context the political dimension must be understood in order to conduct effective evaluations They provide diverse perspectives on the political nature of evaluation and the role of the evaluator in politics and policy

The Politics and Ethics of Evaluation Clem Adelman, 2024-08-30 First published in 1984 The Politics and Ethics of Evaluation considers from the vantage point of the authors considerable experience of a wide range of evaluation the ways in which they and others have coped with ethical and political problems that inherently arise during the evaluation process particularly that of the responsive or democratic type It looks at the evaluator's claim to independence and how this is qualified by his relationship to his subject and to various other audiences The ethical and political problems of evaluation are discussed from the different perspectives of moral philosophy sociology the politics of organisations curriculum development and institutional evaluation Also included is a chapter detailing English law and legal judgements pertaining to qualified privilege libel and defamation of character Guidelines for conducting independent evaluation conclude the volume This book will be of interest to students and researchers of higher education curriculum studies and ethics

The politics of evaluation A. W. Bates, 1991

The Politics of Evaluation in International Organizations Vytautas Jankauskas, Steffen Eckhard, 2023 This book explores the internal machinery of evaluation systems in international organizations and challenges the conventional understanding of evaluation as a value free activity The authors propose new ways of better reconciling evaluation politics with the need to gather reliable evidence to improve the functioning of the United Nations

The Politics of the School Curriculum Denis Lawton, 2012-05-16 If the curriculum can be defined as a selection from the culture of society the central question then becomes who selects This volume answers this question reviewing various aspects of the curriculum and its planning For many years the control of the curriculum was uncontroversial In the 1970s this situation changed teachers were increasingly criticised for having too much power the Department of Education was suspected of wanting more control and local education authorities felt they should be more involved in curriculum planning In reviewing some of the reasons for these conflicting pressures two central themes emerge first the change from a partnership model of control to a complex system of accountability and second the fact that these and many other changes which occur tend to be brought about as a result of secret decisions and central manipulation rather than through open negotiation Among the areas covered are the changing position of teachers and the Department of Education the influence of examinations on the curriculum and some political aspects of curriculum evaluation and the different models used

The Politics of Dissatisfaction William E. Lyons, David Lowery, Ruth Hoogland DeHoog, 1992 Addresses the longstanding debate between traditional reformers who advocate consolidating urban governments to achieve an economy of scale and public choice theorists who say people want smaller more responsive local governments Three political scientists enter the lists with a methodology for testing opinions empirically and with the results of their application of it people under small urban governments are no more satisfied than those under megapolicies Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR
