Situated Learning Legitimate Peripheral Participation:

Situated Learning Jean Lave, Etienne Wenger, 1991-09-27 In this important theoretical treatise the authors push forward the notion of situated learning that learning is fundamentally a social process

SITUATED LEARNING: LEGITIMATE PERIPHERAL PARTICIPATION (INTERLOAN 318499). , An Analysis of Jean Lave and Etienne Wenger's

Situated Learning Charmi Patel, 2018-02-21 Social anthropologist Jean Lave and computer scientist Etienne Wenger's seminal Situated Learning helped change the fields of cognitive science and pedagogy by approaching learning from a novel angle. Traditionally, theories of learning and education had focused on processes of cognition, the mental processes of knowledge formation that occur within an individual. Lave and Wenger chose to look at learning not as an individual process but a social one. As so often with the creative thinking process, a small, simple shift in emphasis was all that was required to show things in an entirely different light. What Situated Learning illustrated and emphasized was that learning is dependent on its social situation. Even though the most effective way to learn is through interaction with experts and peers in a community organized around a common interest, the traditional cognitive learning model failed to account for the way in which learners interact with their community of practice. The new hypothesis that Lave and Wenger developed was that learning can be seen as a continuously evolving set of relationships situated within a social context. This allowed Lave and Wenger to place discussions of apprenticeship and workplace learning on a new footing and led in turn to the book's impressive impact in business and management scholarship.

A Practical Guide to Theoretical Frameworks for Social Science Research Andrea J. Bingham, Robert Mitchell, Daria S. Carter, 2024-02-13 This practical book offers a guide to finding, choosing, and applying theoretical frameworks to social sciences research and provides researchers with the scaffolding needed to reflect on their philosophical orientations and better situate their work in the existing landscape of empirical and theoretical knowledge. Using a multifaceted approach, the book provides clear definitions, primary tenets, historical context, highlights of the challenges and contemporary discussion, and perhaps more importantly, concrete and successful examples of studies that have drawn on and incorporated each theoretical framework. The authors define and explain the connections among such concepts as ontology, epistemology, paradigm, theory, theoretical frameworks, conceptual frameworks, and research methodology. The book describes the process of finding and effectively using theoretical and conceptual frameworks in research and offers brief overviews of particular theories within the following disciplines: sociology, psychology, education, leadership, public policy, political science, economics, organizational studies, and business. The book also has a dedicated chapter on critical theories, and for each theory, it provides a definition, explores how the theory is useful for researchers, discusses the background and foundations, outlines key terms and concepts, presents examples of theoretical applications, and gives an overview of strengths and limitations. This book offers a useful starting point for any researcher interested in better situating their work in existing conceptual and theoretical knowledge, but it will be especially useful for graduate students and early career researchers who are looking for clear definitions of complex terms and concepts and for an introduction to useful theories across disciplines

Embracing Diversity in the Learning Sciences Yasmin B. Kafai, 2012-10-12 More than a decade has passed since the First International Conference of the Learning Sciences ICLS was held at Northwestern University in 1991 The conference has now become an established place for researchers to gather The 2004 meeting is the first under the official sponsorship of the International Society of the Learning Sciences ISLS The theme of this conference is Embracing Diversity in the Learning Sciences As a field the learning sciences have always drawn from a diverse set of disciplines to study learning in an array of settings Psychology cognitive science anthropology and artificial intelligence have all contributed to the development of methodologies to study learning in schools museums and organizations As the field grows however it increasingly recognizes the challenges to studying and changing learning environments across levels in complex social systems This demands attention to new kinds of diversity in who what and how we study and to the issues raised to develop coherent accounts of how learning occurs Ranging from schools to families and across all levels of formal schooling from pre school through higher education this ideology can be supported in a multitude of social contexts The papers in these conference proceedings respond to the call

Networks of Mind: Learning, Culture, Neuroscience Kathy Hall, Alicia Curtin, Vanessa Rutherford, 2013-12-13 This ground breaking book is unique in bringing together two perspectives on learning sociocultural theory and neuroscience Drawing on both perspectives it foregrounds important developments in our understanding of what learning is where and how learning occurs and what we can do to understand learning as an everyday process Leading experts from both disciplines demonstrate how sociocultural ideas such as the relevance of experience opportunity to learn environment personal histories meaning participation memory and feelings of belonging align with and reflect upon new understandings emerging from neuroscience concerning plasticity and neural networks Among the themes critically examined are the following Mind and brain Culture Ability and talent Success and failure Memory Language Emotion Aimed at and accessible to a broad audience and drawing on both schools of thought Networks of Mind employs case studies vignettes and real life examples to demonstrate that though the language of sociocultural theory and that of neuroscience appear very different ultimately the concepts of both perspectives align and converge around some key ideas The book shows where both perspectives overlap collide and diverge in their assumptions and understanding of fundamental aspects of human flourishing It shows how neuroscience confirms some of the key messages already well established by sociocultural theory specifically the importance of opportunity to learn It also argues that the ascendancy of neuroscience may result in the marginalization of sociocultural science though the latter it argues has enormous explanatory power for understanding and promoting learning and for understanding how learning is afforded and constrained
