

The background of the book cover is a photograph of a city street at night. In the center, the Gherkin skyscraper in London is illuminated with a warm, golden light. To the right, a curved building with large, arched windows is lit from within, showing an interior office space. In the foreground, a street with a red traffic light and light trails from passing vehicles is visible. The overall color palette is dominated by the warm yellows and oranges of the building lights against the dark blue of the night sky.

Skyscraper Gothic Kevin D. Murphy estate, Lisa Reilly, 2017-07-06 Of all building types the skyscraper strikes observers as the most modern in terms not only of height but also of boldness scale ingenuity and daring As a phenomenon born in late nineteenth century America it quickly became emblematic of New York Chicago and other major cities Previous studies of these structures have tended to foreground examples of more evincing modernist approaches while those with styles reminiscent of the great Gothic cathedrals of Europe were initially disparaged as being antimodernist or were simply unacknowledged Skyscraper Gothic brings together a group of renowned scholars to address the medievalist skyscraper from flying buttresses to dizzying spires from the Chicago Tribune Tower to the Woolworth Building in Manhattan Drawing on archival evidence and period texts to uncover the ways in which patrons and architects came to understand the Gothic as a historic style the authors explore what the appearance of Gothic forms on radically new buildings meant urbanistically architecturally and socially not only for those who were involved in the actual conceptualization and execution of the projects but also for the critics and the general public who saw the buildings take shape Contributors Lisa Reilly on the Gothic skyscraper Kevin Murphy on the Trinity and U S Realty Buildings Gail Fenske on the Woolworth Building Joanna Merwood Salisbury on the Chicago School Katherine M Solomonson on the Tribune Tower Carrie Albee on Atlanta City Hall Anke Koeth on the Cathedral of Learning Christine G O Malley on the American Radiator Building

What Would Ben Graham Do Now? Jeffrey Towson, 2011-04-21 As originally conceived by the legendary Benjamin Graham traditional value investing involves purchasing relatively stable stocks and companies at a percentage below their intrinsic value But this approach contains many hidden U S centric assumptions that simply don't work well in today's high growth emerging markets In this book leading global value investor Jeffrey Towson extends and modernizes value investing helping you apply its core principles while you access tremendous opportunities available in today's fastest growing markets Towson introduces the powerful Value Point system that grows out of his experience on the elite investing team selected by Prince Alwaleed the Arabian Warren Buffett While retaining Graham's relentless focus on price and quality he shows how to integrate three crucial additional forms of value into your stock assessments the value of political access in a government infused investment world the value of reputation in a world of colliding markets actors and biases and the value of capabilities in a multi local world Building on these techniques Towson presents a complete investment playbook for the next five years Next he shows how to invest for the next twenty years successfully navigating the titanic market collisions that will batter investors who aren't prepared for them

Prose Poetry and the City Donna Stonecipher, 2017-11-20 In this fascinating book Donna Stonecipher doubles down on the development of prose poetry and the city Tactically her sweeping complex yet meticulous essay engages Baudelaire's sudden or is it sudden incursion from the constraints of verse into the roominess of prose paragraphs of place while linking civic horizontality and corporate verticality Tracking possibilities in using everything from architecture to landscape to cookbooks flâneur like her essay exuberantly and expertly gathers together rhizomatic threads of thinkers and poets of the last two centuries Reads like a song Norma Cole This fascinating exploration of the prose poem begins with a question that most other studies have overlooked or taken for granted What if anything do cities and prose poetry have to do with each other Donna Stonecipher's touchstone for this question is Charles Baudelaire's prose poems in Le Spleen de Paris but her excavation of the relationship between the built environment of prose poem and city moves backwards to ancient Greece and forwards to the new sentence As Stonecipher unpacks the dialogic space of the prose poem her essay moves vertically and horizontally providing histories of the skyscraper and the aesthetics and ethics of vertical ascension and much else As she moves nimbly through large swaths of intellectual architectural urban and aesthetic history Stonecipher engages debates central to poetics and to modernity itself taking seriously the challenge of considering how aesthetic forms register respond to and transform their built social and historical environments An indispensable and enlightening guide that is also a pleasure to read Susan Rosenbaum
