The Social Uses of Writing Thomas Fox, 1990 This volume explores how a political and social theory of writing can inform pedagogy including an analysis of how students educational histories limit teacher and student roles and how we might work to enlarge both Through a critique of ethnography and an exploration of Friere's Pedagogy of the Oppressed the author develops an interactive theory of teaching writing In three central chapters the volume treats gender class and race issues in the teaching of writing by examining case studies of freshman writers Within the case studies the author shows how an interactive pedagogy helps students see how socially held values such as beauty objectivity upward mobility and assimilation deeply affect how students write The case studies give a sense of actuality to the author's ideas Finally the author argues that interpretation should replace evaluation as the central activity of writing courses Politics of Ethos in the Writing Classroom Zan Meyer Goncalves, 2006-01-04 Applying the complexities of literacy development and personal ethos to the teaching of composition Zan Meyer Goncalves challenges writing teachers to consider ethos as a series of identity performances shaped by the often inequitable social contexts of their classrooms and communities Using the rhetorical experiences of students who identify as lesbian gay bisexual and or transgender she proposes a new way of thinking about ethos that addresses the challenges of social justice identity and transfer issues in the classroom Goncalves offers an innovative approach to teaching identity performance theory bound by social contexts She applies this new approach to theories of specificity and intersectionality illustrating how teachers can help students redefine the relationship between their social identities and their writing She also addresses bringing social activism and identity politics into the classroom helping writers make transfers across rhetorical contexts and linking students interests to public conversations Theoretical and practical Sexuality and the Politics of Ethos in the Writing Classroom provides teachers of first year and advanced composition studies with useful detailed assignments based in specific identity performance Goncalves offers techniques to subvert oppressive language practices while encouraging students to recognize themselves as writers citizens and active participants in their own educations and communities The Social Uses of Writing Thomas Fox,1990 This volume explores how a political and social theory of writing can inform pedagogy including an analysis of how students educational histories limit teacher and student roles and how we might work to enlarge both Through a critique of ethnography and an exploration of Friere's Pedagogy of the Oppressed the author develops an interactive theory of teaching writing In three central chapters the volume treats gender class and race issues in the teaching of writing by examining case studies of freshman writers Within the case studies the author shows how an interactive pedagogy helps students see how socially held values such as beauty objectivity upward mobility and assimilation deeply affect how students write The case studies give a sense of actuality to the author's ideas Finally the author argues that interpretation should replace evaluation as the central activity of writing courses Landmark Essays on ESL Writing Tony Silva, Paul Kei Matsuda, 2013-10-31 In recent years the number of nonnative speakers of English in colleges and universities in North America has increased dramatically As a result more and more writing teachers have found themselves working with these English as a Second Language ESL students in writing classes that are designed primarily with monolingual native English speaking students in mind Since the majority of institutions require these students to enroll in writing courses at all levels it is becoming increasingly important for all writing teachers to be aware of the presence and special linguistic and cultural needs of ESL writers This increase in the ESL population has over the last 40 years been paralleled by a similar growth in research on ESL writing and writing instruction research that writing teachers need to be familiar with in order to work effectively with ESL writers in writing classrooms of all levels and types Until recently however this body of knowledge has not been very accessible to writing teachers and researchers who do not specialize in second language research and instruction This volume is an attempt to remedy this problem by providing a sense of how ESL writing scholarship has evolved over the last four decades It brings together 15 articles that address various issues in second language writing in general and ESL writing in particular In selecting articles for inclusion the editors tried to take a principled approach The articles included in this volume have been chosen from a large database of publications in second language writing The editors looked for works that mirrored the state of the art when they were published and made a conscious effort to represent a wide variety of perspectives contributions and issues in the field To provide a sense of the evolution of the field this collection is arranged in chronological order Theory and Practice in the Teaching of Writing Lee Odell, 1993 Responding to recent powerful arguments that theory has only a limited role in the field teachers of composition suggest to their colleagues how they can and why they should teach from a theoretical stance developed from their own experience The ten essays focus on the process of knowing the historical and social context and mechanisms of teaching Paper edition 1947 0 19 95 Annotation Composition Theory for the Postmodern Classroom Gary A. Olson, Sidney I. copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Dobrin, 1994-05-24 Composition Theory for the Postmodern Classroom is a collection of the most outstanding articles published in the Journal of Advanced Composition over the last decade Together these essays represent the breadth and strength of composition scholarship that has fruitfully engaged with critical theory in its many manifestations In drawing on the critical discourses of philosophers feminists literary theorists African Americanists cultural theorists and others these compositionists have enriched the discourse in the field broadened intellectual conceptions of the multiple roles and functions of discourse and opened up an infinite number of questions and new possibilities for composition theory and pedagogy Teachers, Discourses, and Authority in the Postmodern Composition Classroom Xin Liu Gale, 1996-01-04 Examines the teacher's role and the teacher's authority in postmodern academic settings Sociocultural Contexts of Language and Literacy Teresa L. specialists contribute 12 chapters in a research and theory based text about learning and teaching in linguistically and culturally diverse classrooms The second edition features updated research on multilingual and second language literacy and Handbook of Writing and Text Production Eva-Maria Jakobs, Daniel Perrin, 2014-02-27 Writing matters and so does research into real life writing The shift from an industrial to an information society has increased the importance of writing and text production in education in everyday life and in more and more professions in the fields of economics and politics science and technology culture and media Through writing we build up organizations and social networks develop projects inform colleagues and customers and generate the basis for decisions. The quality of writing is decisive for social resonance and professional success This ubiquitous real life writing is what the present handbook is about The de Gruyter Handbook of Writing and Text Production brings together and systematizes state of the art research The volume contains five sections focussing on I the theory and methodology of writing and text production research as well as on problem oriented and problem solving approaches related to II authors III modes and media IV genres and V domains of writing and text production Throughout the 21 chapters exemplary research projects illustrate the theoretical perspectives from globally relevant research spaces and traditions Both established and future scholars can benefit from the handbook s fresh approach to writing in the context of multimodal multi semiotic text production Rethinking Basic Writing Laura Gray-Rosendale, 1999-12 This book surveys the history of basic writing scholarship suggesting that we cannot adequately theorize the situations of basic writers unless we examine how they construct their own conceptions of their identities their constructions of their relationships to social forces and their representations of their relationships to written work Using a cross disciplinary analytic model Gray Rosendale offers a detailed examination of the oral conversations that take place within one basic writing peer revision group She explains the ways in which the students own conversational structures impact and shape their written products Gray Rosendale then draws out the potentials of her work for basic writing administrators curricula builders and teachers Economies of Writing Bruce Horner, Brice Nordquist, Susan M. Ryan, 2017-03-01 Economies of Writing advances scholarship on political economies of writing and writing instruction considering them in terms of course subject pedagogy technology and social practice Taking the economic as a necessary point of departure and contention for the field the collection insists that writing concerns are inevitably participants in political markets in their consideration of forms of valuation production and circulation of knowledge with labor and with capital Approaching the economic as plural contingent and political chapters explore complex forces shaping the production and valuation of literacies languages identities and institutions and consider their implications for composition scholarship teaching administration and public rhetorics Chapters engage a range of issues including knowledge transfer cyberpublics graduate writing courses and internationalized web domains Economies of Writing challenges dominant ideologies of writing writing skills writing assessment language writing technology and public rhetoric by revealing the complex and shifting valuations of writing practices as they circulate within and across different economies. The volume is a significant contribution to rhetoric and composition s understanding of and ways to address its seemingly perennial unease about its own work Contributors Anis Bawarshi Deborah Brandt Jenn Fishman T R Johnson Jay Jordan Kacie Kiser Steve Lamos Donna LeCourt Rebecca Lorimer Leonard Samantha Looker Katie Malcolm Paul Kei Matsuda Joan Mullin Jason Peters Christian J Pulver Kelly Ritter Phyllis Mentzell Ryder Tony Scott Scott Wible Yuching Jill Yang James T Zebroski Analysis in Educational Discourse Wan Wan, Graham Low, 2015-07-02 The ability to recognise discuss and evaluate one s educational beliefs and working practices in metaphoric terms has for several years been seen as a highly valuable tool for increasing self awareness facilitating learning or teaching and or predicting behaviour This is the first edited book solely devoted to the topic of researching elicited metaphor in education and brings together key researchers from China Poland Puerto Rico South America UK and USA The 12 chapters involve overviews and state of the art articles articles focussing on methodology and validation as well as reflections on the effectiveness of techniques and research reports of recent empirical studies The bulk of the articles relate to literacy L1 and L2 and teacher education but science education is also addressed The book offers useful models for academics professionals and PhD students in these areas and provides solutions for improving the validity of elicited metaphor techniques in educational research Insurrections Andrea Greenbaum, 2001-02-22 Explores theoretical and pedagogical approaches to resistance showing how this concept plays out in the college writing classroom Contemporary Composition Studies Edith Babin, Kimberly Harrison, 1999-12-30 Composition studies is a rapidly growing and constantly changing field At present however graduate students new to the field and writing teachers who want to make new connections between theory and practice have little choice of current reference works that define key terms in composition studies and provide information about the scholars and researchers who have shaped and are shaping the discipline This book supplies this information in an easily accessible format and places both scholars and terms in the context of the field's development Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 108 individuals who have developed the field and 128 terms central to the discipline The first part of the book provides entries for leaders in composition studies Each entry identifies the areas in which the scholar has contributed most influentially to the field and provides both a chronological overview of the person s contributions and a bibliography of representative works The second part includes entries for terms that are problematic both for newcomers and for those already familiar with the discipline The entries for the terms show how the disciplinary context has shaped the ways in which they have been used The entries also indicate how established thinkers in composition studies and other disciplines have explained or defined the terms provide examples of the terms in context and list scholars often associated with them An appendix includes entries for scholars from other disciplines who have contributed to the field Literacy as Translingual Practice A. Suresh Canagarajah, 2013 The term translingual highlights the reality that people always shuttle across languages communicate in hybrid languages and thus enjoy multilingual competence In the context of migration transnational economic and cultural relations digital communication and globalism increasing contact is taking place between languages and communities In these contact zones new genres of writing and new textual conventions are emerging that go beyond traditional dichotomies that treat languages as separated from each other and texts and writers as determined by one language or the other Pushing forward a translingual orientation to writing one that is in tune with the new literacies and communicative practices flowing into writing classrooms and demanding new pedagogies and policies this volume is structured around five concerns refining the theoretical premises learning from community practices debating the role of code meshed products identifying new research directions and developing sound pedagogical applications These themes are explored by leading scholars from L1 and L2 composition rhetoric and applied linguistics education theory and classroom practice and diverse ethnic rhetorics Timely and much needed Literacy as Translingual Practice is essential reading for students researchers and practitioners across these Rewriting Composition Bruce Horner, 2016-02-22 Bruce Horner's Rewriting Composition Terms of Exchange shows how dominant inflections of key terms in composition language labor value evaluation discipline and composition itself reinforce composition s low institutional status and the poor working conditions of many of its instructors and tutors Placing the circulation of these terms in multiple contemporary contexts including globalization world Englishes the diminishing role of labor and the professions the information economy and the privatization of higher education Horner demonstrates ways to challenge debilitating definitions of these terms and to rework them and their relations to one another Each chapter of Rewriting Composition focuses on one key term discussing how limitations set by dominant definitions shape and direct what compositionists do and how they think about their work The first chapter Composition critiques a discourse of composition as lacking and therefore as in need of being either put to an end renamed aligned with other fields or supplemented with work in other disciplines or other forms of composition Rather than seeing composition as something to be abandoned replaced or supplemented Horner suggests ways of productively engaging with the ordinary work of composition whose ostensible lack is assumed in the dominant discourse Subsequent chapters apply this reconsideration to other key terms critiquing dominant conceptions of language and English as stable examining how labor in composition is divorced from the productive force of social relations to which language work contributes rethinking the terms of value by which the labor of composition teachers administrators and students is measured and questioning the application of conventional definitions of professional academic disciplinarity to composition By exposing limitations in dominant conceptions of the work of composition and by modeling and opening up space for new conceptions of key terms Rewriting Composition offers teachers of composition and rhetoric writing scholars and writing program administrators the critical tools necessary for charting the future of composition studies Feminism and American Literary History Nina Baym, 1992 For more than a decade Nina Baym has pioneered in the reexamination of American literature She has led the way in questioning assumptions about American literary history in critiquing the standard canon of works we read and teach and in rediscovering lost texts by American women writers Feminism and American Literary History collects fourteen of her most important essays published since 1980 which combining feminist perspectives with original archival research significantly revise standard American literary history In Part I Rewriting Old American Literary History the focus is on male writers Essays range from close readings of individual works to ambitious critiques of the main paradigms by which scholars have conventionally linked disparate texts and authors in a narrative of nationalist literary history the self in the wilderness myth the romance novel distinction the myth of New England origins Part II Writing New American Literary History studies examples of women s writing from the Revolution through the Civil War Stressing much overtly public and political writing that has been overlooked even by feminist scholars noting public and political themes in supposedly domestic works the essays substantially modify and historicize the paradigm by which premodern American women's writing is currently understood. The contentious and influential essays in Part III Two Feminist Polemics address feminist literary theory and pedagogy advocating a pluralist practice as the basis for scholarship criticism and humane feminism No one interested in American literature or in women's writing can afford to ignore Baym's revisionist work Humorous and gracefully written this book is enjoyable and indispensable Emancipatory Movements in Composition Andrea Greenbaum, 2012-02-01 Emancipatory Movements in Composition provides an overview of the four major disciplines that have for the last ten years influenced and guided the direction of composition studies Drawing on contemporary social and rhetorical theory this is the first cultural studies text deeply informed by classical rhetoric feminism and postcolonial studies Readable and engaging it merges theory and pedagogy providing a rubric for understanding critical pedagogy neosophistic rhetoric service learning and ethnographic research This self reflexive and critical book examines the ethical dimensions of partaking in liberatory learning practices in the contemporary composition classroom Theorizing Composition Mary Kennedy, 1998-06-25 The last 25 years have witnessed extraordinary growth in the academic specialization variously described as composition studies or rhetoric and composition What was noticeable about the field in its infancy was a preoccupation with practice a lack of emphasis on theory and an exclusive reliance on the writing process As its disciplinary status has grown the field has become far more theoretical Composition studies has expanded its focus reconceptualized the writing process and embraced a wide range of critical perspectives. The result of this change is that terms such as poststructuralism social construction gender and genre which were largely unknown in 1965 now dominate discussion This reference book is a guide to the multiplicity of theories that have emerged to form the disciplinary foundation of composition studies The volume consists of 66 entries each of which is written by an expert contributor and focuses on a particular theory or group of theories While the entries show how various individuals have contributed to theoretical movements very few concentrate on the work of a single theorist Each entry first provides a critical summary of a particular theory or group of theories including key elements basic concepts and claims and information about seminal or particularly influential works It then reviews the theory s critical reception in composition studies and discusses its significance in the field The bibliography at the end of each entry lists primary texts and major scholarship related to the theory and provides additional suggestions for further reading The volume closes with a selected bibliography of important works And The Politics Of Hope Henry Giroux, 2018-02-20 Henry A Giroux is one of the most respected and well known critical education scholars social critics and astute observers of popular culture in the modern world For those who follow his considerably influential work in critical pedagogy and social criticism this first ever collection of his classic writings augmented by a new essay is a must have volume that reveals his evolution as a scholar In it he takes on three major considerations central to pedagogy and schooling The first section offers Girouxs most widely read theoretical critiques on the culture of positivism and technocratic rationality. He contends that by emphasizing the logic of science and rationality rather than taking a holistic worldview these approaches fail to take account of connections among social political and historical forces or to consider the importance of such connections for the process of schooling In the second section Giroux expands the theoretical framework for conceptualizing and implementing his version of critical pedagogy His theory of border pedagogy advocates a democratic public philosophy that embraces the notion of difference as part of a common struggle to extend the quality of public life For Giroux a student must function as a border crosser as a person moving in and out of physical cultural and social borders He uses the popular medium of Hollywood film to show students how they might understand their own position as partly constructed within a dominant Eurocentric tradition and how power and authority relate to the wider society as well as to the classroom In the last section Giroux explores a number of contemporary traditions and issues including modernism postmodernism and feminism and discusses the matter of cultural difference in the classroom Finally in an essay written especially for this volume Giroux analyzes the assault on education and teachers as public intellectuals that began in the Reagan Bush era and continues today Henry A Giroux is one of the most respected and well known critical education scholars social critics and astute observers of popular culture in the modern world For those who follow his considerably influential work in critical pedagogy and social criticism this first ever collection of his classic writings augmented by a new essay is a must have volume that reveals his evolution as a scholar In it he takes on three major considerations central to pedagogy and schooling The first section offers Girouxs most widely read theoretical critiques on the culture of positivism and technocratic rationality He contends that by emphasizing the logic of science and rationality rather than taking a holistic worldview these approaches fail to take account of connections among social political and historical forces or to consider the importance of such connections for the process of schooling In the second section Giroux expands the theoretical framework for conceptualizing and implementing his version of critical pedagogy His theory of border pedagogy advocates a democratic public philosophy that embraces the notion of difference as part of a common struggle to extend the quality of public life For Giroux a student must function as a border crosser as a person moving in and out of physical cultural and social borders He uses the popular medium of Hollywood film to show students how they might understand their own position as partly constructed within a dominant Eurocentric tradition and how power and authority relate to the wider society as well as to the classroom In the last section Giroux explores a number of contemporary traditions and issues including modernism postmodernism and feminism and discusses the matter of cultural difference in the classroom Finally in an essay written especially for this volume Giroux analyzes the assault on education and teachers as public intellectuals that began in the Reagan Bush era and continues today
