Trees, People and Power Peter Utting, 2013-11-05 Behind the headlines about the loss of tropical forests in Latin America lies a complex and fascinating story of the social pressures which cause it Trees People and Power looks at the various groups interests and conflicts involved and explores the repercussions for forestry the environment and the livelihoods of the rural and urban poor Until the social and political dimensions of deforestation and forest protection schemes are understood measures to prevent or slow deforestation are likely to involve technical interventions which will prove ineffective in the long run and may well result in further impoverishment and environmental degradation Peter Utting takes a critical look at the experience of forest protection and tree planting in a number of countries and considers how social and political factors affect the feasibility of such schemes Many environmental projects and programmes have failed to balance concerns for the environment with those of human welfare Until they do it is unrealistic to expect any significant progress towards sustainable development Peter Utting is a senior researcher coordinator with the United Nations Research Institute for Social Development He is the author of Economic Adjustment under the Sandinistas UNRISD 1991 and Economic Reform and Third World Socialism Macmillan 1992 Originally published in 1993 Deforestation in the Postwar Philippines David M. Kummer, 1992-06 The only quantitative deforestation study to focus on one country this case analysis of the Philippines since 1946 yields more concrete data than previous cross national studies David Kummer's close examination of the interactions among political economic and cultural factors and their environmental consequences sheds light on similar situations in other countries The Literature of Forestry and Agroforestry Peter McDonald, J. P. Lassoie, 1996 Discusses the evolution of forestry and agroforestry and presents the core literature in these fields covering both traditional and emerging areas Topics include changes in forest science in the 20th century the development of agroforestry literature the role of professional societies and the US Tourism and China's Development Julie Jie Wen, Clement Allan Tisdell, 2001 A discussion of the economic reforms which have substantially altered the economic structure of China since 1978 Although focused on China the work deals with issues such as those involving the sustainability of tourism and convergence and divergence in regional tourism development Social-Ecological Diversity and Traditional Food Systems Ranjay Kumar Singh, Nancy J. Turner, Victoria Reyes-Garcia, Jules Pretty, 2021-11-29 This book draws on world wide experiences and valuable lessons to highlight community ecosystem interactions and the role of traditional knowledge in sustaining biocultural resources through community based adaptations The book targets different
