Sociogenetic Perspectives On Internalization:

Sociogenetic Perspectives on Internalization Brian D. Cox, Cynthia Lightfoot, 2013-05-13 The issue of how the external world becomes part of the behavioral repertoire of children has been important to psychology from its very beginning preoccupying theorists from Sigmund Freud to George Herbert Mead But ever since Lev Vygotsky claimed that every function in a child's activity appears first as a process in the social realm between individuals and moves to a process that individual children can accomplish relatively independently there has been increased debate as to exactly how this process of internalization happens In contemporary developmental psychology the process of internalization has become so important that the time is ripe for a book which explicitly addresses the problems it poses Although the chapters in this book deal with age groups from preschool to adolescence and topics from mathematics to storytelling and from taking risks to making moral judgments there is one core question which unifies them all If the growing competence of a child is truly sociogenetic if it truly grows out from is supported by and is dependent upon the social where is that competence truly located Bearing a variety of labels cultural historical co constructionist dialectical contextualist narrative hermeneutic and discursive psychologies and analytic constructs scaffolding proleptic instruction participation appropriation and situated activity contemporary perspectives are showing clear signs of development and differentiation This volume's goal is to help bring some order to these differences without denying either the usefulness of this variety or the importance of the differences among perspectives This new book illuminates these differences by collecting a select sample of theory and research into one of two major sections The first section includes work undertaken from a social interactive perspective The overarching aim is to identify processes of child-child or child-adult interactions as they emerge over relatively short periods of time Typically the methodology involves the microanalysis of videotaped interactions Development is situated literally within social interactions which are considered directly responsible for children's development The second section provides a sample of work representing a symbolic action perspective This one is not oriented toward social interactions but toward the symbolic meanings that they express and that children impose on them The dominant methodology is interpretive or hermeneutic and the goal is to articulate the figurative metaphoric processes and narrative structures that inhabit social actions and from which they draw their meaning and coherence

Sociogenetic Perspectives on Internalization Brian D. Cox, Cynthia Lightfoot, 2013-05-13 The issue of how the external world becomes part of the behavioral repertoire of children has been important to psychology from its very beginning preoccupying theorists from Sigmund Freud to George Herbert Mead But ever since Lev Vygotsky claimed that every function in a child's activity appears first as a process in the social realm between individuals and moves to a process that individual children can accomplish relatively independently there has been increased debate as to exactly how this process of internalization happens In contemporary developmental psychology the process of internalization has become so important that the time is ripe for a book which explicitly addresses the problems it poses

Although the chapters in this book deal with age groups from preschool to adolescence and topics from mathematics to storytelling and from taking risks to making moral judgments there is one core question which unifies them all If the growing competence of a child is truly sociogenetic if it truly grows out from is supported by and is dependent upon the social where is that competence truly located Bearing a variety of labels cultural historical co constructionist dialectical contextualist narrative hermeneutic and discursive psychologies and analytic constructs scaffolding proleptic instruction participation appropriation and situated activity contemporary perspectives are showing clear signs of development and differentiation This volume s goal is to help bring some order to these differences without denying either the usefulness of this variety or the importance of the differences among perspectives This new book illuminates these differences by collecting a select sample of theory and research into one of two major sections The first section includes work undertaken from a social interactive perspective The overarching aim is to identify processes of child child or child adult interactions as they emerge over relatively short periods of time Typically the methodology involves the microanalysis of videotaped interactions Development is situated literally within social interactions which are considered directly responsible for children s development The second section provides a sample of work representing a symbolic action perspective This one is not oriented toward social interactions but toward the symbolic meanings that they express and that children impose on them The dominant methodology is interpretive or hermeneutic and the goal is to articulate the figurative metaphoric processes and narrative structures that inhabit social actions and from which they draw their meaning and coherence

Participatory Learning
Chris Hermans,2003-07-01 In many respects children and youths receiving religious instruction in our culture resemble extraterrestrial beings doing an orientation course Religion and religiosity are unknown quantities which they have hardly encountered at home Religion seems something else something greater This book is a study of the foundations of religious education centered around six concepts religion in a globalizing society religious tradition religion the religious self learning through participation and interreligious learning

Handbook of Discourse Processes Arthur C. Graesser,Morton Ann Gernsbacher,Susan R. Goldman,2003-04-02 This Handbook is a comprehensive overview of the multidisciplinary field of discourse processes The editors hope to foster a more interdisciplinary approach to discourse processing with this Handbook while simultaneously developing an appreciation within the field for multiple methods of establishing rigorous scientific claims The field of discourse processes is currently fueled by seven dominant approaches discourse psychology corpus analysis computational discourse technologies conversation analysis hybrid qualitative and quantitative approaches and cultural foundations The contributors also discuss future trends in research including corpus analyses the integration of neuroscience with discourse research and the development of more advanced computer technologies for analyzing discourse

Children's Play, Pretense, and Story Susan Douglas, Lesley Stirling, 2015-12-21 At the heart of this volume is the recognition that children's engagement with play and story are intrinsically and intricately linked The contributing authors share a passionate interest in the development and well being of children in particular through their use of imagination and adaptation of the everyday into play and stories Following these principles the volume explores the connections between play story and pretense with regard to many cultural and contextual factors that influence the way these elements vary in children's lives In a departure from earlier collections on play and story the authors take a particular focus on normative as compared with atypical development This collection begins with an approach to understanding the developmental relationship between play and story which recognizes their similarities while acknowledging their differences Much of the collection addresses pretend play and story in children with autism spectrum disorder an understudied but important group for consideration as these dimensions of their lives and development have often been considered problematic The volume also includes sections on play and story in classroom settings and play and story across cultures including non English speaking environments such as Israel Romania China and Mexico It concludes with a discussion of how play differs across sociocultural and economic contexts making a unifying claim for the importance of play in children's lives but also calling for an understanding of what play means to very different groups of children

Talking to Adults Shoshana Blum-Kulka, Catherine E. Snow, 2002-04 The focus of this volume is on how language is used between adults and children The results is a volume that will appeal to readers in language development and narrative discourse Has the potential to become a classic graduate level text reference

Storytelling in Early Childhood Teresa Cremin, Rosie Flewitt, Ben Mardell, Joan Swann, 2016-12-08 Storytelling in Early Childhood is a captivating book which explores the multiple dimensions of storytelling and story acting and shows how they enrich language and literacy learning in the early years Foregrounding the power of children's own stories in the early and primary years it provides evidence that storytelling and story acting a pedagogic approach first developed by Vivian Gussin Paley affords rich opportunities to foster learning within a play based and language rich curriculum The book explores a number of themes and topics including the role of imaginary play and its dynamic relationship to narrative how socially situated symbolic actions enrich the emotional cognitive and social development of children how the interrelated practices of storytelling and dramatisation enhance language and literacy learning and contribute to an inclusive classroom culture the challenges practitioners face in aligning their understanding of child literacy and learning with a narrow mandated curriculum which focuses on measurable outcomes Driven by an international approach and based on new empirical studies this volume further advances the field offering new theoretical and practical analyses of storytelling and story acting from complementary disciplinary perspectives This book is a potent and engaging read for anyone intrigued by Paley s storytelling and story acting curriculum as well as those practitioners and students with a vested interest in early years literacy and language learning With contributions from Vivian Gussin Paley Patricia Patsy Cooper Dorothy Faulkner Natalia Kucirkova Gillian Dowley McNamee and Ageliki Nicolopoulou

Warriors and Worriers Joyce F. Benenson, 2014-02 In Warriors and Worriers psychologist Joyce Benenson presents a new theory of sex differences based on thirty years of research with young children and primates around the world In this exciting exploration of human nature Benenson thus turns upside down the familiar wisdom that women are more sociable than men and that men are more competitive than women

The Oxford Handbook of Identity Development Kate C. McLean, Moin U. Syed, 2015 Identity is defined in many different ways in various disciplines in the social sciences and sub disciplines within psychology The developmental psychological approach to identity is characterized by a focus on developing a sense of the self that is temporally continuous and unified across the different life spaces that individuals inhabit Erikson proposed that the task of adolescence and young adulthood was to define the self by answering the question Who Am I There have been many advances in theory and research on identity development since Erikson s writing over fifty years ago and the time has come to consolidate our knowledge and set an agenda for future research The Oxford Handbook of Identity Development represents a turning point in the field of identity development research Various and disparate groups of researchers are brought together to debate extend and apply Erikson s theory to contemporary problems and empirical issues The result is a comprehensive and state of the art examination of identity development that pushes the field in provocative new directions Scholars of identity development adolescent and adult development and related fields as well as graduate students advanced undergraduates and practitioners will find this to be an innovative unique and exciting look at identity development

Blending Spaces Arnd Witte, 2014-10-09 This book comprehensively analyzes the development of interculturally blended third spaces by the second language learner beginning with the linguistic and sociocultural imprints of the first language and culture on the mind and culminating in the proposal of a phase model of the development of intercultural competence The foundational analysis of L1 mediated constructs is followed by an analysis of forms interaction concepts of identity and constructs of culture interculture thus shifting the object of analysis from the subjective to the intersubjective levels of construction and interaction The focus of the book is on the gradual development of interculturally blended third spaces in the mind of the learner as genuinely new bases for construction This book takes an interdisciplinary approach drawing on research in cultural psychology linguistic anthropology critical theory language acquisition and second language learning and shows how culture and interculture need to be emphasized as an integral part of second language learning Narrative Development Michael Bamberg, 2012-11-12

Growing out of an International Society of the Study of Behavioral Development sponsored symposium this book discusses the basic assumptions that led the contributors to conduct research in the field of narrative development This collection gathers their research reflections and varying approaches to narrative and its development It illustrates each type of approach and highlights their respective motives The book presents some of the basic motivating assumptions of each approach and provides insight into what holds each set of assumptions together potentially transforming them into actions This book will serve as an excellent text for courses emphasizing multiple approaches to the study of narrative The editor has organized this volume in accordance with the six main points of the symposium Specification of the Domain how narratives are defined in terms of textual structures knowledge thereof interactive moves sociocultural conventions and the like The Individual's Involvement in the Developmental Process the relationship between some internal or external forces and the organism's own active participation in the developmental process The Course of Development if it is continuous or discontinuous whether it proceeds in an additive fashion or whether regressive phases occur and what changes at different points in the developmental process signify The Goal of Development the implicit notion of a telos a target or end point that needs to occur in the developmental process Mechanisms of Development the forces and or conditions that both instigate the developmental process and keep it moving toward its telos Methodology where and how to look in the establishment of a developmental framework This book is an indispensable text in the fields of narrative and or discourse linguistics language studies psychology and education in general Computer Supported Collaborative Learning 2005 Timothy Koschmann, 2017-10-03 The Computer Supported Collaborative Learning CSCL conference has become an internationally recognized forum for the exchange of research findings related to learning in the context of collaborative activity and the exploration of how such learning might be augmented through technology This text is the proceedings from CSCL 2005 held in Taipei Taiwan This conference marked the 10th anniversary of the first CSCL Conference held at Indiana University in 1995 Subsequent meetings have been held at the University of Toronto Stanford University University of Maastricht Netherlands University of Colorado at Boulder and the University of Bergen Norway Just as the first CSCL conference was instrumental in shaping the trajectory of the field in its first decade the conference in Taipei will play an important role in consolidating an increasingly international and interdisciplinary community and defining the direction of the field for the next 10 years This volume and the papers from which it is comprised will be an important resource for those active in this area of research and for others interested in fostering learning in settings of collaboration Parental Psychiatric Disorder Michael Göpfert, Jeni Webster, Mary V. Seeman, 2004-05-13 A unique and innovative approach to family issues in psychiatric disorders The authors tackle a broad range of complex issues that are rarely covered in the depth or with the expertise that this volume brings This book is a major contribution to the field and provides the kind of international perspective that enhances our understanding of the complex dimensions of psychiatric disorders from a multigenerational and cross cultural perspective From a review of the first edition by Carol Nadelson Professor of Psychiatry Harvard Medical School It is indisputable that mental illness in a parent has serious and often adverse effects on the child something which is surprisingly unreflected in clinical service provision In this completely rewritten second edition an international multidisciplinary team of professionals review the most up to date treatment interventions from a practical clinical point of view It is essential reading for all professionals dealing with adult mental illness and child care

Changing Conceptions of Psychological Life Cynthia Lightfoot, Michael Chandler, Chris Lalonde, 2004-09-10 Changing Conceptions of Psychological Life is an interdisciplinary look at personal constructions of self This book is a product of the 30th Annual Meeting of the Jean Piaget Society The contributing authors constitute the original cast invited to speak on the theme of how individuals come to construe psychological lives their own and others Their concerns are how our sense of ourselves emerges developmentally culturally and historically and the implications such constructions have for personal social and political change Together the authors compose an international and interdisciplinary group of scholars well regarded for their work on topics as diverse as adolescence language aging romance and morality Creating a level of discourse about selves and mind and how they have been and should be studied the volume is broken down into four parts Part I includes work that is principally concerned with elevating the position of our experience of ourselves in constructing who we are The next section focuses on the corrections presumed to exist between the conceptions of self and the conceptions of mental life Each chapter offers additional information on the dynamics of temperament attachment personality and regulation Part III is concerned with cultural contexts that frame developing conceptions of self and mental life Finally the last section situates conceptions of mental life directly and dramatically in the social contexts of their making Readers will find in these pages a programmatic effort variously attuned to selves and minds as dynamic and structured present and represented felt and known non language and storied and embodied and theorized The volume is suitable for certain upper level undergraduate and graduate seminars dealing with clinical cognitive cultural and developmental matters and sought out by active researchers and practitioners in the field

Handbook of Classroom Management Carolyn M. Evertson, Carol S. Weinstein, 2013-10-31 Classroom management is a topic of enduring concern for teachers administrators and the public It consistently ranks as the first or second most serious educational problem in the eyes of the general public and beginning teachers consistently rank it as their most pressing concern during their early teaching years Management problems continue to be a major cause of teacher burnout and job dissatisfaction Strangely despite this enduring concern on the part of educators and the public few researchers have chosen to focus on classroom management or to identify themselves with this critical field The Handbook of Classroom Management has four primary goals 1 to clarify the term classroom management 2 to demonstrate to scholars and practitioners that there is a distinct body of knowledge that directly addresses teachers managerial tasks 3 to bring together disparate lines of research and encourage conversations across different areas of inquiry and 4 to promote a vigorous agenda for future research in this area To this end 47 chapters have been organized into 10 sections each chapter written by a recognized expert in that area Cutting across the sections and chapters are the following themes First positive teacher student relationships are seen as the very core of effective classroom management Second classroom management is viewed as a social and moral curriculum Third external reward and punishment strategies are not seen as optimal for promoting academic and social emotional growth and self regulated behavior Fourth to create orderly productive environments teachers must take into account student characteristics such as age developmental level race ethnicity cultural background socioeconomic status and ableness Like other research handbooks the Handbook of Classroom Management provides an indispensable reference volume for scholars teacher educators in service practitioners and the academic libraries serving these audiences It is also appropriate for graduate courses wholly or partly devoted to the study of classroom management

Thinking in Psychological Science Jaan Valsiner, 2017-12-02 This book explores the development of ideas in psychology's past It is the initial volume in a series intended to shape such ideas into a valuable resource for the discipline's future Scientists in general are known to ignore their own history considering it to be a graveyard of failures In Thinking in Psychological Science selected ideas of key figures in the cognitive comparative and developmental sides of psychology Karl Duncker Karl Bihler Tamara Dembo Zing Young Kuo C Lloyd Morgan Alexander Chamberlain and Arnold Gesell are traced and the social contexts of their ideas are given a collective analysis focusing on the potential of these ideas for the present state of psychology Representing the scientist as hero has become a necessary component when applying for research monies from governmentally controlled funding agencies Yet the reality is just the opposite Science is not just the product of heroes it is the product of many individuals who often search for solutions to basic problems throughout their lifetimes while only a few arrive at breakthroughs Still familiarity with the flow of thought in the efforts to solve the basic problems of humankind is necessary for any understanding of creativity This book analyzes the processes involved in the search for solutions to major theoretical problems of development Kuo Gesell action and cognition Bihler Bunker Dembo and methodology Morgan Ultimately this is an exciting volume that reveals real science in the making Thinking in Psychological Science will be of interest to students of the social sciences and intellectual history It is ideal for graduate and upper level undergraduate courses in psychology the sociology of science and cognitive science
