Abstract

Motivation is essential in learning a foreign language. Understanding how learners learn and what motivates and demotivate them will help the teachers, policy makers and curriculum planners .The study investigated the various reasons/motivations of the Sudanese Learners of English language based on Dörnyei soci-educational model& Gardner's of Second Language(L2) Self System. The main question the paper tried to answer was what types of motivations of Sudanese L2 learners have? . A sample of 35 students were asked their opinions on what motives them in studying English by means of a questionnaire. The result of the study showed that the majority of the participants (95%) had an extrinsic motivations i.e external factors for studying language, namely instrumentally-promotion and parental encourage and family influence .Also, Ideal L2 had significant role in Sudanese learners, as 85% of the learners responded to the questionnaire items that assessed this factor. The study also showed that the ought L2 self has the lowest impact on the students learners, only 55% of learners .The other factors /motivations that were tested in the study showed less influence on Sudanese learners but yet they are important to consider by teachers.

1. INTRODUCTION

The Motivation for studying English has always been a focus in language research and, for many researchers, considered a critical factor in learning a foreign language (Wigfield & Eccles, 2000; Wigfield & Guthrie, 1997). Motivation is goal-directed Sanae (. 2021, as cited in Barrett & Bartunek, 2004). As it has a powerful impact on the learners, the absence of motivation in the learning process likely leads to failure. The Area of motivations in the L2 research in L2 consider relatively new. Starting early 90s with Gardner's soci-educational model(1985-2001-2005) to Dörnyei's L2 motivational Self-system (2005, 2009, see also Dörnyei & Ushioda, 2011).

Motivation is defined as the set of processes that involve the arousal, direction, and sustaining of behavior (conduct) (cf. Madrid, 1999): Motivation energizes human behaviour and "gives it direction" (Dörnyei, 1998, p. 117). In the context of foreign language learning, motivation has

Grammatical gender and linguistic complexity I Francesca Di Garbo,Bruno Olsson,Bernhard Wälchli,2020-08-05 The many facets of grammatical gender remain one of the most fruitful areas of linguistic research and pose fascinating questions about the origins and development of complexity in language The present work is a two volume collection of 13 chapters on the topic of grammatical gender seen through the prism of linguistic complexity The contributions discuss what counts as complex and or simple in grammatical gender systems whether the distribution of gender systems across the world s languages relates to the language ecology and social history of speech communities Contributors demonstrate how the complexity of gender systems can be studied synchronically both in individual languages and over large cross linguistic samples and diachronically by exploring how gender systems change over time In addition to three chapters on the theoretical foundations of gender complexity volume one contains six chapters on grammatical gender and complexity in individual languages and language families of Africa New Guinea and South Asia This volume is complemented by volume two which consists of three chapters providing diachronic and typological case studies followed by a final chapter discussing old and new theoretical and empirical challenges in the study of the dynamics of gender complexity Fighting Words
