Re-Reading the Eighteenth-Century Novel Jakub Lipski, 2021-08-12 Re Reading the Eighteenth Century Novel adds to the dynamically developing subfield of reception studies within eighteenth century studies Lipski shows how secondary visual and literary texts live their own lives in new contexts while being also attentive to the possible ways in which these new lives may tell us more about the source texts To this end the book offers five case studies of how canonical novels of the eighteenth century by Daniel Defoe Henry Fielding and Laurence Sterne came to be interpreted by readers from different historical moments Lipski prioritises responses that may seem non standard or even disconnected from the original appreciating difference as a gateway to unobvious territories as well as expressing doubts regarding readings that verge on misinterpretative appropriation The material encompasses textual and visual testimonies of reading including book illustration prints and drawings personal documents reviews literary texts and literary criticism The case studies are arranged into three sections visual transvaluations reception in Poland and critical afterlives and are concluded by a discussion of the most recent socio political uses and revisions of eighteenth century fiction in the Age of Trump 2016 2020

The English Novel, Vol I Richard W. F. Kroll, 2014-07-21 The English Novel Volume I 1700 to Fielding collects a series of previously published essays on the early eighteenth century novel in a single volume reflecting the proliferation of theoretical approaches since the 1970s The novel has been the object of some of the most exciting and important critical speculations and the eighteenth century novel has been at the centre of new approaches both to the novel and to the period between 1700 and 1750 Richard Kroll's introduction seeks to frame the contributions by reference to the most significant critical discussions These include the question of whether and how we can talk about the rise of the novel the vexed question of what might constitute a novel the relationship between the novel and possibly competing genres such as history or the romance the relationship between early male writers like Defoe and popular novels by women in the early eighteenth century the general ideological role played by novels relative to eighteenth century culture are they means of ideological conscription or liberation poststructuralist analyses of identity and gender and the emergence of sentimental and domestic codes after Richardson Since the modern European novel is often thought to have been formed in this period these debates have clear implications for students of the novel in general as well as for those interested in the early enlightenment Headnotes place each essay within the map of these wider concerns and the volume offers a useful further reading list Taken as a whole this collection encapsulates the state of criticism at the present moment

Backgrounds to Restoration and Eighteenth-Century English Literature, 1989-02-21 In this time of proliferating scholarship one of the most welcome publications is this intelligently selected and annotated bibliography of secondary material Understanding the value of selectivity Spector has limited his entries to books and significant articles Perhaps because of his avowed interest in redefining the period he has been careful to include articles on historiography and critical method which apply to the eighteenth century He has not however slighted the older works of twentieth century scholarship A valuable resource not only to students of literature and related fields but to anyone interested in learning about the eighteenth century Analytical philosophy science aesthetics education and language in addition to literary criticism The author begins with a thoughtful examination of the history of Restoration eighteenth century scholarship Divided into 22 subject categories the bibliography presents annotated listings of existing bibliographic sources and noteworthy books and articles published since the late 1920s This authoritative new work allows the reader to explore the cultural climate that influenced the activity of writing and to understand the complex forces that shaped the period and its literature The bibliography is an appropriate choice for literary reference collections in academic and public libraries

The English Novel, 1700-1740 Robert Letellier, 2003-02-28 The English novel written between 1700 and 1740 remains a comparatively neglected area In addition to Daniel Defoe whose Robinson Crusoe and Moll Flanders are landmarks in the history of English fiction many other authors were at work These included such women as Penelope Aubin Jane Barker Mary Davys and Eliza Haywood who made a considerable contribution to widening the range of emotional responses in fiction These authors and many others continued writing in the genres inherited from the previous century such as criminal biographies the Utopian novel the science fictional voyage and the epistolary novel This annotated bibliography includes entries for these works and for critical materials pertinent to them The volume first seeks to establish the existing studies of the era along with anthologies It then provides entries for a wide ranging selection of works which cover fictional theoretical historical political and cultural topics to provide a comprehensive background to the unfolding and understanding of prose fiction in the early 18th century This is followed by an alphabetical listing of novels their editions and any critical material available on each The next section provides a chronological record of significant and enduring works of fiction composed or translated in this period The volume concludes with extensive indexes

Families of the Heart Ann Campbell, 2022-11-11 In this innovative analysis of canonical British novels Campbell identifies a new literary device the surrogate family as a signal of cultural anxieties about young women s changing relationship to matrimony across the long eighteenth century By assembling chosen families rather than families of origin Campbell convincingly argues female protagonists in these works compensate for weak family ties explore the world and themselves prepare for idealized marriages or sidestep marriage altogether Tracing the evolution of this rich convention from the female characters in Defoe s and Richardson s fiction who are allowed some autonomy in choosing spouses to the more explicitly feminist work of Haywood and Burney in which connections between protagonists and their surrogate sisters and mothers can substitute for marriage itself this book makes an ambitious intervention by upending a traditional trope the model of the hierarchal family ultimately offering a new lens through which to regard these familiar works

The New Eighteenth Century Felicity Nussbaum, Laura Brown, 2025-05-01 First published in 1987 The New Eighteenth Century now with a new preface by Felicity Nussbaum and Laura Brown examines eighteenth century English literature s resistance to the application of new theoretical approaches and presents new work by leading scholars which both challenges this resistance and demonstrates the usefulness of feminist Marxist new historicist and psychoanalytic approaches to the analysis of eighteenth century texts This book reinterprets and resituates canonical works by such writers as Fielding Goldsmith and Sterne but also explores areas and figures increasingly important to eighteenth century study It opens questions about the canon and about the nature of canonicity itself as it considers texts by women working class literature guidebooks for bourgeois tourists and aspects of the cultural and social terrain including problems of race and colonialism capitalism and penal institutions The New Eighteenth Century not only provides new ways of looking at the literature of the period but serves as a model for future work in eighteenth century studies

The Cure of the Passions and the Origins of the English Novel Geoffrey Sill, 2006-11-02 This new study examines the role of the passions in the rise of the English novel Geoffrey Sill examines medical religious and literary efforts to anatomize the passions paying particular attention to the works of Dr Alexander Monro of Edinburgh Reverend John Lewis of Margate and Daniel Defoe novelist and natural historian of the passions He shows that the figure of the physician of the mind figures prominently not only in Defoe s novels but also in those of Fielding Richardson Smollett Burney and Edgeworth
