need to be expanded into new areas cross cultural racial and ethnic and global and environmental issues as well as the concerns of persons with disabilities Bioethics has neglected important ethical controversies that are most often discussed in primary care such as patient centered care evidence based medicine and pay for performance Brody concludes by considering the tension between bioethics as contemplative scholarship and bioethics as activism He urges a more activist approach insisting that activism need not cause a premature end to ongoing conversations among bioethicists defending widely divergent views and theories
