The Pilots of Thunderbird Field: Where Aviation Legacies Took Flight. 1941-1945 and Beyond Scott Weaver, 2024-06-30 Spread your wings and explore 60 years of aviation history told by third generation pilot Lt Col Scott R Weaver An unique story never told before about his grand father flight instructor Leo Purinton and his family history starting in World War II continuing through Vietnam and ending in the Gulf War In 1998 Tom Brokaw used the phrase The Greatest Generation when he wrote his book by the same title Some thought it was a catchy marketing phrase Read my story and I think you'll agree that this generation was indeed

The Greatest Generation Thunderbird Field is part of America's storied aviation history. It was considered a training base that was steeped in multicultural tradition with student pilots from America, Canada, Britain, Argentina, and China. In late 1930s, another World War in Europe was inevitable. The German Air Force had amassed over 20,000 pilots and trained the largest reserve of pilots ever in the history of mankind. Simultaneously, Japanese Army Air Service was wrecking havoc throughout Asia, mainly China. It was in the late 1940s that the leadership of the United States and the US Army Air Corps General Hap Arnold saw the desperate need for skilled aviators. With only a handshake between General Arnold and Leland Hayward and Jack Connelly, Southwest Airway founders planned for the nation's first civilian flight training center in Phoenix, Arizona.

Revising Moves Christina LaVecchia, Allison Carr, Laura Micciche, Hannah Rule, Jayne Stone, 2024-04-22. Revision sometimes seems more metaphor than real, having been variously described as a stage, an act of goal setting, a method of correction, a process of discovery, a form of resistance. Revising Moves makes a significant contribution to writing theory by collecting stories of revision that honor revision's vitality and immerse readers in real life circumstances and scenes where revision comes to life. In these narrative-driven essays written by a wide range of writing professionals, Revising Moves describes revision as a messy, generative and often collaborative act. These meditations reveal how revision is both a micro practice tracked by textual change and a macro phenomenon rooted in family life, institutional culture, identity, commitments, and political and social upheaval. Contributors depict revision as a holistic undertaking and a radically contextualized, distributed practice that showcases its relationality to everything else. Authors share their revision processes when creating scholarly works, institutional and self-promoting documents, and creative projects. Through narrative, the volume opens a window to what is often unseen in a finished text: months or years of work-life events that disrupt or alter writing plans, multiple draft changes, questions about writerly identity and positionality, layers of sometimes contradictory feedback, and much more.

The Art and Craft of Asian Stories Robin Hemley, Xu Xi, 2021-09-23. An all-in-one craft guide and anthology, this is the first creative writing book to find inspiration and guidance in the diverse literary traditions of Asia. Including exemplary stories by leading writers from Japan, China, India, Singapore, and beyond, as well as those from Asian diasporas in Europe and America, The Art and Craft of Asian Stories offers an exciting take on the traditional how-to writing guide by drawing from a rich new trove of short stories beyond the western canon which readers may never have encountered before. Whilst still taking stock of the traditional elements of story such as character, viewpoint, and setting, Xu and Hemley let these compelling stories speak for themselves to offer readers new ideas and approaches which could enrich their own creative work. Structured around the themes encountered in the stories such as race and identity, history and power, family and aspirations, this text is a vital companion for writers at all levels keen to develop and find new perspectives on key elements of their craft. Written by two internationally successful writers and teachers, each chapter contains complete short stories and writing exercises for practice and inspiration.

Jonah: An Earth Bible Commentary Jione Havea, 2020-04-16 Jione Havea analyses the Book of Jonah through the lens of climate change using this present situation to reconsider the significance of Jonah for contemporary struggles and contexts and tapping into traditional practices of commentary to draw out the meaning of the biblical text Havea takes Jonah 3:10 as a starting point in which God repents and rethinks, decides not to destroy, taking this as a challenge and an opportunity for biblical scholars to reflect on the realities of climate change Havea builds on this opportunity in two ways: first by reading Jonah forward, giving special attention to the orientation of the narrative toward the sea and Nineveh, and then backward, highlighting the significance of sea and land lives to the flow of the narrative. Second, by looking at the other figures in the narrative rather than focusing on the narrator's obsession with Jonah and his God, Havea reminds readers that the fish, plant, worm, and other beasts are also crucial in this narrative and considers how this can change our reading of the text.
