Talismans And Trojan Horses:

Talismans and Trojan Horses Christopher A. Faraone, 1992 Greek legends and historical accounts contain many references to special statues or images designed to preserve the safety or livelihood of a city a business or a house These images which fall into two often overlapping categories talismans and apotropaia were erected according to special rituals and took on a variety of intriguing forms including lions locusts and bound effigies of destructive deities like Ares Looking closely at a wide variety of Greek texts and artifacts Faraone provides a detailed description and survey of these images and then uses this information to provide new interpretations of early Greek myths about Pandora the Trojan Horse and the living statues created by Hephaestus At each step he sets the Greek evidence in a wider eastern Mediterranean context with detailed discussions of Near Eastern and Egyptian practices that bear close resemblance to the Greek rituals The study closes with a re evaluation of the traditional scholarly approach to religious art as purely representational suggesting that some images instead of simply illustrating the power of a god were actually created to restrain and control the power of inimical supernatural forces such as plague gods and ghosts Focusing renewed attention on these often misinterpreted talismans and apotropaia Talismans and Trojan Horses will be illuminating for scholars and students of classics art and archaeology religion the Ancient Near East the Bible and mythology

Persistent Forms Ilya Kliger, Boris Maslov, 2015-12-14 Since the mid 1980s attempts to think history and literature together have produced much exciting work in the humanities Indeed some form of historicism can be said to inform most of the current scholarship in literary studies including work in poetics yet much of this scholarship remains undertheorized Envisioning a revitalized and more expansive historicism this volume builds on the tradition of Historical Poetics pioneered by Alexander Veselovsky 1838 1906 and developed in various fruitful directions by the Russian Formalists Mikhail Bakhtin and Olga Freidenberg The volume includes previously untranslated texts of some of the major scholars in this critical tradition as well as original contributions which place that tradition in dialogue with other thinkers who have approached literature in a globally comparatist and evolutionary historical spirit The contributors seek to challenge and complement a historicism that stresses proximate sociopolitical contexts through an engagement with the longue dure of literary forms and institutions In particular Historical Poetics aims to uncover deep historical stratifications and asynchronicities in which formal solutions may display elective affinities with other chronologically distant solutions to analogous social and political problems By recovering the traditional nexus of philology and history Persistent Forms seeks to reinvigorate poetics as a theoretical discipline that would respond to such critical and intellectual developments as Marxism New Historicism the study of world literature practices of distant reading and a renewed attention to ritual oral poetics and genre
