A Picture of Guilt James Brownley, 2007 The first of a new mystery series When journalist Alison Glasby gets the opportunity to work with Fleet Street legend Bill Davenport she jumps at the chance Four children were killed in Norfolk in 1969 murdered by Leonie Dellar and Bill Davenport covered the case When Glasby finds a photograph of one of her victims that Dellar had hidden Davenport wants Glasby off the story now What is it about the murders that he doesn't want her to know

The Picture of Guilt Libby Fischer Hellmann, 2003 On Guilt, Responsibility, and Punishment Alf Ross, 1975-01-01 Selected essays originally published as a book in Danish in 1970 Three had been published before then in English but the others are new All deal with concepts common to law and morality They function in the same way in legal and moral discourse guilt determines responsibility and responsibility punishment But the conditions under which a person incurs guilt differ according to whether the guilt is legal or moral as do also the manner in which the responsibility takes effect and the penal reaction itself Cf Preface page v

The Life and Death of Images Diarmuid Costello, Dominic Willsdon, 2008 The 1990s witnessed a return to aesthetics but one that stressed the independent claims of beauty in reaction to its perceived suppression by ethical and political imperatives Beauty however is just one aspect of the aesthetic In recent years increasing attention has been paid to the ways in which aesthetics and ethics are intertwined In The Life and Death of Images some of the world's leading cultural thinkers engage in dialogue with one another concerning this beta new gamma aesthetics In provocative and accessible fashion they demonstrate its relevance to a range of disciplines including analytic and continental philosophy art history theory and practice cultural history and visual culture rhetoric and comparative literature

The Revealing Image Joy Schaverien, 2021-11-18 Schaverien painstakingly describes and defines processes which have so far only been intuitively known to art therapists p6 by introducing and elaborating the psychoanalytical concepts of transference and countertransference in relation to the use of visual art objects The authors stated intention in this book is to attempt to bridge the perceived gap between the practice of art therapy and analytical forms of psychotherapy p 229 The epistemological base of this venture includes the fields of philosophy anthropology and aesthetics as well as psychoanalysis Schaverien suggests that analytical art psychotherapy is a way of working analytically with patients who are unsuitable or unready for psychotherapy giving examples of psychotic and borderline patients children and patients in psychiatric settings This is primarily a book about an analytical approach within art therapy which may be of interest in itself The material also raises issues of interest to analysts and psychotherapists whether or not they work with art in the clinical setting The book clarifies areas of similarity between the disciplines and also makes areas of difference apparent For example most analysts would agree that visual art like dream material and other non verbal representations of the inner world can at times articulate and communicate meanings which for one reason or another cannot be verbally articulated at the time and that this can be pertinent to the aim of analysis However I think few analysts would include facilities in their consulting rooms for the kind of art processes described in the book When the analyst is working with materials in this form the book will be extremely helpful in sorting out the complexity of the transference situation and the role of interpretation The book is so strongly grounded in experiences emerging in the presence of actual art processes and objects that I think it will be of most interest to those who are interested in the specific clinical issues involved in relating to the making and use of actual art objects within the setting Schaverien not only describes the processes involved in detail but also presents technical approaches to the making and handling of art objects within the setting which will inform the capacity of those who are not trained as art therapists to relate to this kind of material in the consulting room
