Politics and Poetica of Rights in Modern Iran Behzad Zerehdaran, 2024-03-29 This book delves into the history of subjective rights within the context of 19th century Iran specifically during the eventful Qajar era The crux of its research lies in the emergence and evolution of the concept of subjective rights as opposed to the notion of objective rights During this pivotal period this transition marked a paradigm shift from right as to be right to right as to have a right A central pillar of this book is the creation of a meta theory one that sheds light on the semantical evolution of the concept of rights Within these pages readers will find a concise history tracing the conceptual path that led from the objective to the subjective realm of rights In addition to these historical explorations it delves into the intricate field of rights theory investigating the foundations and justifications of rights Employing the Hohfeldian framework it analyses various conceptions of rights as they manifest within travel literature enlightenment literature and dream literature of the Qajar era This book will be of interest to scholars and students with an interest in Iranian studies Iranian history Persian literature and human rights The Concert of Civilizations Jeremy Kleidosty, 2016-03-09 Are Western and Islamic political and constitutional ideas truly predestined for civilizational clash In order to understand this controversy The Concert of Civilizations begins by deriving and redefining a definition of constitutionalism that is suitable for comparative cross cultural analysis The rule of law reflection of national character and the clear delineation and limitation of governmental power are used as lenses through which thinkers like Cicero Montesquieu and the authors of The Federalist Papers can be read alongside al Farabi ibn Khaldun and the Ottoman Tanzimat decrees Bridging the civilizational divide is a chapter comparing the Magna Carta with Muhammad s Constitution of Medina as both documents can be seen as foundational within their traditions For the first time in political theory this text also provides a sustained detailed analysis of Khayr al Din al Tunisi s book The Surest Path which explains his fusion of Muslim and Western ideas in his writing of Tunisia s first modern constitution which is also the first constitution for a majority Muslim state Finally the book discusses the Arab Spring through a brief overview of the revolutions in Egypt Libya and Tunisia and offers some early thoughts about Tunisia s uniquely successful revolution The Political Dimensions of Religion Saïd Amir Arjomand, 1993-08-03 This volume explores the relationship between religion and politics. It brings a varied sample of richly detailed comparative and case studies together with a set of analytical paradigms in an integrated framework. It is a major statement on a timely subject and a plea for the acknowledgment of normative pluralism as firmly rooted in the history of religion. The editor shows that the fact of political diversity in the history of world religions compels the acceptance of pluralism as a normative principle. Muhammad and the Origins of Islam Francis E. Peters, 1994-01-01 An inquiry into the religious environment of the person Muslims hail as the Envoy of God and an attempt to trace his progress along the path from paganism to that distinctive form of monotheism called Islam. Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1997. Whitaker's Books in Print, 1998. Women and Islamization Karin Ask, Marit Tjomsland, 2021-01-07 The current Islamic revival is frequently associated with fundamentalism and radical politics. This reinforces Western perceptions of Islamic women as victims of a sexist and reactionary rule. What many outsiders fail to realize is that quite a number of Muslim women are ardently embracing their religion as a means through which they can express gender identity, power and creativity. In overturning ingrained notions of Muslim women's subjugation, this timely book situates Islam as a religion undergoing reinterpretation and change, especially in relation to gender identities, rather than as a monolithic movement reacting against westernization and modernization. Through their political, educational and recreational activities, more and more Muslim women are setting agendas of their own and are actively redefining the role of women in Muslim society. Islam and Competing Nationalisms in the Middle East, 1876-1926 Kamal Soleimani, 2016-06-15 Opposing a binary perspective that consolidates ethnicity, religion and nationalism into separate spheres, this book demonstrates that neither nationalism nor religion can be studied in isolation in the Middle East. Religious interpretation, like other systems of meaning production, is affected by its historical and political contexts, and the processes of interpretation and religious translation bleed into the institutional discourses and processes of nation building. This book calls into question the foundational epistemologies of the nation state by centering on the pivotal and intimate role Islam played in the emergence of the nation state, showing the entanglements and reciprocities of nationalism and religious thought as they played out in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century Middle East.
