Social Planning And Human Service Delivery In The Voluntary Sector:

Social Planning and Human Service Delivery in the Voluntary Sector Gary A. Tobin, 1985-11-19 Faith-Based Initiatives and Aging Services James W. Ellor, F. Ellen Netting, 2012-12-06 Gain an understanding of the increased role religious congregations now play in providing social support to the elderly. Religious congregations and faith-based organizations from the Jewish, Christian, and Islamic traditions have worked on behalf of older adults for centuries. But the initiation of President Bush's Office of Faith-Based Initiatives has raised many questions from both the traditional secular and sectarian services as well as many nontraditional services found in each community. Faith-Based Initiatives and Aging Services addresses the issues of the separation of church and state, the concerns involved in developing social services in religious congregations, and the larger public policy implications of this office. This unique book offers perspectives from traditional and nontraditional faith-based groups as well as experts in volunteerism. The enactment by Congress of the Charitable Choice section of the federal welfare reform law combined with the creation of the Center for Faith-Based and Community Initiatives in the United States Department of Health and Human Services to signal a high level of interest in supporting faith-based organizations. Faith-Based Initiatives and Aging Services focuses on the specific applications of services provided by religious congregations. Editors F. Ellen Netting and James W. Ellor conducted an in-depth interview with Elizabeth Seal Scott, then Director of the Center for Faith-Based and Community Initiatives; an edited transcript of the interview is included in the book to help promote understanding of the development and implementation of faith-based grass roots programs. Faith-Based Initiatives and Aging Services examines the separation of church and state, Baptist perspectives on faith-based initiatives and religious liberty, managing older volunteers, faith organizations and ethnically diverse elders, the heritage of religion and spirituality in the field of gerontology, faith-related agencies and their implications for aging services, the role of religious congregations in the social service system. Faith-Based Initiatives and Aging Services is an essential resource for anyone interested in developing programs for older adults in religious congregations, for human services staffs seeking to work with faith-based initiatives, and for government workers in need of a better understanding of faith-based services in their community.

Handbook of Community Psychology Julian Rappaport, Edward Seidman, 2012-12-06 As a field progresses people write about their own work in journals chapters and books but periodically the work needs to be collected and organized It needs to be brought together in a format that can both introduce new members to the field and reacquaint continuing members with the work of their colleagues Such a collection also affords an opportunity for the growing number of people with particular expertise to provide a reference for others whose work is related but differs in focus This is the first Handbook of Community Psychology It contains contributions from 106 different authors in addition to our editorial introductions Its thirty eight chapters including two that are divided into multiple individually authored parts are concerned with conceptual frameworks empirically grounded constructs intervention strategies and tactics social systems design assessment and analysis cross cutting professional issues and contemporary intersections with community psychology Although interrelated each chapter stands on its own as a statement about a particular part of the field and the volume can serve as a reference for those who may want to explore an area about which they are not yet familiar To some extent community psychologists eschew the distinction between researcher and practitioner and regardless of one's primary work environment university small college practice setting government or grassroots organization there is something of interest for anyone who wants to explore the community psychology approach
