post human lineage Mapping Reality Jane Azevedo,1997-01-30 With postmodernism and postructuralism sweeping the social sciences and humanities a whole generation of students from disciplines as diverse as history English literature philosophy sociology and anthropology are learning that truth is bogus a tired old liberal humanist fiction Language is incapable of telling the truth and science nothing but a socially constructed discourse functions to maintain the status quo There is much to be said for this point of view but ironically relativists face precisely the same quandary for if all claims to knowledge are equally valid then de facto the knowledge claims of the most powerful are the ones disseminated and acted upon This timely book offers a way out of the current realist relativist impasse Azevedo uses the insights of evolutionary epistemology to develop a naturalist realist methodology of science the mapping model of knowledge and applies it to solving the conceptual practical and ethical problems faced by sociology as a discipline The model is developed from the practice of the natural sciences and comes with an easily applied and powerful heuristic based on mapping filling the gap left by the downfall of positivist and empiricist methodologies It shows the inescapably social nature of science but argues that scientific theories can in fact be validated in perspective neutral ways not despite the social and interest driven nature of science but because of it Applied Sociology for Nurses Shama Lohumi,Rakesh Lohumi,2022-12-15 This book has been written

Schmid,Franz M. Wuketits,1987-10-31 In retrospect the 19th century tmdboubtedly seems to be the century of evolutionism The discovery of time and therewith the experience of variability was made by many sciences not only historians worked on the elaboration and interpretation of this discovery but also physicists geographers biologists and economists demographers archaeologists and even philosophers The successful empirical fotmdation of evolutive processes by Darwin and his disciples suggested Herbert Spencer s vigorously pursued efforts in searching for an extensive catalogue of prime and deduced evolutionary principles that would allow to integrate the most different disciplines of natural and social sciences as well as the efforts of philosophers of ethics and epistemologists Soon it became evident however that the claim for integration anticipated by far the actual results of these different disciplines Darwin's theory suffered from the fact that in the beginning a hereditary factor which could have his theory could not be detected while the gains of genetics supported in the social sciences got lost in consequence of the completely ahistorical or biologicistic speculations of some representatives of the evolutionary research programme and common socialdarwinistic misinterpretations Society Ian Robertson,1989 This concise elegantly written paperback volume on the essential elements of sociology is perfect as the sole textbook for a brief introductory course or as a core text to be supplemented with other readings Sociology David M.
