The refurbishment of existing buildings is a crucial yet often neglected subject within sustainable architecture attention is usually focused on new buildings Many old buildings waste large amounts of energy and provide poor internal conditions for occupants through poor lighting poor ventilation solar penetration and glare and poor control of heating and cooling Demolition is an option but the refurbishment alternative is increasingly seen as more sustainable in terms of architectural value materials use neighbourhood disruption and waste disposal In addition the potential impact of low energy refurbishment is much greater than that for new build since there are many more buildings already in existence than will be built in the next 10 20 years the period over which many CO2 emission targets apply The Handbook of Sustainable Refurbishment Non Domestic Buildings offers architects engineers and a wide range of building professionals practical advice illustrated by real examples It moves from principles of sustainable refurbishment to specific design and engineering guidance for a variety of circumstances It emphasises the need for an integrated approach by showing how refurbishment measures interact with one another and with the occupants and how performance is ultimately influenced by this interaction
