Tyler, 2016-01-08 I AM going to tell you a story that was told to me when I was a little one and which I like better and better the oftener I think of it For it is with stories as with some men and women the older they grow the pleasanter they grow and that is delightful Of course you have been into the country Well then you must have seen a regularly poor old cottage Moss and weeds spring up amid the thatch of the roof a stork's nest decorates the chimney the stork can never be dispensed with the walls are aslant the windows low in fact only one of them can be shut the baking oven projects forward and an elder bush leans over the gate where you will see a tiny pond with a duck and ducklings in it close under a knotted old willow tree Yes and then there is a watch dog that barks at every passer by Just such a poor little cottage as this was the one in my story and in it dwelt a husband and wife Few as their possessions were one of them they could do without and that was a horse that used to graze in the ditch beside the highroad The good man rode on it to town he lent it to his neighbors and received slight services from them in return but still it would be more profitable to sell the horse or else exchange it for something they could make of more frequent use But which should they do sell or exchange Why you will find out what is best good man said the wife Isn't this market day Come ride off to the town get money or what you can for the horse whatever you do is sure to be right Make haste for the market People and Places Here and There [microform] Mara Louise
