Strategic Assessment In War

Scott Sigmund Gartner

Strategic Assessment In War:

Strategic Assessment in War Scott Sigmund Gartner, 1999-01-01 How do military organizations assess strategic policy in war In this book Scott Gartner develops a theory to explain how military and government leaders evaluate wartime performance how much they change strategies in response to this evaluation and why they are frequently at odds when discussing the success or failure of strategic performance Blending history decision theory and mathematical modeling Gartner argues that military personnel do reevaluate their strategies and that they measure the performance of a strategy through quantitative dominant indicators But different actors within a government use different indicators of success some will see the strategy as succeeding when others see it as failing because of their different dominant indicators Gartner tests his argument with three case studies the British shift to convoys in World War I following the German imposition of unrestricted submarine warfare the lack of change in British naval policy in the Battle of the Atlantic following the German introduction of Wolf Packs in World War II and the American decision to deescalate in Vietnam after the Tet Offensive He also tests his approach in a nonwar situation analyzing the Carter Administration s decision to launch the hostage rescue attempt In each case his dominant indicator model better predicts the observed behavior than either a standard organization or an action reaction approach

Cronin, 2009 Provides an overview of eight broad trends shaping the international security environment a global analysis of the world s seven regions to consider important developments in their distinctive neighborhoods and an examination of prospective U S contributions military capabilities and force structure national security organization alliances and partnerships and strategies Strategic Assessment in War Scott Sigmund Gartner, 1992 Strategic Assessment National Defense University. Institute for National Strategic Studies, 1995 World View: The 1995 Strategic Assessment from the Strategic Studies Institute, 1995 Each January the regional analysts at the Strategic Studies Institute SSI U S Army War College assess global trends that are likely to determine the state of the world through the next decade From these assessments study proposals are devised which focus on those issues and trends impacting on the requirements for maintaining America s Army as a strategic force during the coming years In 1995 the analysts at SSI estimate that 14 major determinants will significantly influence the Army s posture U S interests and national military strategy The debate between the services pertaining to roles admissions will continue

Fiscal constraints will necessarily exacerbate the competition over roles and missions as each service tries to define its parameters in the wake of political change an uncertain and constantly evolving international situation and the ongoing Revolution in Military Affairs RMA The Army will articulate and refine its vision as a strategic force for the 21st century as it re engineers itself into Force XXI Fiscal constraints will also continue to drive national priorities Added to the budgetary restraints will be the uncertainties accompanying the changes in the political leadership in Congress where Republicans have replaced Democrats as chairs of all committees in both the House and Senate U S forces will continue to be used in Military Operations Other Than War MOOTW However ongoing emphasis on peacekeeping and peace enforcement operations in consonance with United Nations and other coalition partner swill cause the debate on the efficacy of this kind of use of U S force to intensify The Caribbean will remain troublesome as the political and economic crisis in Cuba deepens In Haiti rising expectations will not be matched with socioeconomic progress and frustrations could well foster violence as the time for withdrawal of U N peacekeeping forces nears
